Textile Authority Plans Regulation Body Is Named.

Oil and Coal Men Ask Similar Units

First U. S.-Labor-Business Group Hailed as Big Recovery Step.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

The National Recovery Administration drew nearer to control of prices of commodities as the President's emergency reemployment drive was formally launched yesterday with a nation-wide fanfare.

The scream of the Blue Eagle, symbol of the economic recovery program, echoed in multiplying approval from the four corners of the country.

Messages of approval and pledges of cooperation continued to pour in to the National Industrial Recovery headquarters, where scores of officials and expert advisers sought still speedier action on codes for specific industries.

Huge Work Piles Up.

As codes, hearings, conferences followed one on the heels of another, recovery officials found themselves constantly brought face to face with the question of controlling production and prices.

Having already approved a "planning and supervisory" committee for the cotton textile industry, the administration was confronted with demands from oil and coal producers and others for special organizations to control their industries.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, will head the Government's representatives on the cotton control committee. He described the committee as "the first industrial self-government body" which shall "constitute the Cotton Textile Code Authority."

Wide Scope of Authority.

"Regulation of the industry's practices—including sales of merchandise, uniform accounting, use of machinery, hours and wages, arrangement for credit, exceptions under the code—come within the scope of the Cotton Textile Authority," the administration said.

Deputy Administrator Nelson Slater and Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the labor advisory board, were named to serve with Gen. Johnson as representatives of the Government.

"Today's appointments establish the first 'partnership of Government, industry and labor' actually at work in an industry under a recovery act code," Gen. Johnson said.

Control of prices, he told reporters later, can only be achieved through control of production. That has been the purpose of several proposals submitted by industries for official approval.

Strong Regulation Foreseen.

Codes for the government of other industries are expected to provide for committees which shall have strong powers of regulation, although Gen. Johnson has been careful to talk around the question of price fixing whenever it has been brought to a point. He had a price-fixing provision eliminated from the oil code.

"You can't control the price of a commodity unless you control supply and demand," he said in explanation. "Control of production will mean control of prices, but any control of prices means that there has got to be fixed a maximum price for the protection of the consumers."

Efforts at price-fixing in the past have been failures in the United States except during the World War, he said. During the war the Government undertook a similar, but a more drastic, program for the control of industry and business which it now proposes to speed the return to and maintainance of economic recovery.

The hosiery industry joined the recovery march, submitting a code

4 Believed Dying; Hit by Lightning

Lewiston, Me., Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Four members of the reforestation army stationed here were perhaps fatally injured, a dozen more hurt, and nearly 20 others were stunned when lightning struck a recreation tent at City Farm, near here, tonight.

Ferdinand La Fratta, of Madison; Edward Aikens, of Springfield, Mass., and Louis Nasby, of Lawrence, Mass., showed no signs of life as doctors, police and firemen worked over them with pulmotors. It was believed they had little chance of being revived. Benjamin Schwartz, of Monson, Mass., was breathing, but his name was placed on the danger list.

Emergency wards in Lewiston hospitals were crowded with the other victims, but none was believed critically hurt.

Probers Find Tax Evasion By Big Dairy

Firm Is Alleged to Have Escaped Thousands in Property Levies.

Intensive Investigation of Other Corporations Believed Due.

Evasions of District personal property taxes, running into the thousands of dollars over a four-year period, have been uncovered by the special milk investigating committee in examining books of a large national dairy corporation here.

This was learned exclusively last night by The Washington Post as heralding a probable intensive investigation by District authorities of all national corporations having connections here.

The firm involved in the purported evasions maintains an approximate bank balance of $200,000, it was learned. It has kept that sum for the past four years.

On June 30 of each year, it was revealed, a check for the major portion of the account is sent to a New York banking house. This reduces the taxable sum on July 1 to only a few thousand dollars.

Queried late last night as to potentialities arising from the milk committee's disclosures, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride denied knowledge of the revelations.

"If such a thing is going on, however," he said, "I will begin an immediate and thorough study of evidence presented."

Elwood H. Seal, assistant corporation counsel and head of the milk probers, likewise refused to confirm the reported evasions.

Investigators approaching a number of District bankers have found signs indicating other large firms show considerable and sudden withdrawals at significant times, it was learned authoritatively by The Post.

It was pointed out last night by legal authorities that evasion of taxes might not constitute grounds for criminal action, though steps could be taken to recover unpaid levies.

However, it was declared, if an actual conspiracy to evade taxes could be proved, the matter would take an immediate and more serious turn.

Parachute Saves Flier 6,000 Feet Above City

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 1 (AP).—Johnny Livingston, Aurora, Ill., speed flier, escaped injury here late today when he was forced to jump with his parachute from his disabled plane, 6,000 feet over Port Columbus, municipal airfield.

The plane, badly damaged, was found 4 miles north of Gehanna, a small town near the port.

Strike Peace Plans Signed After Fights End in Killing

2000 Union Guides Join National Guardsmen to Curb Pickets.

Miners Routed By Guns and Gas

Score Wounded in Clash Between Deputies and Workers.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 1 (AP).—A new force to preserve peace and order entered the western Pennsylvania soft coal strike areas today by an agreement between Gov. Pinchot and officials of the United Mine Workers of America.

"Union guides," about 2,000 strong and backed by the authority of the local miners' unions, will join National Guardsmen and local police to insure that agreements curbing the activity and number of pickets, and the character of marchers and parades are "faithfully observed."

Gov. Pinchot, who spent four hours in conference with leaders while a hot sun kept the mercury around the 100 mark, was enthusiastic about the pact.

"No such step as this has ever been taken before," he said. "I'm greatly delighted with it because it assures a new kind of cooperation to establish peace and good order in the strike districts."

Brownsville, Pa., Aug. 1 (AP).—One striker was killed and more than a score wounded today as deputy sheriffs with guns and tear gas turned back pickets during a day of turmoil in the State's troubled soft coal fields, where a strike spread to more than 30,000 miners.

Fighting broke out at four mines. Casualties included nine men wounded by bullets, five seared by tear gas and others injured by stones.

Louis Podorsky, 28, died of injuries received in a clash at the Colonial No. 3 mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Co.

The disorders flared after National Guardsmen were withdrawn from patrol duty by their commander, who was represented as feeling the strike area is too vast to be patrolled by his force of 325 men.

Guardsmen are encamped on a hill overlooking Brownsville, in readiness for emergencies and riots.

The first clash occurred early in the day at the Colonial No 3 mine. Several shots were fired from an automobile which broke through a highway picket line backed by 1,300 men and women. Podorsky—the first fatality of the strike—was wounded along with Ben Brown, 45.

Sprayed With Tear Gas.

Later, two strikers were burned by tear gas, sprayed upon them by four men as they advanced with 200 pickets toward the same mine.

The most serious disturbance occurred at the Star Junction mine, where six men were shot in a brush with deputy sheriffs. Pickets said the trouble started after they stopped several men going to work in the pits. Bullets sprayed nearby houses. Pickets were made ill by tear gas.

Near the Buffington mine several

Married Clerks' Jobs Loom; Civil Service Drops But 1,123

Two New Reemployment Agencies to Be Set Up in District.

By Robert C. Albright.

The Civil Service Commission yesterday prepared to revise its whole system of reemployment, in line with the Attorney General's decision legalizing rehiring of married workers in the new Federal emergency agencies.

The increasing complex problem will be solved by setting up two separate reemployment registers—one for old-line civil service agencies and one for the new emergency units, Harry B. Mitchell, chairman of the commission, said last night.

Chairman Mitchell said the first list will be substantially the same as the present reemployment pool, and will be drawn on whenever requests come in from the departments and independent agencies having civil service status.

Into the second list will be sifted the names of married workers dismissed from the service because their husbands or wives also are in the Government. Requests for job applicants coming in from the new emergency units, particularly the National Industrial Recovery Administration, will be filled from this pool.

Chairman William F. Stevenson, of the Home Loan Bank Board and the Home Owners Loan Corporation, one of the larger of the new emergency agencies, yesterday reiterated that civil service status, while it will have weight, will not be the determining factor in making appointments to that agency.

Both Secretary of Commerce Roper, chairman of the board of the NRA, and Secretary of Interior Ickes, administrator of Public Works, have announced they will follow the President's wishes.

Working Force in Capital Reduced to 65,437 at End of June.

Contrary to alarming reports during the Roosevelt economy campaign for drastic reduction in personnel in Government departments, at which time it was estimated 3,000 to 5,000 persons would be separated from the civil service in Washington, it was revealed yesterday that only 1,838 persons were discharged during June and 712 were hired, a net decrease of 1,123 jobs.

First authentic information of the full extent of the dismissals during the disastrous month preceding the new fiscal year was disclosed yesterday by the Civil Service Commission in a tabulation made public by the commission.

It revealed that the total Civil Service working force in Washington at the close of June was 65,437.

Outside of Washington, separations reached the formidable total of 24,610, but as 17,259 additional appointments were made, the net loss in the field numbered only 7,351. The total number of Civil Service employees on the rolls at the close of the month, both in Washington and in the field, was 565,432.

The Commerce Department led all Washington agencies in the number of separations in June, with 331. The Navy was next with 259; the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, next, with 184; and the General Accounting Office next, with 139.

There were 101 in the War Department; 121 in Interior; 96 in the Treasury; 87 in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; 80 in the Interstate Commerce Commission, and 63 each in the Justice Department and the Farm Credit Administration.

2 Die of Heat, 20 Prostrated; Relief in Sight

Third Hottest Day of Year Sends Temperature to 98 Degrees.

Two persons are dead and a score prostrated from the three-day heat wave in Washington.

John D. Gavos, 55, 3021 Cambridge place northwest, was electrocuted by exposed wires when he collapsed in an elevator at 2 Dupont Circle yesterday.

George F. Burch, 60, died at his home, 136 Twelfth street northeast, of a heart attack superinduced by the heat, according to Dr. Rogers Young, of Casualty Hospital, who pronounced Burch dead.

August was ushered in yesterday with 98 degrees of withering fire and a brief afternoon of work for several thousand perspiring Government employees.

The weatherman, however, promised a break today in the torrid spell. Thundershowers are forecast, accompanied by a drop in temperature.

Washington's 98 reading at 3:15 p. m. was as high as any recorded along the Atlantic northern seaboard. It was matched by Newark, which reported one death from the heat, and Baltimore, where there were seven prostrations. Although several of the cases here were admitted to hospitals, none is expected to result fatally.

Many Clerks Dismissed.

More than 2,000 workers in the Treasury Department alone were excused between 1 and 2 p. m. The Liberty Loan Annex building sent home about 700 clerks of the Loans and Currency Division; Register's Office, 350; Supervising Architect's Office, 500; Bureaus of Industrial Alcohol and Customs, 500; and Coast Guard about 100.

Hundreds in the Navy Department were released before 2 p. m., about 100 in the Prohibition Bureau were let out shortly after 1 o'clock, and as many employees in the State Department as could be spared were excused at the same time.

Smaller numbers were dismissed early in other departments and independent offices.

The Capital sweltered in the not-so-gay 90s of the mercury yesterday between 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. without a letup. Leaving the 80s before 10 o'clock, when the reading was 92, the mercury rose steadily to its zenith shortly after 2 p. m. and then fell slowly until at 8 p. m. 89 degrees were recorded.

Humidity was lowest, 51, when the weather was hottest. At 8 p. m. it had climbed to 67 as the temperature dropped.

Close to June 9 Record.

The first day of August fell short by 1 slim degree of the mark of 99 which made July 1 unbearable. June 9, two weeks before the arrival of summer, and its reading of 100 still holds the record for 1933.

The list of heat victims, most of whom were discharged after hospital treatment, follows:

Miss Mary Pristole, 1111 Fourteenth street northwest, prostrated near Police Headquarters; Herbert Devine, overcome on construction job at North Capitol and G streets; Landon Harris, colored, 1253 Union street southwest, at work; Milton Bozier, colored, overcome at home, 131 Florida avenue northwest.

Also George Nelson, colored, overcome at Tenth street and Florida avenue northwest; Howard Jackson, 1317 I street northwest, collapsed at Twenty-first and H streets northwest; Maggie Jackson, colored, overcome in laundry of Hamilton Hotel; George Payne, colored, overcome in rear of 607 Girard street northwest.

Also Maggie Bowling and Janie Kind, both colored, overcome at Eighth and Euclid streets; James Howard, 41 G street southwest; Mrs. Eva Raba, overcome in lobby of Carlton Hotel where she is in charge of the telegraph office.

Mrs. Raba was taken to her home in Boulevard Heights, Md., and placed under a physician's care.

Dozens of others, it was estimated, suffered heat exhaustion and were treated by ambulance surgeons who responded or by family physicians.

$2,500,000 Fire Makes 5,000 French Jobless

Lille, France, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Five thousand persons were thrown out of work and 23,000 bales of cotton were destroyed today when fire razed one of the world's largest cotton warehouses here.

Damage was estimated at 50,000,000 francs (about $2,500,000).

Peery Wins Governor's Nomination In Virginia

Two Opponents Concede Tazewell Man Victory.

Has 64,546 Lead Over Nearest Foe

Buries "Antimachine" Opposition 4 to 1 Over State.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 1 (AP).—An avalanche of votes that swept aside all opposition tonight gave George C. Peery, former chairman of the State Corporation Commission, the Democratic nomination for Governor of Virginia.

Peery, who had the backing of the strong Democratic organization in his primary fight with State Senator W. Worth Smith, of Louisa, and Joseph T. Deal, of Norfolk, buried his "antimachine" opponents beneath a landslide of ballots.

With Peery leading his nearest opponent by almost 4 to 1 after 1,303 of the State's 1,685 precincts had reported, Smith and Deal issued statements conceding the victory to the Tazewell opponent.

Fulfills Promise.

At that time the vote stood: Peery, 88,542; Deal, 23,996; Smith, 22,806.

The unexpected size of the majority more than fulfilled Peery's promise to poll more votes than his opponents combined and seemed likely to come close to another promise to carry each of the State's former congressional districts. Smith was leading in the eighth.

Peery jumped into an early lead soon after the sunset gun had unleashed the first reports from small precincts.

As the larger voting places were heard from the Tazewell candidate pulled rapidly away from the field, scoring heavily in all sections of the Old Dominion, and particularly in his native Southwest, where his margin in some cases was as much as 20 to 1.

Takes Foes' Counties.

Not only did he carry his own county of Tazewell by an overwhelming margin, but carried Princess Anne County, Deal's home, by 925 to 500, and was leading in Senator Smith's home county, Louisa, by 485 to 419, on the basis of returns from all but two small precincts.

The only contest was for second place, with Deal and Smith waging a nip and tuck battle that went first one and the other into the van as the compilation continued into the night.

Deal moved quickly into second place soon after the polls closed. He was overtaken and passed by Smith, who in turn saw his plurality cut down by the Norfolk candidate. The lead shifted several times as new precincts were heard from. The vote by counties:

Amelia County, complete: Deal, 54; Peery, 370; Smith, 327.

Cruiser Bids Under Attack By Trammell

Shipbuilders Knew Who Would Be Lowest, Says Senator.

Cites Figures Submitted for Similar Ships in 1931 and 1932.

(Associated Press.)

Rejection of all bids received last Wednesday by the Navy Department for construction of three cruisers was urged last night by Chairman Trammell of the Senate Naval Committee in a letter to President Roosevelt charging that the bidders had advance information on rival offers.

The letter, a copy of which went to Secretary Swanson, said the senator had been informed the four bidders knew in advance what the offers would be and that the position of each of the shipbuilders "would be protected by the remaining shipbuilders."

He named the bidders as the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, the New York Shipbuilding Co., the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., and United Dry Docks, Inc.

Text of Letter.

The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. President:

"I have been quite interested in analyzing the bids opened by the Navy Department on July 26, 1933, which were submitted by the shipbuilders on naval construction. I believe a thorough study of the matter should be made

"On September 16, 1931, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation bid for one 1,500-ton destroyer $2,728,500.

"On July 26, 1933, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation bid for an identical destroyer $2,670,000, or a decrease in price of $58,500.

"On December 14, 1932, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation bid for one 8-inch gun (heavy) 10,000-ton cruiser, $8,196,000.

"On July 26, 1933, Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation bid for the same cruiser $11,720,000, or an increase in price of $3,524,000.

"There appear to have been but four bidders on cruisers and eight on destroyers. Gulf Industries, Inc., of Pensacola, Fla., appears to have submitted bids on the destroyers.

Protected by Bids.

"It is my information that, in addition to the facts outlined above, it was known in advance which of the four concerns bidding on the cruisers would be low on each of the several items, and it appears to have been known in advance that the position of each of the said shipbuilders would be protected by bids submitted by the remaining shipbuilders, for instance:

"Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, $11,720,000.

"New York Shipbuilding Co., $12,100,000.

"Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., $13,800,000.

"United Dry Docks, Inc., $14,800,000.

"The bid of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation on the two

Judge Luhring Signs Order In Post Suit

Enjoins Times and Herald From Using Comics Except on Aug. 6.

Justice Luhring, of the Supreme Court of the District, yesterday signed an order enjoining and restraining the Washington Times Co., pending a final hearing of the case, from publishing "The Gumps," "Winnie Winkle," "Gasoline Alley," "Dick Tracy" and articles by Dr. Evans and Westbrook Pegler in the Washington Times or the Washington Herald, except in the issue of Sunday, August 6, 1933.

The order also, subject to this exception and pending final hearing, restrains the Times company from distributing its newspapers containing these features and from in any wise interfering with the exclusive rights of The Washington Post Publishing Co. under a contract dated February 9, 1932, between The Washington Post Co. and the Tribune Co., of Chicago.

Brooklyn Bridge Fire Laid to Intense Heat

The blaze was confined to about 20 feet of treated planking in the center of the Brooklyn-bound vehicular lane. The fireboat William Strong steamed to a point directly below the fire and erupted a geyser of water, while two crews of landgoing apparatus attacked it from the bridge level. Traffic was tied up half an hour. Spontaneous combustion was blamed.

Arkansas Formally Ratifies Repeal Vote

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 1 (AP).—A State convention of county delegates today formally carried out the mandate of the recent repeal election in Arkansas by instructing the Secretary of State to certify this State's ratification of the proposed twenty-first amendment to the Federal Constitution which would repeal the eighteenth (prohibition) amendment.

On a roll-call vote of delegates, 42 votes were cast for repeal and 15 against, with 18 delegates absent or not voting.

Estimates Exceed Biggest in History

Tokyo's Most Extensive Naval Maneuvers to Be Held Secretly.

Tokyo, Aug. 1 (AP).—Japanese army and navy chiefs today presented estimates for the 1934-35 defense expenditures, larger than any in previous history and 45 per cent greater than the appropriation for the current year.

The estimates, which were submitted to the finance ministry for inclusion in the imperial budget now being drafted, included 180,000,000 yen ($50,400,000 at current exchange rates), for new naval construction, and 75,000,000 yen ($21,000,000) for modernization of capital ships.

The navy ministry asked for the fiscal year, beginning next April 1, the sum of 680,000,000 yen ($190,400,000), which is 30 per cent more than the estimates of 1921-22, the largest previous estimates for the sea forces. In that year, Japan extended herself to compete with the United States and Great Britain in capital ships as the Washington Limitations Conference approached.

Motivated by U. S.

The Navy building program of the Roosevelt administration was believed by Japanese and foreign authorities here to be the primary motivating influence in Japan's projected increase in marine fighting power. The diplomatic isolation of Japan and friction with several Western powers as a result of the Manchurian trouble and Japan's leaving the League of Nations was given as a second potent reason.

(Bids were opened by the Navy Department last Thursday for the greatest shipbuilding program in American history. The complete program calls for 32 ships of which contracts were awarded for 21, calling for immediate construction. When the present American construction program has been completed and those vessels which become over age before 1936 have been replaced, the United States Navy will still be only 204,000 tons under the limits imposed by the London treaty.)

It was authoritatively reported that the record estimate submitted by the army ministry calls for 560,000,000 yen ($156,800,000). This would insure that the present budget of 2,300,000,000 yen ($644,000,000), with a deficit of 1,000,000,000 ($280,000,000), will be exceeded.

The combined army and navy demands total 1,240,000,000 yen ($347,000,000), a figure 45 per cent larger than the current appropriation.

Whereas usually the other ministries present a determined resistance to any move for swelling army and navy appropriations, finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi has said that the naval estimates will be given precedence because portions of the construction program had been postponed in previous years.

Provides Treaty Tonnage.

The Japanese naval program is designed to provide the entire tonnage authorized under the London Treaty when that accord expires in 1936. The estimated expenditure between April 1, 1934, and March 31, 1937, is 670,000,000 yen ($187,600,000).

For these three years it is proposed that the construction program include two 8,500-ton, 6-inch gun cruisers; two 10,000-ton aircraft carriers; 14 destroyers of 1,400 tons; six submarines, and one 5,000-ton

More Foreign Bureaus Planned by Japanese

Tokyo, Aug. 1 (AP).—Because of the increasing importance of American nations in Japan's foreign relations, the foreign office is planning to establish a new bureau to handle dealings with them.

Former Veteran Bureau Head, C. R. Forbes, Salesman Here

Once in Prison for Graft, He Has Written Book on Colorful Life.

Col. Charles R. Forbes is back in Washington.

Laying aside politics, he has become a salesman of glass coffee pots, peddling them to hotels and restaurants.

Another high light in his checkered career is his recent completion of a book which will be published soon.

Forbes held the Nation's spotlight when as director of the Veterans' Bureau he was sentenced to two years in Leavenworth Penitentiary in 1926 on charges of graft and mismanagement of Veterans' Bureau funds.

Robust and showing no signs of his prison life, Forbes is making the rounds of local hotels and restaurants selling and demonstrating his coffee pots. The pots are manufac-

Bankers Urged By Roosevelt To Back NRA

R. F. C. Head Cites President's Stand; Plans to Extend Added Credit.

(Associated Press.)

With the full approval of President Roosevelt and the Treasury, Chairman Jones, of the Reconstruction Corporation, last night asked the Nation's banks to aid in the "back to work" movement by expanding credit.

At the same time, Mr. Jones asserted in an address that repayments of $710,000,000 of corporation loans was evidence that the country was "inherently sound and recovery well under way." He said the big lending agency stood ready to inflate the working capital of the banks by purchasing preferred stock in sound ones.

At the conclusion of his speech, Mr. Jones read a letter from President Roosevelt indorsing what he said "about the need for credit and about cooperation in the general scheme of 'everybody back to work.'"

"I congratulate the many bankers who have safely steered their institutions through the troubles of the past four years," the President's letter said, "but credit must be made available to all classes of our citizens if business is to be reestablished on a permanent workable basis.

Roosevelt Lauds Plan.

"Your plan to provide banks with new and added capital, by the purchase of preferred stock on such fair terms as those outlined, will enable them to extend this credit without fear of their positions.

"It is also interesting to know—as the bankers will appreciate—that this can be done with no added tax burden and at no cost to the public treasury."

Mr. Jones said there was no shortage of ready money or bank liquidity and that the policy of "forced liquidation" of loans should cease and credit should begin moving into business channels.

"The coffers of the big banks are filled with Government securities, cash balances in the Federal Reserve and otherwise," he said, "which indicates that they are still waiting to see if the things which people own and have to offer as security for loans have any real value as a basis of credit.

"A banker may argue that he has no applications for loans that he can afford to make, but that same banker is proabbly continuing the policy of converting his loans into cash or Government securities. This policy of forced liquidation should cease and borrowers not only given time to work out their problems but encouraged to take an active part in the recovery program.

Bankers Not Blamed.

"No one blames a banker for wanting to pay his depositors upon demand and I am not finding fault, but merely calling attention to the fact that if banks are to be run on such a liquid basis as to be able to pay their depositors on demand, there will be no credit for business—and that simply stops the works."

To encourage banks to strengthen their positions and function as in normal times, Mr. Jones said the corporation was prepared to "match capital dollars with any sound bank that can use additional capital to advantage."

"The corporation will do this by buying preferred stock, to pay 5 per cent cumulative dividends, payable semiannually out of net earnings," he said. "If dividends are not earned they will accumulate, but not be payable except from net earnings."

He said a billion dollars, or even a half billion dollars, of added bank capital "can be multiplied many times in the extension of credit."

He said the plan of retirement together with the low dividend rate should make it possible for nearly all of the preferred stock sold to the corporation to be fully amortized in 20 years without depriving the stockholders of dividends on their common stock.

"This can be done without increasing the tax burden," he added. "The Government will be copartner with the banks with a limited return of 5 per cent, which is well above the cost of money to the Government, but an attractive rate to banks that can use added capital."

Hold-up Men Take $100,000 Jewelry

Miss $265,000 Articles in Haste to Leave Rhode Island Shop.

Newport, R. I., Aug 1 (U.P.).—Two bandits walked into an exclusive jewelry shop here late today, held up a clerk and escaped with $100,000 in diamond rings, bracelets, and other jewelry.

Mrs. Henry B. H. Ripley, society leader, of Newport and New York, had just departed when the men came into the Bellevue avenue shop of Thomas Kirkpatrick, New York jeweler.

After ordering a clerk to stand back or "you will be shot," they scooped up the jewelry which he had been showing to Mrs. Ripley, and escaped in an automobile.

In their haste the bandits overlooked a $200,000 diamond and emerald bracelet in the safe, and a $65,000 ring that the clerk was replacing in a show case when ordered to "stand back."

W. I. Snyder Reinstated In D. C. Veterans' Post

William I. Snyder, who recently resigned as District war veterans' service officer, yesterday was reinstated by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Public Welfare Director George S. Wilson.

Snyder resigned at the end of the last fiscal year because his wife held a position in the Federal Government. She has since lost that job, it was explained.

With Roosevelt at Hyde Park

"That's Bully," Says President, Pleased That Home-Town Business Is on the Upgrade; Friends See Traces of Weariness in Executive's Face.

By Lawrence Sullivan.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 1.—"That's bully!" the President exclaimed when Mayor Alexander Caven of Poughkeepsie, told him today that business is on the upgrade in Dutchess County.

Poughkeepsie is the county seat and the principal business city of the mid-Hudson area. Retail trade has been picking up appreciably, about two months behind the increase in local factory employment. During the last days the county charity rolls have been reduced 1,200 cases.

"That's bully; I'm awfully glad to hear it! That's really good news," the President said.

Mayor Caven is a Republican, but he and Mr. Roosevelt have been cordial friends for years. The President's inquiry regarding business conditions in the home town came when the mayor called at Krum Elbow to pay his respects.

Jack Siegel, proprietor of the People's Store, was the first employer of Poughkeepsie to return a signed National Recovery Pledge. He sent the covenant to Postmaster Conklin a few minutes before President Roosevelt's special arrived at Hyde Park last Saturday. No N. R. A. emblems are available in Poughkeepsie, but Mrs. Roosevelt has one posted on her Val Kill furniture shops, on the eastern edge of the estate. She posted it a day ahead of the formal opening of the campaign. Her shops now employ 11 men in the manufacture of colonial reproductions.

"How about that new corn field?" a visitor asked President Roosevelt when he espied a newly tassling patch near the summer White House. "Haven't you reduced acreage under the Wallace plan?"

"Yes, that is a new patch," the President said jovially. "But I don't think we've increased our production. We never raise more than enough to feed the stock, and we never sell any."

Mr. Roosevelt also has reduced cotton acreage on his Georgia farm, but did not take the Government bounty.

The case of Sammy Sammartino, cleaner and dyer, of Wappingers Falls, 9 miles downstream, has been a live topic here. Racketeers, it appears, have been sniping at the local cleaning and dyeing industry for several months, but the first outbreak of violent sabotage coincided with President Roosevelt's return here and at the moment a new Nation-wide drive against racketeering started in Washington.

Saturday Sammartino was operating a presser when an explosion within the presser nearly dismantled his establishment. Sammy was bruised. Many suits were ruined. Wads of T. N. T. cotton-gum had been sewn into the pants.

Mlle. Marthe Oulie, one of the French delegates to the recent International Congress of Women, at Chicago, may enlist Mrs. Roosevelt's support in her effort to have the French flag removed from "The Streets of Paris," one of the side-show attractions at the Century of Progress Exposition.

Mlle. Oulie, a leader in the radical feminist movement in France, was Mrs. Roosevelt's guest at Val Kill cottage. She described Chicago's interpretation of Paris night life as "not even artistic burlesque."

"The girls in the show are not French girls," she said, "and one does not see in Paris such—how do you say?—carry on!

"It is just a side-show. I am very sorry to see such an exhibit under the flag of France. It is—how do you say it?—honky tonk."

Old friends remark that President Roosevelt's features reflect the strain under which he has labored since March. But they have seen Neighbor Roosevelt thus many times before—after strenuous State campaigns or sessions of the New York Legislature. They are confident that a week or two in these surroundings will find him restored. His program calls for two or three hours of swimming and sunning every afternoon in his open-air pool.

Output and Cost Regulation Near with a 40-hour work week in productive occupations and a 40-hour six-month average for office workers. Plant operations were limited to two 40-hour shifts per week. In full-fashioned plants the shift limit was fixed at 36 hours. Wages ranged from $17 to $27.50 a week in the North and from $15.50 to $24.75 in the South for skilled classes. The scale drops to $13 and $12 in the North and South, respectively, for others. Hearings will begin August 10.

The salt industry submitted a code providing for a work week ranging from 40 to 48 hours, with wages of 20 to 35 cents an hour.

As retailers put into effect the temporary code approved for them the day before, druggists sought exemption by submitting a separate one. A 40-hour work week has been approved for all retailers other than food dealers. There seemed no disposition to give druggists a longer week, except possibly for their pharmacists who may be classed as professionals.

The lime industry submitted a code. It provided a 40-hour week and fixed minimum wages at 25 and 35 cents.

Other Discussions Heard.

Along the hearings on the oil and steel codes, U. S. officials discussed a prospective code with laundry owners, and heard disputes over the code of the millinery industry. They sought, too, to have the shoe industry come to an agreement on a code.

Gen. Johnson announced President Roosevelt had given his approval to the wool textile code.

Date for hearings on the automobile code will be set soon, Gen. Johnson said.

Gen. Johnson voiced a complaint against the public utilities industries. The railroads, he said, are going to stay under the railroad administration. It has been no secret that leading officials of the Recovery Administration have been keenly disappointed about the attitude of the utilities.

"It's all a question of how strong the pressure of public opinion is going to be," the administrator said. "Public opinion is about the only weapon we have."

Cotton Mill Complaints.

Complaints that cotton mill operators have been dsicriminating against workers who have joined unions, brought from Gen. Johnson a statement that he would take immediate action where complaints are authenticated.

The code authority of the cotton industry held its first meeting yesterday, taking up complaints of violations of code provisions and appointing committees to investigate each.

In addition to the Government representatives the committee is composed of 20 manufacturers, headed by George A. Sloan, of New York, head of the Cotton Textile Institute, who was instrumental in bringing about adoption of the code.

Once Bureau Head, Forbes Is Salesman

Book Is Sensational.

Following his release from prison, Forbes drifted to California where he engaged in the oil business. For the last five years he has been gathering and compiling data for his book. He declares that the volume, when published later this year, will be a sensation. He says it will deal with people he knew while he lived in Washington, and will cover a period from 1893 to 1922. In addition to many colorful incidents in his own life, including his version of the graft charges, the volume also will contain many photostatic copies of letters he has received from the great and near great. He will deal at length with his numerous appearances before various congressional committees.

He says the book also will contain a chapter on Warren G. Harding, who, as President, put him in the Veterans Bureau, and that the chapter will be a defense of Harding whom he admired.

Visited N. R. A. Offices.

Col. Forbes denied rumors that he had received $17,500 from the garment trade, for acting as their agent in their dealings with the N. R. A. He did say, however, that he went to the Department of Commerce with Sidney Cohen, a New York attorney representing the garment trades, and while there turned over to the Government the trades code.

Cohen, it is reported, was paid $250 for his services, but Forbes emphatically denied he himself had received any money. His conference with N. R. A. officials, he added, was merely a friendly act to Cohen.

Answering reports that he was again interested in the veterans' cause, Forbes said he never had abandoned that interest and would continue to help all veterans who appealed to him for assistance in settling their claims. This work, he asserted, he always has done free and it will continue to be free.

Col. Forbes expects to be a frequent visitor to Washington.

Racket Ending Drive Studied By President

By Lawrence Sullivan
(Post Staff Correspondent.)

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug 1.—President Roosevelt turned his attention today to plans for effective organization of a new Federal drive to wipe out kidnaping and other forms of criminal racketeering.

The matter has been to the fore in Mr. Roosevelt's program for a week or more. Today he had Assistant Secretary of State Raymond Moley as a luncheon guest at Krum Elbow, and discussed, for more than three hours, ways and means by which Federal forces may be coordinated with State agencies in a Nationwide effort to check the current wave of organized racketeering.

Prof. Moley is a recognized expert in criminal jurisprudence and police administration. It was in this field that he won national recognition.

Moley to Stay.

Because kidnaping and racketeering appeared remote from Prof. Moley's normal sphere of operations as Assistant Secretary of State, announcement of his visit today gave rise to speculation concerning his future role in the administration. His difference with Secretary of State Hull before and during the London economic conference inspired reports in Washington last week that Prof. Moley soon would be given a new assignment.

"I certainly am," Moley said in response to questions whether he would continue as Assistant Secretary of State.

It is not unlikely that Mr. Moley's work henceforward will have to do more with domestic problems, and less with the day-to-day administration of foreign affairs. He will continue, however, as the trusted adviser and confident of the President. And in this new role he will continue as Assistant Secretary of State.

May Act Soon.

President Roosevelt has been approaching vigorous Federal action on the kidnaping problem for perhaps a month. It is known that the question was considered in at least two Cabinet meetings during July.

Through the reorganized Bureau of Investigation in the Department of Justice, the President hopes to provide adequate Federal machinery for quick coordination with the States against racketeering. Professor Moley indicated that the President may draw up a detailed program for instantaneous cooperation between city, State and Federal police agencies.

If Prof. Moley's recommendations are followed, President Roosevelt will appeal to the governors for this cooperation during the next few days.

President Roosevelt today signed the code of the wool textile industry, which establishes a minimum wage of $14 a week in the North and $13 in the South. A maximum work week of 40 hours is provided.

Robert Strauss, an assistant to Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, carried the code to Hyde Park for the President's signature. The executive order proclaiming the new code will be made public in Washington, probably tomorrow.

Told About Strike.

President Roosevelt's attention was directed to the bituminous fields of Western Pennsylvania, where State Militiamen have been ordered out by Gov. Pinchot. A group of merchants in Uniontown, Pa., telegraphed the President that the threatened disturbances in the region were undermining their efforts to stimulate business in accordance with their pledges of support in the National Recovery effort.

The telegram requested the immediate intervention of the President in the interest of order and civil tranquility in the disturbed area.

The request was referred to Administrator Johnson at Washington.

There was no indication that the President plans to interfere.

Nude Fair Shows In Chicago Banned

Are "Vulgar and Disgusting," Says Mayor After Surprise Visit.

Chicago, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Mayor Edward J. Kelly tonight banned nude entertainers from the World Fair grounds. He said they were "vulgar and disgusting."

"I am not a prude," the mayor exclaimed after a surprise tour of the concessionaires' shows, "but the exhibitions I saw were vulgar and disgusting."

Mr. Kelly called upon Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, to join him in "cleannig up the entire fair," and ordered George T. Donohue, superintendent of the South Prak, to close the offending exhibits. Mr. Lohr later called a meeting of the concessionaires with the warning that they had been cautioned six times and "this is the last."

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—A fist fight today between two swimmers at the edge of the outdoor pool in Steeplechase, Coney Island, indirectly resulted in the injury of between 30 and 40 persons, three seriously.

When the fight started, hundreds rushed to the railing of the balcony overlooking the pool. As the enclosure became crowded, the railing gave way and fell 15 feet on top of bathhouses. Nearly a hundred persons toppled over the edge.

Gen. Johnson To Delay Oil Price Fixing

Will Wait Until Effects of Control Plan Are Known.

(Associated Press.)

Advocates of Federal regulation of petroleum prices were told last night by Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, that he would not recommend any price fixing to President Roosevelt until the effect of production control had been determined.

Gen. Johnson's statement was made as committees representing various factions of the oil industry assembled with him to work out a trade practice plan. They began their sessions with a tentative draft submitted by Gen. Johnson after the oil men were unable to agree.

Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association and spokesman for the Emergency National committee of 54 set up under the auspices of the American Petroleum Institute, insisted price control was necessary.

The committee for which Mr. Franklin spoke recently voted 27 to 18 in favor of price regulation.

Control Held Necessary.

Mr. Franklin asserted price control "will be necessary if we are to meet increased cost," Gen. Johnson answered:

"I do not think so if we get production under control."

"That has not been our experience," Mr. Franklin said.

"That is my opinion," shot back Gen. Johnson.

"That is not the fact," retorted Mr. Franklin.

Gen. Johnson said in answer that the only successful price control attempt that he knew of was during the war when both the supply and demand for a commodity were under control and that all other attempts were failures.

"I am not willing until the theory of production control is established to recommend any price fixing to President Roosevelt," Gen. Johnson said, explaining that he believed control of production in itself would affect prices.

Bankruptcy Seen.

E. B. Reeser, of Tulsa, Okla., former president of the American Petroleum Institute, told Gen. Johnson bankruptcy was ahead for "most of the oil companies" unless prices were regulated, adding:

"So far as my company is concerned, we can not meet the labor payments.

"We are asked to assume an additional burden. We are perfectly in accord with the President's program, but we must have additional finances to meet that burden.

"Supply and demand will not regulate prices so long as the supply is backed by an unlimited potential production. The present prices are driving most of the companies into bankruptcy."

After a day's study of the plan submitted by Johnson, leaders of the industry last night chose spokesmen to go over the code with him today.

The first important conflict over the tentative program offered by Johnson was expected over the failure to provide Federal price control, while objectors were ready to oppose its provision for governmental regulation of production.

Absence of price regulation was construed in oil circles as a victory for Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, and the forces joined with him in opposing that action.

Several Back Teagle.

Included in the group of oil men lined up with Teagle, the chairman of the advisory committee assisting Johnson, were John Elliott, an independent and a committee member; the Standard of Indiana, the Royal Dutch Shell Co., the Texas Co., the Gulf Co. and a number of independent organizations under the leadership of Jack Blalock, of Marshall, Tex.

Milk Code Test In Chicago Due Next Monday

Judge Wilkerson Says He Will "Throw It Out" If It's Unfair.

Chicago, Aug. 1. (U.P.).—Declaring himself ready to "throw out" the administration's plan for agricultural betterment if it is unfair to independent milk dealers, Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today delayed until August 7 his decision on the legality of the broad recovery law.

The jurist summarily refused to grant an injunction sought to prevent inauguration of the new milk price and production adjustment act in the Chicago area.

Awaits Adequate Hearing.

"I am not going to rule on the constitutionality of this order and its unreasonableness and unfairness without an adequate hearing," Wilkerson said.

"But after the proper data has been presented, I will not hesitate to throw out the milk code set-up if it is unconstitutional, arbitrary or unfair."

A minimum retail price of 10 cents per quart for milk sold within a 75-mile radius of Chicago, licensing of all distributors within the region and provision for penalty where the code is ignored, were included in the new code, effective at noon today.

First test of the legality of President Roosevelt's program, it was indicated, may be carried to the United States Supreme Court. Both the Government and the independent milk distributors of northern Illinois "welcomed" the court test and promised to carry their respective fights to the highest tribunal.

Code Declared Unfair.

Since they operate under strictly a "cash and carry" basis, the independent distributors had complained to the court that the code unfairly compelled them to observe the same minimum prices door-to-door deliverers must charge.

The plaintiffs charged that the entire farm relief act was unconstitutional and that, among other things, it deprived them of property without due process of law; purported to regulate intrastate commerce, and delegated legislative and judicial powers to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Lindbergh May Fly To Scoreby Sound

Supply Depot of Parker Cramer, Lost in '31, Located There.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 1 (AP).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, now surveying west Greenland on their North Atlantic air route mapping expedition, were reported today to be making preparations for a flight to Scoreby Sound, east Greenland.

Dispatches from Holsteinborg, their present base, said they made a flight late yesterday northward to Ritenbenk, returning in the evening.

It was reported they eventually would visit Scoreby Sound and that they were in communication with Dr. Lauge Koch, at that point, seeking information concerning gasoline supplies there. The gasoline and oil depot of the late Parker Cramer, lost in the North Sea in 1931 on a North Atlantic mapping flight, is at Scoreby Sound.

shots were fired and tear gas bombs thrown from automobiles which pickets sought to stop. Pickets said the cars were carrying workers to the mine.

At the Edenborn colliery, a Frick property, bricks were thrown. One striker was shot and wounded. Several were injured.

In the West Central bituminous fields of Cambria and Indiana Counties, 9,000 workers in several companies struck in a dispute over employment of a checkweighman.

In other parts of Pennsylvania, where there have been strikes in many industries in recent weeks, conditions are quiet, except for a flareup in Philadelphia where windows were broken and automobiles damaged in a hosiery workers' strike.

Police Continue Jett Death Probe

Undecided Whether Man Was Killed Accidentally or Took Own Life.

Rockville authorities do not consider "closed" the death on the trolley tracks near Glen Echo Monday night of Wilmer L. Jett, 23, of Washington.

No arrests had been made or were contemplated immediately by Chief of Police Alva Moxley. He said he has not determined whether Jett was killed accidentally or committed suicide.

Results of an autopsy have not been reported. The head was severed when struck by the street car.

George E. Meyers, of this city, the street car motorman, told Moxley he did not see the body until nearly upon it. The motorman said he at first thought the body was a heap of newspapers.

Jett lived at 1644 North Capitol street. His brother, Charles C. Jett, of 1716 Irving street northwest, identified the body. The dead man's brother became suspicious after the young man had been missing from his lodgings Monday night.

'Average Week' Plan of Steel Code Attacked

Hot Protests by Labor and Secretary Perkins May Lead to Revision.

(Associated Press.)

A possibility has now developed that the Recovery Administration may ask the steel industry to modify its plan of averaging over a six-month period the 40-hour week proposed by its code.

With the elimination of the company union provision, this became a principal point of attack by the spokesmen for organized labor, who asserted that weekly and daily maximum hours of work should be provided. They complained that the six-month average left the 12-hour day and seven-day week firmly entrenched in the industry.

While the record of Monday's hearings was analyzed at Recovery Administration headquarters, the directors of the American Iron and Steel Institute held a day-long meeting at the Mayflower Hotel which they said was devoted to a general discussion of the code situation.

Gerard Swope and Walter C. Teagle of the Industrial Advisory Board called briefly upon Robert P. Lamont, president of the institute, who presented the code of competition at the hearings.

Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, said late in the day that at least five days would elapse before the recommendations of his subordinates are submitted.

'Write In' Vote Elects Mackall From Fairfax

Near Record Heat Holds Down County Poll; Smith Leads.

By writing his name on the ballot, Fairfax County Democrats nominated John C. Mackall to the House of Delegates yesterday.

Complete unofficial return tabulated by The Post gave Mackall 1,500 votes as against 328 for L. C. Painter, the only candidate for the House of Delegates, whose name appeared on the ballot. Herbert F. Williams, the third candidate, received 240 votes.

W. Worth Smith had a wide margin in his race for the gubernatorial nomination against George C. Peery. The total was Smith, 1,341; Peery, 752; Joseph T. Deal, 76.

The county vote was light, due to the near-record heat. The normal vote in the county is 3,400.

Organization Aspirants Take Winchester Lead

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 1.—While election officials worked under an avalanche of votes in their efforts to compile the returns of today's balloting in the Democratic primary, early returns tonight forecast a decisive victory in the City of Winchester and Clarke, Frederick and Loudoun Counties for all of the organization candidates.

In the race for the House of Delegates from the City of Winchester and Clarke and Frederick Counties E. Blackburn Moore, of Berryville, organization candidate, swept into a lead of 700 votes on the basis of 13 precincts from Frederick County, four from Clarke County and one from the City of Winchester, over his opponent, J. Henkel Henry, of Winchester. In the only city contest in Winchester, that of commissioners of the revenue, Charles P. McVicar, incumbent, had a vote of 278 to 108 for his opponent, former Mayor F. Shyrock, on the basis of one precinct reporting.

Peery Carries Arlington by 335-Vote Edge

Smith Runs Second With Deal Third in Gubernatorial Primary.

Returns from Arlington County's eleven precincts last night gave George C. Peery, the Byrd organization candidate, an edge of 335 votes over W. Worth Smith in the Virginia gubernatorial primary.

The total vote was Peery, 1,473; Smith, 1,138, and Joseph T. Deal, 54.

Woman Wins.

In Clarendon's First Precinct, Mrs. Clara E. Nevin became the first Democratic committeewoman in the county by polling a 43-vote plurality. Mrs. Ellie Stoody, also a committee candidate in the same precinct, polled 52 votes.

Last-minute efforts to elect committeemen in Carne, Ballston and Cherrydale Precincts failed when Attorney General John R. Saunders ruled illegal the use of ballots not previously authorized. The vacancies in these precincts are to be filled by the newly elected committee.

W. D. Medley, unopposed, was declared the Democratic nominee for the House of Delegates. He will be opposed at the general election in November by John Locke Green, Republican.

$100,000,000 Public Works Jobs Ordered

Allocations Pass Billion Mark; Far West to Be Benefited.

(Associated Press.)

Almost a hundred million dollars was set aside yesterday by the Public Works Administration for three projects to provide power, irrigation and transportation to widely separated Western regions.

Total allocations from the $3,300,000,000 public works fund have now passed the one billion dollar mark in the move to give jobs to unemployed.

Acting upon proposals already approved by President Roosevelt, the Public Works Board yesterday allotted $63,000,000 for the Grand Coulee Dam project on the Columbia River for power and irrigation, $22,700,000 to the Casper-Alcova reclamation project in Wyoming; and $11,500,000 for the 9-foot channel on the upper Mississippi, which will permit deep-draft river boats to navigate the river as far as St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The upper Mississippi allotment was designed to carry forward work already started and will keep the project moving for a full year. Between three and four years will be required to finish the channel. Its total cost may reach $124,000,000, although there have been estimates that it could be completed for $116,000,000.

Stand on R. F. C. Policy.

At the same time, the board laid down the policy it will follow on projects for which funds have already been arranged through the Reconstruction Corporation. It rejected overtures by the Metropolitan Water district of Southern California and backers of the New Orleans bridge for funds to meet wage increases.

Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, said the Public Works Administration could not make grants on the basis of modification of terms of the arrangements already entered into with the Reconstruction Corporation.

This did not mean, he said, that if funds were needed in the future for projects being built with loans obtained from the corporation they could not be obtained from the Public Works Administration. Applications for such funds would have to be made in the usual way, through State committees and regional public works administrators.

Almost the entire sum allotted so far has been for Federal projects, selected first because they provided work at once for large numbers of men.

$400,000,000 For Roads.

Included in this list was $400,000,000 for public roads. This was allotted to the States. The Bureau of Roads today approved road plans submitted by Indiana, Kansas, Montana, Oklahoma and South Dakota.

Work on the Grand Coulee project will begin immediately, and it will require some five years to complete. The allotment was on the basis of a 30 per cent outright grant to the State of Washington for the cost of the labor and materials. 70 per cent of the allotment is to be repaid.

Mr. Ickes said 1,500 men would be employed all winter at the site of the dam.

The Casper-Alcova allotment, which would bring into cultivation of some 66,000 acres in the North Platte River district in Wyoming, was made by the board without consideration of interstate water rights and without reference to the long-standing dispute among Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska over their claims to the river's water.

Trammell Scores Bids on Cruisers

"New York Shipbuilding, $11,657,000.

"Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, $12,780,000.

"Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., $13,900,000.

"United Dry Docks, Inc., no bid.

"I am unable to justify in my own mind the increase in cruiser cost as indicated by the 1932 and 1933 bids, particularly when those bids are compared with the destroyer bids of 1931 and 1933. I am convinced that the cruiser bids should be rejected.

"Your attention is invited to the fact that Gulf Industries, Inc., of Pensacola, Fla., in its letter to the Secretary of the Navy dated July 29, 1933, stated that it is prepared to submit bids on the cruisers which will save the Government millions of dollars. And this is so whether the bidding is reopened by private negotiations or by a call for new bids.

"I bespeak your careful and thoughtful consideration of this request that the cruiser bids be rejected."

For Baldness

Ancient Almanac Advises Rubbing Head With Onions and Honey.

"Take ye heed, those among ye who may be bald and rub that part morning and evening with onions till it is red; then rub with honey."

This advice is contained in an almanac dated 1782, recently donated to the museum at Wakefield, Washington's birthplace, by Col. and Mrs. E. P. Tignor, of Wicomico, Va., on behalf of the late Mrs. James Clark Fisher, of Reedville.

Another gift from the Fisher collection is a cashmere shawl that once belonged to Mary Ball Washington. It is in excellent condition and of beautiful design.

Chester Lord, Famous Editor, Expires at 83

Garden City, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP).—Chester S. ("Boss") Lord, managing editor of the New York Sun in the legendary days when Charles A. Dana was its editor, and Arthur Brisbane, Samuel Hopkins Adams, Carl Van Anda and Will Irwin were reporters, died today at the age of 83.

Lord retired in 1913 after guiding the Sun through 33 news-packed years that saw the Cleveland-Blaine campaigns, the Spanish-American War, the Wall street scandals of early days, the panic of '93, the exposure of Boss Tweed, the sinking of the Titanic, the San Francisco earthquake and the colorful decades that marked the turn of the century.

From a shabby roll-top desk in a corner of the Sun's city room Lord directed the reporting and the writing of these and other great events with a distinction that gave the Sun a reputation in that period as "the best-written and best-edited newspaper ever published in the United States."

Since his retirement, Lord had led a quiet life, fishing, golfing and enjoying the seclusion of his Long Island home, but to the end he fulfilled actively his duties as chancellor of the State Board of Regents, of which he had been a member since 1896.

Surviving are two sons, Kenneth and Richard Lord; a sister, Mrs. C. B. W. Merritt, and a grandson, Chester W. Lord. The funeral will be held here Thursday.

Many are the legends that have arisen from his journalistic feats. One of his most celebrated accomplishments was his announcement that Grover Cleveland had defeated James G. Blaine for the Presidency the morning after the election in 1884. All the other newspapers had Blaine the winner. Lord had set up his own machinery for gathering the returns, however, and the Sun was the only paper in the country to report the outcome correctly.

Lord's final estimate was that Cleveland had carried New York State by 1,206 votes. Days later, when the final returns came in, Cleveland was shown to have won by 1,159 votes, and Lord had won a reputation.

Rites for Miss Brown Will Be Held Today

W. Van Couenhoven, rector of Grace Episcopal Church. Burial will be in the Methodist Protestant Cemetery.

She is survived by a brother, Malcolm Brown.

Japanese Plan Enlarged Navy

minelayer. In addition, there would be 36 auxiliary ships in non-treaty categories.

The navy is planning also to increase its air squadron to 39, by the addition of eight new units. There were 17 air squadrons in 1931.

Tokyo, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Japan's most extensive naval maneuvers in recent history were begun today in the Pacific waters south of the empire. Upward of 100 units of the Japanese navy participated.

The warships, fit and trim, slid out of harbors and naval bases, and turned toward the south where at a point about half way between Japan and the Philippine Islands most of the war games will be conducted.

The grand maneuvers, testing the practical fighting strength of the Japanese sea force against a theoretical enemy—this year the United States, it was admitted—will be held in secrecy. No foreign naval attache or official was permitted to accompany the fleet.

Policeman Jails Man After Tussle in Home

An alleged drunk last night tussled with Policeman G. L. Saunders, of the First Precinct, for several minutes before he was subdued and arrested.

Saunders was attracted to a house in the 100 block H street northwest, by a woman's screams. Entering the place he was confronted by Walter C. McQueen, 40, husband of the woman. The man attempted to take the policeman's pistol. A number of blows were exchanged. A wound on McQueen's head was said to have been inflicted by his wife by a broom handle.

Clark's Trial Is Transferred From Rockville

Venue Change Is Granted on Plea Fair Hearing Is Impossible.

A change of venue in the trial of Berry E. Clark, former clerk to the Montgomery County Commissioners, on charges of embezzlement, was granted yesterday in the Circuit Court at Rockville, Md. He will be tried probably during the fall term at Ellicott City, Howard County.

The change of venue was granted on an appeal by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, who argued that an impartial trial could not be had at Rockville. Clark was tried three times. The jury each time failed to agree.

He will be tried on four of 97 indictments.

Primary Will Decide Opponent for O'Brien

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—A primary battle to name the candidate to oppose Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany Hall's probable choice for a second term, appeared inevitable today.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, formerly a member of the Congress, announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination, and Gen. John F. O'Ryan said that if the Republican mayoralty committee indorsed him he would agree to become the candidate of the fusion movement.

Work on State Road Promised To Delegation

Board of Prince Georges Tells Motorcade Body it Will Be Pushed.

Everything possible will be done toward building the Lanham-Severn road to Bowie this year, the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday assured a delegation of 500 citizens who journeyed to Upper Marlboro in an impressive motorcade to demand action on the project.

Approximately 100 cars assembled in parade formation at Peace Bridge, at the Crane and Defense Highways. Headed by William Thirles as marshal, the motorcade proceeded to Marlboro with banners flying.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, acting as spokesman for the party, declared that the patience of these people had reached its end. The people of the Lanham and Bowie districts, he said, have in previous years been slighted in the matter of roads. They are now ready "to fight and vote for their rights," he declared.

McGruder Urges Road.

"Back in 1930," answered M. Hampton McGruder, prominent Prince Georges County resident, "we promised this road to these people and we intend to keep our promise.

"At the rate of one and twenty-eight hundredths miles per year, which is all that is being constructed this year, it would take 15 years to finish the road. That is enough to try the patience of any people."

Work Soon Promised.

Other speakers included the Rev. George J. Larkins, of the Ascension Church, Bowie, and State Senator Lansdale G. Saccer.

The County Commisisoners promised that with the help of McGruder and Sasscer they would do everything in their power to see that the road was built to Bowie this year.

The Trumpetvine troop of Girl Scouts sang "Boost the Lanham-Severn Highway," to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." The words of the song were written by Marjorie Zug. A similar, though not quite so large a delegation, visited the Commissioners in 1930. At that time the road also was promised in a short while.

Alabama Troops Save 6 From Mob

Three Colored Youths and Attorneys Rescued by Use of Tear Gas.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 1 (U.P.).—National Guardsmen used tear gas here late today to break up a mob of several hundred persons attempting to attack three Negroes accused of assaulting and murdering a young white girl.

The guardsmen also saved from the mob's attack three attorneys sent from New York and Birmingham by the International Labor Defense to defend the Negroes. Several guardsmen accompanied the attorneys on a train for Birmingham.

Circuit Judge Henry B. Foster had ruled earlier in the day that the Negroes must be represented by local counsel, thus shoving out of the case the I. L. D. attorneys, Irving Schwab and Allen Taub, of New York, and Frank Irwin, of Birmingham.

Trial of two of the Negroes, Dan Pippen, 18, and Elmore Clark, 28, scheduled to start today, was postponed indefinitely. The third, A. T. Hardin, 16, faces trial later in Juvenile Court.

"Bill" Durbin, Master Magician, Sworn as Register of Treasury

Notable Audience Fails to See Any Tricks; They Come Later.

By John J. Daly.

When "a packed house" greeted W. W. Durbin, master showman, as he was being sworn in as Register of the Treasury yesterday, many of the distinguished guests expected to see him pluck a rabbit from the pockets of Dean Atchinson, Undersecretary, as he administered the oath.

"Bill" Durbin, president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians and editor of the Linking Ring, the organization's trade paper, looked as if he were just about to do a trick.

He stood before an audience containing Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Cary Grayson, Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams, representative of the League of Nations; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair and Mrs. Blair Banister, herself just sworn in as the first woman Assistant Treasurer of the United States.

It was an audience to inspire the artist—and W. W. Durbin is an artist to the tips of his toes, a master magician who has entertained millions of people here and abroad.

There were men there, too; Judge Tim Ansberry, Maj. Oliver Newman, Alvin Hall, director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; and all were expectant.

The show fell flat; but "Bill" Durbin promises to put on two hours of magic that will class with anything ever done by Houdini, Thurston, Herman the Great, or any of them. The show will be put on as soon as the weather relaxes, in the National Press Club Auditorium.

"What I'd like to do most of all," he said, with solemn mien, sitting afterwards in his office down at the old Bureau building, Fourteenth and B streets northwest, "is fool a lot of newspapermen."

Billed as "The Past Master of the Black Art," W. W. Durbin is considered by American magicians as one of the greatest sleight-of-hand artists that ever graced the boards. When he took over the office of Register of the Treasury yesterday, it was remarked by those who know that Mr. Durkin will have need for his magic. For one thing, there are some $80,000,000,000 in canceled bonds down there that should be made to disappear. They have been hanging round since the Harding administration.

An old stager, "Bill" Durkin, got his first job in the Treasury Department away back in 1886, working as a laborer in the Division of Loans and Currency. It was his duty to carry canceled bonds to the Register of the Treasury, who was then elderly Gen. W. W. Rosecrans, of Civil War fame.

"Now they'll be carrying the bonds to me," Mr. Durkin said, smiling behind the same desk where the general once sat.

It sounds like magic—and it is.

Magic, Mr. Durkin believes, has powers to soothe the savage breast. He recommends a course in magic for all those who worry.

"Any time I get worried," he says, "I go out into my little theater, back of my home in Kenton, Ohio, and put on my show."

The theater, called the American Egyptian Hall, is owned and operated by Mr. Durkin and he has a staff as big as any employed in the regular theaters of this city. When he puts on his show at the Press Club, about the time the regular season opens, the whole Durkin company is coming to Washington.

In the meantime, however, most of Mr. Durkin's magic will be employed in doing away with those old canceled bonds down in his new office—$60,000,000,000 worth of useless paper.

Really, how can so fine a cigarette cost so little?

Well, you folks have a lot to do with it. You, and the millions of people like you, who prefer Luckies, to whom Luckies are a personal thing. Your approval enables us to buy our fine tobaccos and produce our cigarettes in great volume. For instance, instead of buying from hand to mouth, we have a reserve of over $100,000,000 worth of the world's choicest tobaccos. Truly, we could not tell you how much Luckies would cost if only a few of them were sold. Frankly, it is your faithful and overwhelming patronage that enables us to offer you the quality of fine tobaccos and the purity of "Toasting"—at a very moderate price!

Moley Assigned To Handle U. S. Debt Problems

Appointment by President Dissipates Rumors of Friction.

By Harold J. T. Horan.

President Roosevelt has assigned to his Assistant Secretary of State and close advisor, Raymond Moley, the preliminary preparation and negotiation of the debt conversations between the United States and America's debtor nations, it was learned here last night.

In the conversations at Krum Elbow yesterday, it is understood the President reviewed with Dr. Moley the debt problems of the next few months.

This is believed to be the answer to the reports of a split between the President and the chief of the Brain Trust. Will end also rumors of his resignation from the department.

Czech Debt First.

The State Department was advised of the reopening of debt conversations and the first nation to be considered in the debt parleys will be Czechoslovakia. The entire subject of the Czecholovakian debt relations with the Government is now being studied by experts of the department and members of Moley's staff.

Shortly before the departure of British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, Dr Moley dined with him at the embassy, and it is understood that the future negotiations of the Anglo-American debt was discussed.

The Moley-Lindsay talks will be resumed when the Ambassador returns here from London.

Czechoslovakian Minister Ferdinand Veverka will see Dr. Moley Thursday at the State Department. This will be in the nature of a preliminary discussion of the American-Czech debt which amounts to $290,000,000.

First to Acquit Debt.

President Masaryk's country was one of the first of the European nations to acquit its debts to this country June 15 by the payment of $180,000. Subsequently, other nations took advantage of the leadership of Roumanian Minister Charles Davila and paid 10 per cent of their debt. The full amount owed by Czechoslovakia was $1,500,000.

Dr. Moley has been associated in the debt discussions ever since the White House exchange of views between President Roosevelt and European statesmen. He will study the past history of the various countries that are now demanding or that will demand revision, and after he has consulted with Secretary Hull and the President will make the final choice. Dr. Moley's frequent conversations with Sir Ronald and the various diplomatists since have enabled him to follow the evolutions of the debt problem as they have presented themselves.

The Czech debt settlement probably will be the first concluded by the President. Minister Veverka will sail for Europe August 12 for a brief stay in Prague. At that time he will receive the final instructions from his government on their debt settlement.

Hopes for Reduction.

On one of his recent visits to the Department of State here, Minister Veverka admitted that he hoped for a reduction of 75 per cent on the outstanding total of his country's obligations to this country.

When the Great Powers have signified their intention of asking for a 10 per cent settlement, and some of them in effect have already created a precedent by making their June 15 payments on this principle, he believes that the Czech demand for a 25 per cent payment will be assured of a favorable reception by the President.

The definite policy of Dr. Moley in his debt negotiations has not been formed but he undoubtedly will oppose any reduction and any form of cancellation, without substantial guarantees that the industrial recovery of this country will not be jeapordized by threats from European commercial activities in countries that are in the debt of this country for war-time loans.

Murder Suspects Held in New York

New Rochelle, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP).—two men, wanted on murder charges in Charleston, W. Va., were arrested here today but the mystery of why they allegedly killed a prisoner after shooting the two deputy sheriffs who had him in custody, remained unsolved.

The prisoners are Leo Frazier, 30, of Charleston, and Charles Harper, 23, of Huntington, W. Va. Capt. Vincent Lewis, of the detective squad, said Harper signed a written statement, naming Frazier as the slayer and admitting that he was present but fired no shots.

-:- The Federal Diary -:- By George D. Riley -:-

MOST every line of science has its own dictionary, why not the weather forecasting profession?

More than 20 years ago the United States Weather Bureau librarian, Charles Fitzhugh Talman, conceived the idea of a weather dictionary, a dictionary of all-inclusive terms that have to do with weather.

Of glossaries and special dictionaries for the other arts and sciences there are many. But in scope and comprehension none is as complete as the dictionary planned by Mr. Talman.

Mr. Talman did not stop with rounding up merely the whole scientific vocabulary of meteorology until then never included in a single dictionary, but he included all nonscientific expressions and words relating to the weather. Patiently he began a search of all sorts of literature. He examined books by the thousands.

It was an ambitious work. It still is incomplete, but the work of compilation progresses. In its present state it consists of large cards in a fireproof steel case, with each card used to denote a single term, with its meaning, its examples, history, cross-references, synonyms and related terms.

TODAY the dictionary contains records of between 400 and 500 local names of winds, upward of 15,000 weather terms from the dialects of Ireland and Great Britain, scientific and nonscientific cloud names by the hundreds (there are more than 60 varieties of cirrus alone!) nearly 50 names of will-o'-the-wisp and more than 30 variant forms of the word "hurricane"—nearly all obsolete!

And like our language of everyday usage, we find slang terms and a certain number of misspellings. By reference to the eleventh edition, Encyclopaedia Britannica you will find the statement that "the cynd is a characteristic mist which sometimes rolls up from the sea on the coast of Norfolk." Cynd is a printer's error for the dialect term enyd, but it is Mr. Talman's belief that its occurrence in a widely used reference book justifies a record of it in his dictionary.

Even the trade names of weather instruments are part of the dictionary, although they do not belong to the formal vocabulary of meteorology. When the Taylor Instrument Companies christened a special form of aneroid barometer the "stormoguide" a card for this term promptly found its place in Mr. Talman's dictionary.

And though 1,500 or more terms meteorological have been recorded there are many more to come.

Lawyer, Who Was Recently Divorced, Disabled During War.

Burlingame, Calif., Aug. 1 (U.P.). Archibald Johnson, second son of United States Senator Hiram Johnson, California Progressive, shot and killed himself at his Hillsborough estate today while his former wife, who divorced him in June, was honeymooning with her newest husband.

Pending an inquest, police declined to ascribe a motive for the deed.

Senator Johnson issued a brief statement saying: "All our family are prostrated and in seclusion. I am unable to say more than that my dead son, suffering from ill health and worry, shot himself."

Johnson left one note to his father, another to his mother, and a third to a millionaire San Francisco business associate, Felton Elkings. The contents of the notes were not revealed.

A poem penned in long hand was phrased bitterly and spoke of a woman "who took my very life."

Divorced for "Cruelty."

Johnson and his wife, Martha Ruddy Leet Johnson, were divorced in Reno June 23. She won the decree on charges of extreme mental cruelty, and a short time later was married to Commander Howard A. Flanigan, U. S. N., Washington, former aid to Admiral Luke McNamee aboard the U. S. S. California.

The divorce hearing was closed and the evidence sealed.

Johnson returned from Santa Barbara last night. Baker, his Butler, said he was "very tired, and he bathed, donned his pajamas and with his Great Dane dog, retired to the library."

At 2:30 a. m. the dog's howls drew Baker back into the library. Johnson was dead, shot through the heart.

Johnson was an attorney, following his eminent father in the practice of law. At one time he was said to have been a State Department attache but forsook governmental work to resume private practice.

San Francisco friends of Archibald said he had been in poor health since the war. He was wounded at Chateau Thierry and never recovered from wounds and shell shock, they said.

Clark Gable Rallies After Appendectomy

Hollywood, Aug. 1 (AP).—Clark Gable, film star, underwent a successful operation for removal of his appendix at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital today.

Mrs. Gable said the actor was resting easily and his condition was good. Several weeks ago he had his tonsils removed.

Athlete's Foot No. 1.

THE following modifications of tried methods of combating athlete's foot were recently indorsed on the basis of a fairly prolonged and extensive trial.

The first is a method of cure. It is a variation of the widely used Castelanni method. The recipe for Castelanni's paint is:

Saturated solution in alcohol of basic fuchsin, 10 parts; 5 per cent watery solution of phenol, 100 parts.

This is mixed and then filtered. To it is then added one part boric acid. It is allowed to stand two hours and five parts acetone is then added. It is again allowed to stand two hours, after which ten parts of resorcin is added. It is then kept in a dark bottle.

If a druggist can not order this under the name Castelanni's paint he can get the ingredients and make it. Fuchsin is a dye used in all bacteriologic laboratories. It can be obtained from any dye house.

This paint is applied with a soft cloth or brush to the affected area and to about one-half inch of skin around the involved area. Many advise applying it to the toenails and the creases around them, while others go so far as to apply it also to corns and calluses. The reason for applying it to the nails, creases, corns and calluses is the theory that the molds which cause ringworm of the feet live around such inactive areas, causing no trouble there, but using these areas as bases to make raids on more delicate tissues.

After the paint has completely dried on the skin a thin layer of 10 per cent ammoniated mercury ointment is applied. The feet are not to be bathed for at least four hours after this application is made. Treatment once a day for one week generally suffices. If the skin becomes tender treatments are discontinued for, say, a week, and then resumed at the rate of two or three a week.

This is generally sufficient to cure up the disease temporarily, but recurrences are reasonably certain to occur. To prevent this one or two treatments are given each month for about six months.

One reason for these recurrences is the fact that the fungus lives very well in the shoes. The following is a method of disinfecting shoes:

Use a shoe disinfecting powder composed of five parts sodium thiosulphate and one part boric acid. Heat the sodium thiosulphate until it liquefies. Heating should not be carried beyond the liquefying point. Add the boric acid powder. Mix well. Let the mixture stand until it sets into cakes. Grind in a mortar to make a powder. Dust this powder in the interior of the shoes, especially in the toe region. Keep the interior of the shoes as dry and as clean as possible. Washing serves to sterilize the socks.

Fraud Charged To Louisiana Election Aids

False Returns Alleged as District Attorney Starts Ballot Recount.

New Orleans, Aug. 1 (AP).—A dispute between a district attorney, who insists on a recount of last November's general election ballots, and a parish grand jury, which asked the governor to have the ballots destroyed, reached a new climax today in the filing of election fraud charges against 15 commissioners who served at the polls.

District Attorney Eugene Stanley filed the informations, alleging false returns were made on constitutional amendments sponsored by the Huey P. Long political faction.

Report Due Today.

The grand jury met late today in special session guarded by eight State artillerymen, but adjourned within the hour with the announcement they would submit a report to the court tomorrow morning.

Acting on request of 11 members of the jury who said they needed "protection" as a result of the dispute, Gov. O. K. Allen yesterday proclaimed a regime of martial law in New Orleans, but no troops were in evidence during the day.

Officials explained that militiamen would be used exclusively as bodyguards for the jurymen.

A showdown between opposing factions was expected tomorrow morning when Stanley is scheduled to start a recount of the votes in open court. He said today he would not be deterred from his purpose in spite of the governor's martial law order and the opposition of the grand jury.

Charges Prove Surprise.

Stanley's formal charges of election frauds against 15 commissioners came as a surprise move today. Capiases for arrests were issued, but those named in the information subsequently appeared voluntarily and made bonds of $1,000 each. Conviction on the charge carries fines from $100 to $500 and prison terms of six months to a year.

Stanley's information listed alleged irregularities in the returns in numerous precincts, charging that scores of votes cast against the amendments were not reported by the commissioners.

The Transition Period.

The United States is now passing through a period of transition in which new and untried relations between the Government and the people are undergoing experiment in many directions. The prolonged depression put the people in mood for a change. They were ready to support a President who struck out on a new path, and Congress responded to public sentiment by approving legislation which radically changes the relationship of the Government to agriculture and industry. These changes affect every citizen. When so many business practices and relationships are disturbed or altered it is small wonder that the people are confused for the time being.

The plan for creating a partnership between the Government and industry is admittedly experimental, and the legislation by its terms applies only for a limited period. Presumably the country does not have in mind a permanent regime which would abolish individualism in agriculture and industry, and make the Government henceforth a supervisor and regulator of all business relations between man and man. But some of the changes are subtle and far-reaching, and even if the emergency legislation should terminate in due course it seems highly improbable that the former regime will be fully restored. Industry has an opportunity to readjust its practices on the basis of co-operation and fair dealing, free from the threat of prosecution under the anti-trust laws. The advance already made indicates that industry in general will adhere to codes which insure fair dealing and which offer opportunities for more solid growth through cooperation than was possible under the old rule of cut-throat competition curbed by penal law.

To the extent that the various recovery plans are in harmony with economic laws they may be expected to succeed, in view of the willingness of all classes of the people to co-operate in behalf of better times for all. Whether or not all these plans are practicable will be determined by the test of actual application. Some latitude is afforded for modification of details as experience dictates the wisdom of changes. Already the proposed limitations of hours of work in certain business activities have been modified to conform to public convenience or necessity.

Recognition of the point of view of earnest industrial and labor leaders, who are trying to adjust the operations of groups of industries employing hundreds of thousands of men, are gratifying evidences that Federal authorities are endeavoring to bring about the new order with a minimum of friction or arbitrary action. This is the right spirit of partnership. If the national experiment is to succeed there must be a willingness on both sides to seek compromises and adjustments.

Foreign Trade Agreements.

With Secretary of State Hull en route to the United States from the London conference, attention is turning to bilateral trade agreements. Secretary Hull went to the World Economic Conference with high hopes of reducing tariffs and eliminating trade barriers. In an interview on board the S. S. President Harding he indicated that he has not forsaken that objective, but will now seek to promote it through bilateral agreements. Indications are that trade negotiations will be confined chiefly to Latin American capitals and Ottawa.

Trade with some of the Latin American countries might be stimulated by agreements to reduce specific tariff rates, but a large percentage of our imports from these countries come in free. In some instances items on the free list have been used effectively for bargaining purposes, but it is doubtful whether the State Department is in a position to bargain in this manner. But Congress has given no special authority over tariff rates to the Chief Executive and it has indicated no policy of taxing imports now admitted free.

Any agreements to levy new duties or to adjust existing rates would, of course, be subjected to ratification by Congress. In the past Congress has been extremely critical of granting any concessions in the American market to foreign interests.

Friends of Canada are advocating a bilateral treaty with that country, but Secretary Hull has intimated that forthcoming negotiations will be concerned chiefly with non-competitive products. Canada's chief exports compete with industries on this side of the border. Agricultural interests in the United States persistently fight against reduction of the duty on wheat, hides, butter, cattle, &c. Competition between the two countries on these basic commodities was largely responsible for abrogation of the reciprocal treaty of 1854. In the last half century the two governments have tried repeatedly to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements without success. The conditions which made these efforts so difficult have not greatly changed.

Another factor which may hamper the negotiation of reciprocal agreements is the existence of 32 unconditional most-favored-nation treaties between the United States and other countries. Under these agreements any concession granted to one country would be automatically extended to all these 32 nations. If the concession should involve a product that is produced chiefly in the nation to which the concession is granted it might be valuable. But if it should involve a commodity produced in many countries, the benefits would be so diffused that no substantial concessions could be expected in return. The most-favored-nation treaties are a hurdle of no small proportions in tariff bargaining.

How Come?

Having been told for several weeks by various self-appointed unofficial committees on the state of the Nation that the rise in commodity prices and the improvement in the security markets, not to mention the improvement in the volume of business and reemployment of labor, were due, entirely to the decline of the dollar, a day like yesterday seems to call for some explanation. It seems that on August first in the year of our Lord 1933 the price of the dollar went up, commodities went up, and stocks went up. How come?

Can it be that such things may happen on August 1, but may not happen on other days? Is it the abnormally high temperature that permits such vagaries to occur, or can it be possible that the self-appointed experts on the welfare of the Nation have been handing the public the bunk? The public is entitled to know.

Prospective New Jobs.

How many workers will be re-employed by the shortening of the work week in manufacturing and other pursuits subject to readjustment? This question apparently can not be answered with precision. Some of the estimates put forth by enthusiastic Federal officials seem to be too high, and other estimates may be too low. The Industrial Conference Board has made a survey of the situation by means of statistics and indexes, and its preliminary report indicates that 838,820 additional workers would be required in manufacturing industries to maintain the output of May, 1933, if the 35-hour week should be generally adopted. The number of additional workers required in "other pursuits" under the 40-hour week would be 841,960, making a total of 1,680,780 new jobs in manufacturing and other pursuits.

In estimating the number of new workers who would be required in pursuits other than manufacturing, if the 40-hour week should become general, it is admitted that complete statistical information is lacking. No one can foretell with certainty how many additional railroad and waterway workers would be needed, because the volume of transportation under new conditions can not be accurately estimated. Wholesale and retail businesses, banking, brokerage, public utilities, and other pursuits affected by the new work week may require considerably more men. The Industrial Conference Board ventures the guess that something more than 2,000,000 men would be re-employed as a result of the shortened work week. This figure, while much lower than some official estimates, will carry encouragement to unemployed men.

The Will to Buy.

As the administration launches its gigantic drive to increase purchasing power, another factor in the present economic situation comes to the fore. When industrial production is gaining rapidly it is very important to have purchasing power follow the same trend, but even the creation of purchasing power does not guarantee a balance between supply and demand. Buying power must be converted into actual sales before a smooth flow of goods from their source to the ultimate consumer may be attained.

Numerous charts and statistics show rapid gains in industrial production and only moderate increases in payrolls. In June the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production was 89 per cent of the 1923-25 average, while factory payrolls stood at 45.9 per cent of the average for the same years. The industrial production index increased from 60 in March to 89 in June, or about 48 per cent. During the same period the payroll index advanced only about 24 per cent. It is this situation that the National Recovery Administration is seeking to correct through its program of shortening hours of work and getting more men on industrial and business payrolls.

If this program succeeds, a larger volume of money will flow from corporation treasuries into the hands of workingmen. The next step in the recovery equation is the use of this increased income. Workingmen who have been without jobs for long periods may be expected to supply their immediate wants when they again begin earning money, yet many of them will proceed with caution in the distribution of their earnings. The fear of want and distress has not yet been eliminated from the minds of the unemployed.

Workingmen regaining their jobs through the N. R. A. program realize that a new plan is being tried for the first time. Even though they may have great confidence in the experiment, the urge to save as much as possible of their earnings for another period of unemployment may be strong in the hearts of newly employed heads of families.

This tendency toward conservative buying in spite of gains in industry and employment is already evident in department store sales as recorded by the Federal Reserve Board. In April and May the index of department store sales stood at 67 compared with an average of 100 in 1923-25. While industrial production was rising sharply in June department store sales declined slightly. The index figure for that month was 66 compared with 69 for June last year, when industrial production was near its lowest figure for the depression.

The will to spend is as important as purchasing power in any program to boost demand up to a level with an advancing supply of goods; and a will to spend can be cultivated only through confidence. The public will make normal purchases when a feeling of security is restored. The restoration of stability, so far as that is within the power of the Government, becomes, therefore, a most vital factor in the present economic situation.

Study of Music and Art.

The more practical application of both music and art to everyday life has resulted in a great expansion of the courses and an increase in the number of students taking them, particularly in American high schools. This is shown from a survey made under the direction of the Federal Office of Education in the high schools of a number of cities. Music, even thirty years ago, was considered largely as a fad, not to be encouraged in connection with regular school work, particularly for boys. Today it is one of the most popular studies.

More than one-fourth of the students in high school now take one or more forms of musical instruction. Music students now outnumber those enrolled for Latin, French, German, Spanish, geometry, physics, chemistry, shorthand or art. An indication of how intimately music has become associated with student life is the fact that there are more than 35,000 school bands throughout the country.

A course in general music is required of all pupils in the first two years of many junior high schools as a further development of the work in the elementary grades. During the later years music, as a rule, becomes an elective study, and pupils can take up work in theoretical and expressional subjects, both vocal and instrumental. In the high school art courses it was found that the decided trend a generation ago toward the more practical lines of commercial art, is now being modified by greater attention to the development of creative ability and self-expression. The survey finds deficiences in the facilities for art instruction in the high schools, and urges that it be placed on a par in both theory and practice with other educational subjects.

A committee recently found 300 instances of duplicated Federal and State taxes, but it was lost in the jungle and has not yet submitted its final report.

Artificial Lightning.

From the New York Herald Tribune.

The tragic death of Mr. Frank W. Peek, of the General Electric Co., ends a brief engineering career which nevertheless covered the entire history of one of the significant developments of electrical science. Twenty-odd years ago, when Mr. Peek began his work under Dr. Steinmetz, the only practicable sources of high electric voltage were the familiar static machines used by experimenters and in college lecture rooms since the days of Benjamin Franklin. Mr. Peek, Dr. Steinmetz and their associates developed the quite different method of the high-voltage transformer, in which a set of electro-magnetic impulses created by a flow of ordinary electric current literally kicked another lot of electrons round and round the many turns of a coil of wire until uncountable billions of these electric particles were piled up on the coil's terminals to create the several million volts of the artificial lightning flash. This method still is unsurpassed in the controllable voltages it yields, although very recently newer methods promise to contest its supremacy.

The reason for going to all this trouble never was a mere desire to compete with nature in lightning making. Instead there were considerations of the severest practicability. One of them was the protection of certain kinds of buildings from lightning strokes, especially the protection of oil-storage tanks and powder magazines. Mr. Peek's experiments resulted in methods which have proved highly valuable for these purposes.

Even more important was the other practical problem of preventing damage by lightning to electrical equipment which is not actually struck but merely is affected by lightning's near-by influence. A lightning flash within a fraction of a mile of an electric power line is likely to set up violent back and forth surges of electricity in the line and thus to damage much delicate equipment electrically connected to it. Studies which artificial lightning has made possible have greatly reduced this damage and promise completely to avoid it.

During the last three or four years enormous electric voltages have been sought for an entirely different reason: to study the constitution of atoms. One weapon useful in these atomic studies is streams of high-speed atomic particles, like bullets from a tiny machine gun. The necessary speeds are supplied to these particles most conveniently by high voltages of electricity. Not much actual power is necessary, since relatively few of the flying particles suffice to shoot apart some atoms and yield significant results.

The Hatching of the Blue Hawk.

Post Haste.

Paradoxically enough, unspeakable weather calls forth many unprintable comments.

Even blanket executive powers have limitations, and there was a bit of comfort in the fact that Washington on Monday was six degrees cooler than Krum Elbow.

Everybody is optimistic about the blue eagle except Mr. Richberg, who is preparing the inquisition for the 10 per cent of slackers he envisages.

This discounting of American cooperation with its threats of punishment is the only sour and un-Rooseveltian note in the NRA program.

The Treasury offering was oversubscribed the first day by the banks, but more time is allowed for the baby bonds to toddle in.

Budget directing will be outdone if Gen. Johnson can maintain his impartial balance between federation and company labor unions.

A bouquet to Secretary Perkins. She certainly held her own in the steel hearings and her arguments for established weekly and yearly incomes, rather than simply fixing hourly rates of pay, were unanswerable.

If Uncle Sam relieves business of its $10,000,000,000 contribution to racketeers the wage boost will come easy.

Gov. Lehman would make the payment of ransom to kidnapers a crime. It's a good indication of the popular demand that something be done, even if that suggestion wouldn't work.

Christian Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang kindly affords the Japanese a little land practice in Jehol to match the navy maneuvers against a hypothetical American fleet.

Somebody is always unjoying things. Gov. Bill Murray came to Washington when he might have seen New Orleans under martial law.

New York has been so busy cheering up the unsuccessful fliers that it hasn't had time to attend to its own financial crash.

Speaking of reduced expenses the railroads, with gross income one-fourth less in June than it was a year ago, show net earnings $48,000,000 greater. Fess up, Mr. Farmer.
PAUL HUDSON.

ORIGIN OF BANK CHECK.

The origin of our bank check goes back to the Middle Ages, when merchants began entrusting their money for safe-keeping to the goldsmiths, says David Warren Ryder in the Living Age. At first, when desiring to make a payment the merchants would draw enough to do so. Later, they found it more convenient simply to give an order to the goldsmith to pay a specified sum of money out of what was on deposit belonging to them. These orders, with suitable modifications, have become our modern bank checks. Similarly, the receipt the goldsmiths gave to the merchants for their deposits of gold evolved into the modern bank note.

Just Folks.

Friends Old and New.

Here's to the old friends true
Who share in all we do
And have learned all our ways
Through many yesterdays.
Theirs are the hearts that share
All that we meet of care;
Theirs are the eyes that see,
Though grave our faults may be,
The good that lies below.
That's why we love them so!

But here's to the happy day
When comes across our way
A new friend, blithe and bold,
To join the faithful old.
Glad is the sheltering door
To welcome in one more.
Brighter the fireplace where
We draw another chair,
But happiest, at day's end,
Are we to gain a friend.

The Thing That Makes a Champion Hog Caller Is the Justified Faith of the Hogs

By Robert Quillen.

BACK in the calm days of 1913, the civilization of America seemed a very secure institution. Men feared the law, kept their contracts and paid their debts.

The war changed things. Just what it did to the minds of men remains a mystery. But it destroyed something vital to civilization.

Men heard praise of wholesale murder. They saw theft and deceit and dishonor approved as weapons of war. They were tricked by propaganda.

Reaction to discipline, or resentment and disgust, filled the land with a spirit of rebellion. People no longer respected authority. They were bitterly scornful of the old rules that had failed in a crisis.

As usual following a great war, want of respect for statutory law led to want of respect for moral law. People lost faith in the worth of honor, as heathens in time of drought lost faith in their gods.

The Insulls and the Kreugers will be condemned by history, but they were not the only offenders. They merely did in a big way what lesser men did in a small way. Dishonor is dishonor, whether the victim loses one dollar or a million.

Disregard of honor was everywhere. The label on the bottle was a lie. Stocks made false promises and bonds offered false security. Cow pastures were sold as city lots. The advertisements in magazines made claims that contained no word of truth. Prominent people sold their names to indorse trickery. Deceit had become respectable.

The leading citizen who sold you a bond, a lot, a mouth wash or a used car descended to the moral level of the bandit who posed as a government agent and sold "protection."

That is a harsh statement, but literally true. Deceit is deceit, whether it sells a stock issue or a quart of synthetic Scotch.

And when deceit replaces honor—when men can no longer trust one another—the foundation of civilization is gone.

You can't force men to be honorable. Nations and cities can refuse to pay their debts and nothing can be done about it. Men can break their word and escape punishment.

The only hope of civilization is man's willingness to be decent. Our whole scheme fails unless men voluntarily speak the truth, keep their word and preserve the sanctity of contracts. If honor goes, only the jungle remains.

If a poor boxer could win by a foul, all boxers would practice the art of fouling.

Political Comment

Third Party Drys.
Los Angeles Times.

Prohibition leaders in several States are said to be considering quite seriously the Woman's Christian Temperance Union's call upon the dry men and women throughout the country to organize a new political party which will "actively support the principles and policies of prohibition."

Though a new dry organization is called for, there is nothing new in the idea of a Prohibition party. Such a political entity has taken part in many national elections. It gave Neal Dow 10,305 votes in 1880, John P. St. John 151,809 in 1884, Clinton Fisk 259,125 in 1888 and reached high-water mark in 1892, when John Bidwell received 271,058 votes. But since prohibition came in the party, as such, has declined almost to the vanishing point.

Plight of the Postal Workers.
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When the railroads threatened their employees with a new 12½ per cent pay cut, the administration took speedy action and obtained withdrawal of the plan. However, one group of Government employees, the postoffice workers, is in a worse plight than the railroad men would have been had the cut gone through. They have taken not only the 15 per cent cut all Government workers have received, but in addition are to suffer a payless furlough of nine days in three months, a total reduction of 23½ per cent. The plight of the substitute postal workers is even worse.

Give 'Em the Gun.
Worthington (Minn.) Times.

Faced with the disappearance of their cushiony liquor racket, organized gangs, which have hitherto had plenty to do shooting each other up, are turning toward preying on the general public. We have plenty of regular Army forces and Marines just spoiling for something to do. These conscienceless killers are known. The armed forces of the United States should be put to work hunting them to their lairs, and giving them as good as they send. If they love the submachine gun, let them have it, in the neck, with Uncle Sam's compliments. The situation is rapidly getting to be the limit, and our national apathy, as well.

America's Taxation Jungle.
Kansas City Star.

Not so long ago a congressional committee found more than 300 instances of duplicated Federal and State taxes. Perhaps most people know of the general situation, without having had the opportunity to count the instances. Most people know of the duplicated State and local taxes, too, especially the real estate owner and the motor car owner. A conference on municipal finances, meeting at Chicago, agreed that the country's whole tax system is a jumble, that it is obsolete, full of duplications and overlapping, full, therefore, of inequalities and injustices. The conference wants a commission of representatives from local, State and National Government to work out and recommend a better system.

The Recovery Plan.
Montreal Star.

Roosevelt is invoking no legal powers, no authority vested in him by Congress, but is simply giving a lead to the people. If the American people do not agree with him and will not follow him, his menace against such employers as do not join him in restoring prosperity will be an empty threat. It will fall flat. He has no power to punish "slackers." Only the people can do that. All he does is to point out the men and indicate the means.

And How!

"I am optimistic," says Senator Morris Sheppard, one of the authors of the eighteenth amendment, "and think we shall stop the tide." But it is the untied you have to bother about now, Your Excellency.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

LETTER FROM A SMALL BUSINESS MAN TO GEN. JOHNSON.

Dear General: Well, general, I got my Blue Eagle this morning and I wish to thank you for the same. It arrived in good condition and is now in the front window with the notice of sheriff's sale. The neighbors have been around already to see if I have the eagle all right. I got it in the window just in time. Joe Kreelch, who runs a store down the street, didn't get his Blue Eagle in time and he had a hard time explaining, during which several windows were busted.

• • • •

The whole town is full of Blue Eagles, however, and it looks like a bird refuge. If I may be pardoned for joking, I would say President Roosevelt sure is giving the depression the bird.

• • • •

I like the WDOP sign very much, but wish you would drop me a line to settle a bet. I say it means "We Do Our Part." Some of the boys here say it means "We Double Our Profits." If it means both, it will be okay with me, but I would like to know for sure.

• • • •

As I was saying, most of the boys have the eagle and the WDOP in their windows, but I am afraid some of them think that's all they have to do, except trust to luck and not fire any help. They don't seem to understand very clearly that they are supposed to put on another clerk and shorten hours, and I think you will have to get after them on this point. There are some business men in this town that wouldn't hire any more help unless you got after them with a shotgun.

• • • •

The fellers that can and won't should be called on the carpet, but you mustn't forget that there are some who aren't making enough money to put even a Chinese coolie to work.

• • • •

I think the tough part of this drive is going to come when the whispering campaign begins. Just as happened back in the war days, when everybody was being drafted and mobilized, the next development in the recovery campaign is going to be the whispering campaign, when the neighbors get together over the back fences and accuse this and that merchant of not living up to his WDOP.

• • • •

Before very long Mrs. Smith is going to tell Mr. Brown that the corner delicatessen man has no right to his Blue Eagle because he put on only one extra clerk, and Mrs. White is going to circulate the yarn that the butcher is going to have his eagle taken away from him because he is working the help more hours a week than he should.

• • • •

Then the fireworks will begin. The neighbors, without verifying the gossip, will trot out the old boycott and before the Government can step in and see justice done the butcher and the delicatessen man will starve to death if they ain't run out of town.

• • • •

Already a fellow who's always been knocking me is telling people the bird on my license ain't official and that I got it from a counterfeiter. So that will just give you an idea.

• • • •

Well, anyhow, I want to assure you of my hearty support. I pledge myself to do my part in every way, and as to the President's drive to bring back prosperity in two years, it's a darned good trick, even if he don't do it. But he will do it. Yours truly,
ELMER TWITCHELL.

NEW BUSINESS IN SIGHT.

"Asked what would happen to merchants who obstructed the recovery plans, Gen. Johnson replied, 'They'll get a sock on the nose!'"—News item.

• • • •

We understand several nose-guard factories have already put on a night shift.

The appearance of Wiley Post in Radio City's Music Hall in New York suggests that at last an attraction of suitable proportions for that enormous edifice has been found. It is reported that it will soon be used to stage round-the-world flights.

"It was with difficulty that Vice Admiral the Hon. Reginald Aylmer Ranfurly Plunkett-Erle-Erle-Drax, commander in chief of the fleet in American and West Indian waters, could greet Balbo."—New York Herald Tribune.

Letters to the Editor.

Comment on Calvert Street Bridge Plans—Single Arch Not Incongruous.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The recommendation of the Fine Arts Commission for a multiple arch bridge over Rock Creek on Calvert street emphasizes the difference between architecture and engineering. Architecture is an art and engineering a science.

The science of engineering has made great progress since the Taft Bridge was constructed about a generation ago, and we expect the engineers designing this new Calvert street bridge to give us the advantage of the latest and best ideas in bridge construction. There is nothing incongruous between multiple and single arch bridges.

The architect who ruins valuable office space in monumental buildings, with restricted light and ventilation, due to colonnade facade, should be curbed and taught that art, like engineering, must give the greatest service for each dollar invested. Why not submit this question to the Engineering Council? DILWORTH POWELL.

Mere Trifles.

If Gen. Hugh Johnson is justified in his belief that the Federal national recovery plan will put 6,000,000 idle men back to work, what he calls the squawks about the plan will have little carrying power.

Clyde Beatty Arrives With Circus Today

Union Market Section Will Become Tented City for Two Days.

Clyde Beatty and the rest of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, one of the world's greatest trained wild animal shows, will arrive with the dawn today for a 2-day stand at Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast.

By noon, the vicinity of the Union Market will be a miniature tent city. The canvas community is comprised of 20 tents, including the mammoth big top, which weighs seven tons; cook and dining tents, sideshow top, stables, blacksmith shop, hospital, dressing tents and the menagerie top quartering the world's largest traveling collection of wild animals.

During the early hours the ordinarily peaceful Union Market section will be the scene of wild activity—rumbling red wagons, rhythmic sledge hammer blows, and jungle beasts roaring defiance at civilization.

The circus has 30 cages, 29 elephants, herds of camels, zebras, llamas, and dens of rare tropical birds.

Circus features include Princess Mu Kaun, giraffe-neck woman, from Upper Burma, where aristocratic ladies of the Padaung Tribe encircle their necks with solid brass rings that eventually stretch them to a length of 14 inches; iron-nerved Clyde Beatty, youthful wild animal trainer in a single-handed battle with 40 mixed lions and tigers; Bombayo, Hindu acrobat, doing double backward somersaults on the bounding Indian rope; the Bellitti troups of highwire artists; "Cheerful" Gardiner, with five herds of performing elephants; the Hills and the Clarkonians, aerialists; scores of thoroughbred high school horses and riders; a regiment of clowns, headed by Mickey McDonald, Otto Griebling, Earl Shipley, Joe Lewis, and Paul Jerome; and Miss Agnes Doss and Miss Esma Wilson, stars of the high trapeze.

Doors will open at the circus at 1 and 7 p. m. today and tomorrow an hour before each performance, thus permitting time for inspection of the wild animal menagerie. A downtown ticket office has been opened at the American Automobile Association, Seventeenth street and Pensnylvania avenue northwest.

Police Slay Killer After Fierce Battle

Machine Guns Used When Barricaded Man Opens Fire on Officers.

St. Louis, Aug. 1 (AP).—After a spectacular 45-minute machine gun battle tonight by police, George Perry, 43-year-old former hotel clerk, was wounded fatally shortly after he killed Samuel Murta, 77, wealthy proprietor of several low-price hotels here.

The battle began when police went to Perry's room to question him in connection with Murta's death, as the two had been together the last time Murta was seen alive in the afternoon. Upon finding the room locked, Perry was ordered out, but answered with four shots.

Fifty policemen were summoned, but only 10 or 12 took an active part. Holding a mirror outside a window, the police located Perry's position and ended the battle by sending a volley of machine gun bullets into the slayer.

Lower Wages Provided For Young Store Clerks

(Associated Press.)

Employees between 16 and 18 years, inclusive, with less than six months' experience in any store governed by the retail code may be paid $2 less for a work-week than is provided for other employees under the national recovery program.

This exception was allowed by the retailers' code that became effective yesterday in eight different types of stores. The minimum shall not be less than $11 per week. Workers of this age are described as junior employees.

Boards Named For Job Drive Over Nation

District Missed Through Error in Drafting Employment Aids.

Every State and almost every large city were represented in the personnel of 48 State and 26 district boards of recovery announced yesterday by Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

To the 614 individuals named on the board to command the President's recovery campaign, representatives of the National Capital are expected to be added shortly.

Washington was not represented in the lists made public yesterday due to an oversight, resulting from following the list of States and the geographical divisions used by the Department of Commerce for convenience in the handling of its work through the country.

Recovery officials were represented as eager that everything be done to facilitate the recovery work in the District and selection of local commanders is expected promptly.

Members Were Drafted.

Members of the various boards were "drafted" by the President, Gen. Johnson informed them in a telegram announcing their selection. They were selected, the administrator said, "to command his reemployment campaign in their respective States and districts."

"President Roosevelt has drafted you as one of the nine members of the State recovery board for the State of ——, as explained in Bulletin Number 3 of July 20, 1933," the Johnson message to each appointee said.

"He has requested you to volunteer your services without compensation in this great drive for National rehabilitation. As a member of this board your duties will be to get every patriotic American citizen, employer and consumer to cooperate in this program. Please wire acceptance immediately and you will receive further instructions."

Named for Nearby Area.

Thirty-four men were named to take command of the drive in this part of the country.

Seven of the nine members named to the Maryland State Recovery Board are from Baltimore. The Maryland board follows:

W. Mason Sheehan, Easton; William E. Robinson, Belair; Albert D. Hutzler, Carl Murphy, Charles M. Cohn, Donald Symington, John J. Nelligan, Henry F. Broening and the Right Rev. Micheal J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore.

The Virginia State Recovery Board members are:

Tobacco Sales At 3 Cents Stir Ire of Growers

Georgians Wire Roosevelt in Protest Against Low Prices.

Atlanta, Aug. 1 (AP).—Telegrams protesting opening prices offered for tobacco were sent from the towns of Adel and Hahira today to Federal and State officials as the crop went on sale throughout south Georgia.

A mass meeting of farmers, business men and tobacco warehousemen at Hahira heard protests against the opening prices which were said to be from 3 to 18 cents per pound, depending on the grade. Messages were sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace asking for a grade scale and price adjustment. It was said that all warehousemen in the State would be communicated with on the plan, and in the meantime the farmers there agreed to sell no more tobacco until the seat of Government is heard from.

G. C. Adams, commissioner of agriculture, received a protest from Adel. He said opening prices were reported ranging from 3 to 18 cents, the latter for fancy grades, whereas growers had expected the extra fancy grades to bring 30 cents per pound.

The commissioner made public a telegram bearing the signatures "J. S. Jones, chairman; D. F. Bruton, secretary," saying a mass meeting of growers was held today in Adel at which it "was determined that on the opening of the market this date the prices offered are below the cost of production."

Adams was informed that low grades of tobacco, sand lugs, were selling "as low as 3 cents, 5 cents and 6 cents. He was told that some fine grades sold at 14 cents and some extra fancy grades at 18 cents, whereas the growers expected the latter grades would bring more than 30 cents a pound.

Screaming Sirens Salute Mollisons

200,000 Join in Welcome to British Fliers in New York.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—Amy and James Mollison, England's famous flying couple, rode the heroes' route to City Hall today for an official reception and two of the city's shining gold medals.

Police estimated that 200,000 lined Broadway from the Battery to City Hall Park as the noisy parade passed up the canon-like thoroughfare.

Mrs. Mollison leaned over and told one of the city officials accompanying their automobile that she "just loved" to hear the sirens of the police escort, and so the latter half of the parade was speeded up and orders were given to turn the noise makers on full blast. They were, and the procession swung into City Hall Park to the tune of a deafening roar.

Two Billions Mortgage Aid Work Starts

Morgenthau to Have 3,000 Appraisers Deciding on Farm Loans Daily.

(Associated Press.)

Organization of a Nation-wide force of Federal employees to carry quickly to farmers in every county the benefits of the $2,000,000,000 farm mortgage legislation has been started by Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

He told newspapermen yesterday he expected to be able to refinance farm mortgages at a rate of up to 2,500 a day. He added that he is building up a staff of from 2,500 to 3,000 appraisers at the 12 Federal Land banks and these will be broken up into crews to put on county-by-county refinancing campaigns.

These crews will appraise all farms involved in applications for refinancing mortgages whether the applicant mortgage-holders are insurance companies, private individuals, closed, restricted or open banks.

Mr. Morgenthau estimated that each appraiser will be able to pass on an average of about three farms in two days, or 1.5 farms a day.

On April 1 there were 210 appraisers connected with the land banks. A total of 803 has been added since and 800 more are in training. Additional hundreds are to be selected later as they are needed.

Mr. Morgenthau said the activities of the land banks have increased about 60 per cent in recent months and that 114,000 applications for more than $400,000,000 in loans have been filed since May.

Congress authorized the land banks to issue up to $2,000,000,000 in bonds for mortgage refinancing. For the present, no bonds will be issued, as the banks have about $90,000,000 on hand, and Mr. Morgenthau has arranged for an advance of $100,000,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation.

The county-by-county campaigns will be an extension of the plan for refinancing farm mortgages held by closed and restricted banks, which is now under way in Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky and South Carolina.

The bank campaigns will be extended into other States as soon as arrangements have been completed and there are sufficient appraisers available to carry on the program.

But instead of limiting the campaign to mortgages held by closed or restricted banks, the refinancing program hereafter contemplates that appraisers sent into a county will value all land for which refinancing applications have been made, including those of banks which are operating without restrictions.

At the same time, other appraisers will be available to handle applications on which quick action is sought in counties where the campaigns are to be conducted at a later date.

In addition to the issuance of $2,000,000,000 in bonds, Congress authorized special loans to farmers from a $200,000,000 fund. The latter loans can be made on the security offered by either land or chattels up to 75 per cent of their value, less prior liens. Second mortgages will be accepted.

Mr. Morgenthau said he is urging that appraisals be made on a "liberal" basis. He added that mortgage holders generally are withholding foreclosure proceedings until time has been provided for the farmers to obtain refinancing.

Cuban Students, Political Prisoners, Released

States Warned To Raise Share Of Relief Fund

Hopkins Already Has Paid Out $101,793,444 in Federal Aid.

(Associated Press.)

A fresh warning to States went out yesterday from the Emergency Relief Administration that unless they do their part in affording unemployment and distress relief, the $500,000,000 appropriated by Congress for this purpose will not last through the coming winter.

Harry L. Hopkins, the administrator, made this plain in a talk with newspapermen, and at the same time announced contributions to States out of the relief fund had passed $100,000,000.

Hopkins also announced acceptance of the resignation of Langdon W. Post, of New York, as assistant director of the Federal Relief Agency, and said he understood Post was entering Manhattan politics. He added the position would not be filled.

"The $500,000,000 will be enough to see us through this winter if we can make the States do their share," he said. "If they don't, it won't be enough."

One-half of this fund is being allotted to the States on the basis of $1 for every 3 spent by them in a given three-months period. The other half will be allotted on the basis of need and does not have to be matched.

Four new grants were announced yesterday as follows:

Mississippi, $240,000; Alabama, $1,540,000; Arkansas, $607,556, and the District of Columbia, $173,353.

This brought the total grants since the law became effective in May to $101,793,444, of which $8,477,459 has been paid out of the "discretionary" fund and requires no matching.

While Hopkins was making the new figures public, he also served notice he was "going to bat" with Gov. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma, "about some changes" in the relief organization there. He did not outline the detailed changes he would insist upon, but said that "everybody on the pay roll from soup to nuts has got to be approved by us."

The formal announcement of Post's resignation said Post, a former New York Assemblyman, would "return to New York City to become actively identified as a candidate with the fusion movement in the forthcoming municipal campaign."

Political Clashes Break Out in Cuba

Communist Groups Assail Welles' Mediation and U. S. "Imperialism."

Havana, Aug. 1 (AP).—While Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, pressed forward today with his program of constitutional reforms for Cuba, news of political disturbances in other parts of the island were received here.

At Santiago a detective attached to the army unit there, shot and killed a woman worker parading with Communists. Her companions attacked the man, injuring him seriously.

In Camaguey 500 Communist demonstrators were dispersed by police after they had broken windows at the Cuban Cigar & Cigarette Co.'s warehouse, several paraders getting cracked heads. They bore banners assailing Welles' mediation and "Yankee imperialism." Later, 2,000 persons welcomed Dr. Gonzalez del Christo, oppositionist and recently released political prisoner. Several minor clashes with police occurred.

Parole Board's Power Explained by Bride

The District board of indeterminate sentence and parole has no authority to parole a District prisoner in a Federal prison, Corporation Counsel William W. Bride advised the District Commissioners yesterday.

Ruling in the case of Lloyd Monroe, a District prisoner at Atlanta, Bride said that such a case fell within the jurisdiction of the Federal Parole Board unless the prisoner is returned to the District Reformatory.

State Troopers Protect Milk in Strike Sectors

New York Deliveries Made as Armed Farmers Are Forced to Retreat.

Boonville, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP).—The scheduled "State-wide" milk strike of the Empire Dairymen's Association developed in only 4 of the State's 62 counties today, but with violence that sent troopers speeding to the protection of dairy plants and milk trains.

Milk and cream trucks were dumped, trees and spiked planks thrown across highways and milk deliveries effectively curtailed for hours in Oneida, Herkimer, Chenango and Lewis counties. Five farmers were knocked unconscious and injured in encounters with steel-helmeted State police at Holland Patent, Alder Creek and Glenfield.

The strike originated among farmers under the leadership of Albert Woodhead, a Rochester business man, and Stanley Piseck, a Boonville dairyman. Both are demanding for the farmers a larger share of the consumer's milk dollar than the State milk control board is willing to give them. The board has boosted the return to farmers through a complicated system of classified minimum prices, but has refused to grant the flat 45 per cent of the retail dollar which some groups demand.

Woodhead's comment on the strike tonight was:

"They haven't got started yet."

The largest disturbance was at Boonville, where 400 farmers, many armed with axes and clubs, blocked the passage of two Dairymen's League trucks convoyed by 16 cars of State police. Eight farmers were injured as the police went into action with tear gas and night sticks. The police acted under the order of Gov. Lehman to give the State's protection to all persons doing "law abiding business."

The farmers retreated and the milk went through.

Federal Labor Man Gives Up In Racket Case

Dr. Squires Denies Part in Chicago Cleaning and Dyeing Plot.

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP).—Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, university professor and Federal labor mediator, surrendered and posted $10,000 bond today shortly after the arrest of four labor union leaders indicted with him for conspiracy to restrain legitimate trade by racketeering enterprises.

The basis for the indictment of Squires was believed to be a contract under which it was sought to regulate chaotic conditions in the cleaning and dyeing industry of Chicago while Squires was director of the Cleaners and Dyers Institute.

Upon posting bond, Squires demanded a speedy trial and promised to vindicate himself. He returned here from Reading, Pa., to face the charges, where he was acting as mediator in a hosiery industry strike.

"The contract under which we sought to stabilize the cleaning and dyeing industry was drawn up by former Supreme Court Justice Thompson," Squires said.

"Under my supervision the industry experienced less violence than at any other time. The hoodlums joined with me in the indictment are unknown to me."

The four defendents arrested today were Charles Goldstein, James P. Gorman, Al Boris and Ben Abrams, all officials of unions in the cleaning and dyeing or the laundry industries.

Lightning Fires Barn; 3 Men Inside Escape

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 1.—Struck by lightning yesterday during a severe electrical storm, a barn on the farm of Edward Lewis, near Wolfsville, was burned, together with this year's wheat and hay crops, farming implements and a quantity of harness. Three horses were driven from the building, one badly burned.

Mr. Lewis, his 17-year-old son, and a neighbor were in the barn and the fire burned so rapidly they barely had time to rescue the horses. A heavy rain saved adjoining buildings.

Starving Man, Adrift 11 Days, Saved After Companion Dies

Tells of Horrors of Gulf Mishap Without Food or Water.

Corpus Christi, Tex., Aug. 1 (AP).—Gaunt from exposure and heavily bearded, Jack A. Davis, 33, of Kissimmee, Fla., lay on a hospital bed here today and related a tale of hurricane horrors experienced when he drifted 11 days without food or water after his sloop capsized in the Yucatan Channel.

His companion, William Wallace Bell, 28, could bear the torture of drifting without food and water no longer and leaped overboard last Sunday night, he said.

"After midnight last night," Davis said, "I heard the pounding of surf and ran the boat through the surf to the beach, thinking I was landing on the coast of Mexico. When I got out on the beach a man alighted from an automobile nearby and said 'good evening' in English."

The man who greeted him was Harry Pace, Coast Guardsman, who took Davis to the Port Arkansas Coast Guard Station. An ambulance brought Davis to a hospital here today.

Davis said he and Bell left Panama City, Fla., July 21, in the 19-foot half-deck sloop-rigged boat. Davis, as navigator, set his course for the Yucatan Channel. He said he had contracted to build five boats on the coast of Honduras.

A severe storm overtook them off Cape San Antonio, Cuba, he related. He furled all of the sail, as the wind increased, and the sloop ran for 40 hours without canvas, finally capsizing under heavy cross seas in what Davis believed was the Yucatan Channel.

"All of our supply of food and water was lost," he said, "and for three days and nights we clung to the bottom of the boat. We were washed off a dozen times or more," he said, "but saved each other several times." They finally were successful in righting the boat. "We bailed with two pans, but still could not get rid of enough water to keep the boat from riding low," Davis said. Added to their other fears was the constant terror of a school of leopard sharks following them.

800 Emblems Of NRA Given Out First Day

Blue Eagle Badges Issued Here From Postoffice Department.

More than 800 blue eagle badges of the National Recovery Administration are estimated to have been issued in Washington yesterday at the Postoffice Department at Eleventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. It was the first day the emblems were available.

This figure is unofficial as the National Recovery Administration and Postoffice Department withheld information on the number of certificates issued.

Up to 1 p. m. 400 badges were known to have been issued. This figure was made public before instructions were given not to reveal the local enrollment in the recovery drive. During the afternoon the badges were distributed at the rate of about 100 per hour, it was learned. The first eagle was given to Owen Ham, of the American Automobile Association. Stanley Horner, automobile dealer, displayed a flag, 6 by 10 feet, bearing a duplicate design of the N. R. A. badge.

Balbo Due to Hop Off at Dawn Today

Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Fine weather over most of the North Atlantic tonight caused Gen. Italo Balbo, commanding the 24 Italian seaplanes, to schedule start of the 1,950-mile nonstop flight to Valentia, Ireland, for dawn tomorrow.

Balbo ordered tool chests removed from the ships in order to take on more fuel, and indicated one man might be taken from the crews of some, or all, of the planes for the same reason.

Valentia, Ireland, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Gen. Italo Balbo may be named minister of the navy when he reaches Rome, it was reported in Italian quarters here tonight.

$100,000 Paid Kidnapers to Free Urschel

Oil Millionaire Says He Was Handcuffed Nine Days in Shack.

Oklahoma City, Aug. 1 (AP).—Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire freed by kidnapers after his wife had paid the full ransom demanded, told today of being held a prisoner, blindfolded and handcuffed, for nine days in a "back woods" shack.

Details of the ransom payment were guarded in secrecy. It was believed by Federal operatives to have been one of the largest ever made, possibly $75,000 or $100,000. The ransom demand never was made public.

Arthur Seeligson, attorney and chief intermediary for the family, disclosed that Mrs. Urschel paid unhesitatingly the entire amount asked by the kidnapers. He would not tell how the release negotiations were conducted or how the money was paid.

Urschel, smiling and laughing at times as he told of his captivity, said he never saw his kidnapers except for a few minutes in the dark immediately after the two dark machine gunners seized him during a bridge game on the sunporch of his luxurious home.

The two men taped his eyes as they started the long automobile trip from Oklahoma City to the hideout shack, Urschel said, and the tape was removed for only two brief periods—once to allow him to write a letter which paved the way for the ransom negotiations and again to permit him to shave before beginning the homeward journey.

"They handcuffed me at night," Urschel related. "They treated me fine and were as considerate as they could be. I came home alone. They let me out near Norman. It was near a barbecue stand on the main highway. I went to the stand and called a taxicab from Norman and came home in that."

Asked whether he would cooperate with Federal operatives in their hunt for the kidnapers, Urschel said he did not want to answer the question. He added he had little information which would be of value to the investigators.

R. H. Colvin, head of the Government agents investigating the kidnaping, said his men had no more information than that given to the newspapers.

Prosecutor Ready To Trap Kidnapers

O'Connell Abductors Are Expected to Be Rounded Up Shortly.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 1 (AP).—District Attorney John T. Delaney is preparing to spring on the kidnapers of John J. O'Connell, jr., the trap which he baited two weeks ago when he picked the third list of intermediaries, one of whom negotiated the release of the young brewery executive for $40,000 ransom.

It was indicated in official circles that only a few developments are necessary before Delaney will be prepared to make his final move in the three weeks' search for the abductors.

One of the twelve men that the prosecutor advised the O'Connell family to include in a group that might be satisfactory to the kidnap mob was Manney Strewl, 30-year-old former convict. Strewl now is held by the authorities. Delaney said Strewl had given him "much valuable information" and added that he would likely be charged with being an accessory to the kidnaping.

Fireman Plan Stands Along Line of March

10,000 Seats to Be Built; Receipts Will Go to Labor Day Fund.

Spectators who crowd Pennsylvania avenue and usually stand for hours while the units of the firemen's Labor Day parade file by will be given the opportunity of purchasing reserved seats this year.

Upward of 10,000 comfortable seats will be constructed along the line of march on the Avenue between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. They will go on sale within a few days at prominent downtown locations and can be had for nominal sums.

As plans now stand, the parade committee expects to charge 40 and 25 cents for the seats. Profits from the seats will go directly to the parade fund.

Last year about 10,000 seats were set up along the parade line, and a half hour before the colorful pageant began they were completely sold out. Should an advance sale indicate such a demand this year, efforts will be made to secure more seats.

In the past, the parade has always started exactly at 11 o'clock, and Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal, will start the event this year at the same time. However, the festivities actually will commence at 10:30 o'clock, with the bicycle and roller skating sweepstakes.

To Have Best View.

The entire half hour before the parade will be packed full of thrills and features of the races. A spot near the reviewing stand for the parade will be used as the ending point for the races, and spectators in the reserved seats will have the best view of the finish.

A seat ticket to the parade also entitles the holder to a space for the sweepstakes. Announcements will be made shortly as to the definite price of the seats and the places at which they may be had.

Considerable interest is being shown in the commercial division of the parade. A score of Washington merchants called the parade committee yesterday and last night relative to entering floats. It is again pointed out that commercial concerns may enter the parade this year, providing their entries pass the committee's requirements on artistic merit.

A number of professional designers and decorators are working with the committee and are securing splendid cooperation among local merchants. Heretofore, commercial houses could not take part in the Labor Day ceremonies.

Each entrant of the commercial division is required to pay a fee of $15, which goes to the parade committee and helps to finance the celebration.

As plans went forward among the committee members in Washington, evidence that fire companies in other States were following the same lines was shown by the entries. To date, which have come from fire companies in New York, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and North Carolina.

The entrance blank for the commercial float division, published for the first time yesterday, is reprinted today. Concerns which have not yet entered the parade, should sign and mail it to the parade committee at once.

The trophy committee yesterday reported donations of beautiful cups by the Annapolis and Hamilton Hotels. Both cups will be given to fire companies that win one of the important parade events.

Cigar Leaf Crops Are Being Reduced

50 Per Cent of All Growers Already Have Signed Slash Agreement.

(Associated Press.)

J. B. Hutson, acting chief of the farm credit administration's tobacco section, said yesterday that 50 per cent of the cigar leaf tobacco growers had signed agreements to reduce acreage this year.

The tobacco-reduction campaign is continuing and final announcement of the results is expected within a few weeks.

The cigar leaf tobacco acreage reduction agreements are being offered to growers in New England, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

As in the case of cotton and wheat, growers who agree to reduce their acreage for the next harvest will get cash payments from the Farm Administration. If all farmers, who are in line for the agreement sign, approximately $3,500,000 will be paid to tobacco growers this year.

Hutson said the cigar tobacco growing industry is in a serious situation because cigar consumption has declined over a period of several years.

Flag Group Picks Mrs. Dougherty

Vice President General to Help Direct Crime Drive.

The United States Flag Association, which is planning a campaign against crime throughout the country, announced yesterday the appointment of Mrs. John Allan Dougherty as vice president general.

Mrs. Dougherty also has been appointed executive vice chairman of the steering committee of the National Council of '76. Other members of this committee, which is to conduct the campaign, include former Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, chairman; Senator Royal S. Copeland and Representative James W. Wadsworth.

A meeting of the steering committee has been called for 10 a. m. tomorrow at the Hotel Mayflower. Plans will be formulated for a concentrated drive on crime.

Culbertson on Bridge

Don't Drive—Approach.

AN interested student of bridge submits the cards he and his partner held in a recent game, and asks my criticism of the bidding. To be terse, I would say that the calls made were subject to criticism because both players believed in drives rather than Approaches. Before the Opening bid is made, every player around the table is in the dark as to suit lengths and distributions of the other players. On a great majority of hands the best Opening bid is a suit bid of one. This, unless the honor strength is very great, is especially true of hands known as two-suiters because of the necessity of at least two rounds of bidding to impart the story of distribution.

The following are the hands upon which my correspondent asked me to comment:

West, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

The actual bidding:

West	North	East	South
2♡	Pass	3♠	Pass
4NT	Pass	5♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

To take this bidding up in detail, the first mistake was West's Opening bid. His hand does not contain the honor-tricks to justify an Opening Force bid of two in a suit. In explanation of his call, West contended that a game in clubs or hearts was virtually certain, needing only a minimum of strength in his partner's hand except against the most freakish distribution. I concede all this, but the hand suggests freakish distribution, so the best Opening bid is a low Approach bid. Inasmuch as he has six clubs and five hearts, both biddable, he should bid one club rather than one heart. The question, I grant is close because of the much greater top-card strength in the heart suit, but still, in view of the void in spades, I believe the club Opening preferable.

In response to West's Opening bid of two hearts there was no occasion whatever for East to have bid three spades. Two spades would have painted an adequate picture of the hand.

Althought East can not be blamed for believing that a slam was available to the partnership, West's bid of four notrump over three spades is very bad. He is void absolutely of the suit named by his partner. He has another biddable suit to show and, without any knowledge of a fit anywhere in the hand, to embark upon a Slam expedition is an invitation to disaster. East can not be blamed for his bid of five spades at this point. After all, he knows nothing about the distribution of the West hand and still, no doubt, believes that a Slam is available. By failing to use Approach methods, a certain game and an almost certain Slam were sacrificed.

In my judgment, East and West should have bid their combined hands thus: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

West	East
1♣ (1)	1♠ (2)
2♡ (3)	3♣ (4)
4♡ (5)	5♣ (6)

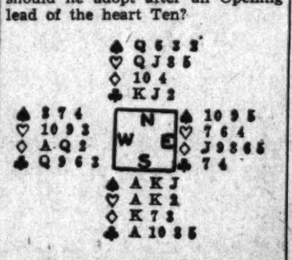
1—An Approach.
2—The One-over-One response. East is not strong enough to force.
3—Neither can West force, because of insufficient honor strength and a lack of fit in his partner's bid suit.
4—Not a Forcing bid, but a strong suggestion that game is available.
5—Still offering the choice between two biddable suits, and disclosing the 6—5 distribution.
6—Naturally East prefers clubs.

In order to make the Slam in clubs, all that West needs to find is an even break in the club suit or a singleton honor in the hand of either opponent. West's hand is of such freakish distribution that this may not be the case, but, in any event, even though defeated, he still would have the satisfaction of having bid the hand correctly and having reached the correct final contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If South is playing a contract of six notrump, what line of play should he adopt after an Opening lead of the heart Ten?



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Single Owner Now Has Both Airports Here

Ludington Brothers Sell Hoover Field to National Corp.

For the first time since the use of the property as airports, Washington and Hoover Fields are under one ownership, and the owner is willing to sell.

The ink was hardly dry on the books of the recorder of deeds in Arlington County, Va., when the deed was transferred again to the National Airport Corporation, a Delaware corporation, entitled to operate in Virginia.

The Ludington brothers of Philadelphia, bought in Hoover Field at Monday's auction to protect their mortgage holdings, and within a short time concluded a deal with Frank F. Russell, vice president of National Aviation Corporation. The amount paid was not disclosed. The Ludingtons paid $174,500 at the auction, where they were the only bidders.

Russell said yesterday the fields will continue to operate as airports, and that some steps have been taken to combine them into one large adequate field. The presence of Military road between them and the fact that the road is Government-owned bring up difficulties which he says will be difficult to overcome.

National Airport Corporation was the unnamed purchaser of Washington Field two weeks ago. The corporation has its office in the administration building at the field. It is a part of National Aviation Corporation, a holding company.

"Sure, we'll sell," Russell said yesterday.

Wallace Postpones Decision on Wheat

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Wallace yesterday announced postponement until August 24 of his decision setting the percentage of wheat acreage reduction to be asked of farmers in consideration of benefit payments to be paid under the voluntary domestic allotment plan.

Wallace said he "wishes to give the world wheat conference an opportunity to reach a decision for a reduction of production by all four great exporting nations before the United States embarks independently upon a definite domestic acreage reduction program of its own."

Wallace's order was recognition of a cablegram received late last week asking him to postpone his decision because of new possibilities for an international agreement being reached at London.

Men in Forest Camps Protect U. S. Coal Lands

Long Raging Mine Fire in Wyoming Extinguished By C. C. C. Men.

Threatened by underground fires, $63,000,000 worth of Government coal stands to be saved through work of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

In the vast coal fields owned or leased by Uncle Sam in various Northwestern States, 200,000,000,000 tons of coal in its unmined form are being burned away by continuous and dangerous underground fires.

Several weeks ago 28 of these miniature volcanoes were not under control. But C. C. C. workers, at the only camp of its kind near Gillette, Wyo., tackled five of them. In less than three weeks two of them are practically extinguished and the virgin coal protected. The other three are being rapidly extinguished.

Last Wednesday, according to word received at the office of Fred W. Johnson, commissioner of public lands, one of the worst coal fires in history broke out at the old Black Diamond mine, Wyoming. It was not being worked and no miners were in it. Residents near the mine banded together to help protect their property.

The ranchers asked aid of the C. C. C. men. By Saturday the fire was under control and the valuable coal veins were sealed. Thousands of dollars and possibly lives had been saved by members of the new Government camp.

About 200 men make up the camp in Wyoming. They are supervised by trained mine foremen, adept in fighting coal fires. Gas masks, torches, and mining implements are part of their equipment. However, most of their labor is above the surface of the earth, for it is here that most of the coal field fires are best attacked.

These fires have been burning for years. Whole veins have been seared away by flames and heat, although agents of the U. S. Land Office have had them under observation, and have extinguished them as best they could.

Officials of the Land Office are elated over the work at the camp near Gillete, especially the accomplishments of the men in the recent Black Diamond mine fire. With such results being obtained, they believe it will not be long before the huge fields of the Government will be under the supervision of the C. C. C. enlisted workers.

3-Year Prison Term Is Given In Bigamy Case

Virginia Resident Pleads Guilty to Marrying Three Women.

Pleading guilty to a charge of bigamy in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday, John Amos Witt, 33, of Norfolk, Va., was sentenced to three years in the State penitentiary.

Witt pleaded guilty before Judge Joseph C. Mattingly after testimony was given by his second and third wives.

Serefina Witt, of New York City, and La Vaughn Nairn, of Capitol Heights, the second and third wives of Witt, assertedly married to four women without obtaining divorces, told of their relations with their "husband" and how they learned he had become wedded to a fourth, who is unnamed in court papers.

Witt said each wife had talked of divorcing him and that he thought they had done so without his knowledge.

Rites for George S. French.

The funeral of George Smoot French, who died on Monday in a Washington hospital, was held yesterday afternoon from the residence on Seminary Hill, Alexandria. The Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, officiated. Burial was in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Any beer is only as good as it tastes—to YOU. Some people like a SHARP, HOPPY flavor, others prefer it milder and smoother. Some like a heavy-bodied beer, while others want it lighter and brighter.
Our German brewmaster struck a "happy medium" in originating an exclusive formula by which we've been making and aging our dark and light beer for the past few months. This NEW beer is being released now. Everywhere you go, you'll recognize GUNTHER'S NEW BEER by the NEW LABEL. GUNTHER'S NEW BEER is an even-bodied, even-flavored drink, that will satisfy more individual tastes than any other beer on the market. One bottle is more convincing than a thousand words. Try it today and convince yourself.
. . . . for the BEER you'll never forget!

Air Travel Drops First Six Months

During the first six months of 1933, 195,874 passengers rode on scheduled airlines in continental United States.

This is a decrease from the first six months of 1932, when 217,588 passengers were carried. However, a recent spurt indicates that the figures for all of 1933 will exceed 1932. The June, 1933, total of 54,023 is considerably greater than the June, 1932, total of 46,639.

For the first six months of this year, 650,875 pounds of air express were carried, compared with 441,192 pounds in the same period last year. June, 1933 figures for express show a remarkable increase ot 135,266 pounds over the 76,794 pounds last June.

Passenger mile figures this year also are greater than the same period last year, 64,382,359 for six months, as against 54,534,746 for 1932. The airlines flew 22,904,511 miles January to July of this year, and 22,204,295 during the same period last year.

Broad Shoulders Bear the Brunt of Fall Fashions, Says Amos Parrish

Shopper Defies Heat to Go On BargainBender

By Ann Davis.

There's a cozy charm about the purr of a cat in winter time when we gather about the open hearth, but give us the breezy purr of an electric fan in midsummer. Blow the heat away and half your troubles are gone. An F street store is selling eight-inch fans formerly $3 for $1.95. The ten-inch $6 fans are $2.95. Invite your friends to come over and enjoy the breeze. Say, there's one in every room. Help, there, traffic cop.

Once upon a time bespectacled miss and wallflower were practically synonymous terms. But no more. A downtown optician is showing a line of full view spectacles with the mounting high on the glass, and the glass cut down at the top. By these means milady's eyebrows are well in sight, and her eye in complete view from the side. There's an air to these new spectacles that's definitely attractive.

And speaking of glasses, remember the old one? What makes your nose so red grandfather? Glasses, granddaughter. Glasses of what, grandfather? (Laughter.)

We don't mind spending a small fortune on that evening dress we wear two or three times a month, but when it comes to that every-day office, or gad-about dress we'd like a bargain price. Something nice, of course, and something neat, but mostly plain, cool, and inexpensive. The shopper has one spotted. It's black sheer crepe, with medium length pleated bell sleeves, white collar, and short jacket. Price $4.74.

Summertime means bridge foursomes, and bridge foursomes mean bridge prizes. Bridge prizes mean worrying about what to buy. And wondering about what to buy means how to buy and what to pay. Let the shopper suggest. A down town department store has ivy bowls mounted on wrought iron stands. The bowls are filled with pink, green, yellow and blue individual powder puffs. Price $1. Gold edged playing cards with old fashioned pictures, dog pictures, cat pictures and cowboy pictures. Four decks, $1.

Just you mention syphon bottle and see what happens. The shopper tried it. Someone sang a snatch of "Show Me the Way to Go Home," and somebody mentioned the water wagon. Somebody else tried a falsetto Adeline, and somebody remarked something dryly. It's a sin and a shame, it is. Little syphon bottle, so misunderstood. It has excellent uses no one ever thinks about. It makes a jim dandy waffle mixer, a fine ice coffee stirrer-upper, and is a big help in making home custard ice creams.

An F street store is selling one that fits into your refrigerator, and serves as the little home fountain for sodas, fizzes, &c. There they go, laughing again.

It's a lovely looking bottle, ornamented with silver wire mesh. And we'll let you in on a secret. It's selling below cost. Bottle and one-half dozen cartridges, $4.

Remember those rainy afternoons when we couldn't go out to play, and grandmother would say if we'd be quiet children she'd make some divinity fudge? Remember how we used to lick the pan and how we always fought with somebody over the spoon? And we'd eat so much candy we couldn't eat dinner, but that was all right we thought, the candy was better than dinner.

The proprietor of an F street refreshment shop has grandmother's recipe. What candy she makes! White, and creamy, light and fluffy! Melts in the mouth! You can always buy it fresh from the kitchen, but if you want a large order better call in ahead of time.

Milady's bath may soon become a splendid ceremony with all the decorative items the shops are contributing toward it. A round box camouflaged to look like wood, contains a good olive oil soap in banana, pear, lemon and orange shapes. Price 75 cents. Bath powder in fantastically colored boxes, 43 cents. Bath crystals in globular jars with black tops, 55 cents.

The old black dress in the closet really isn't very old. But the tie around the neck, and the wrist bands are worn and soiled. The shopper wondered what to do.

She sought a bargain counter. "Neckwear, reduced to 50 cents," read a sign. From a confused assortment she selected a small, trim and very prim little white organdie collar with stiff, stitched cuffs to match.

The old black dress which really isn't very old came out of the closet. A little cleaning and brushing and tacking on of the collar and cuffs. Now look at it. The answer to what 50 cents can do.

Call Ann Davis, of the Woman's Department of The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 27, for further information. Or write, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope.

What's in Fashion?

High, Wide and Handsome Is Edict; Javanese Influence Marked in New Model Frocks and Coats; Furs Follow Suit

By Amos Parrish.

Are your shoulders good and broad? Because you'll be carrying a lot on them when fall arrives. A lot of fashion. Shoulders are the point to which all eyes turn when they see the new dresses and coats. But if your shoulders aren't broad to start with, don't worry. They'll be that way, nine times out of ten, before fashion gets through with them.

Higher, Too.

And they won't sag under their smart load, either. On the contrary, many of them will stand up even straighter and higher than usual.

For, in addition to making them look wider, the new treatments of shoulders often make them look higher.

Dress Shoulders.

In tailored dresses you'll find tucks or folds marking the shoulders, sometimes turned to stand up; and broad, squared yokes and collars; triangular peaks over the tops of sleeves pointing upward; and padded rolls, flounces and wings around the arm-size, stiffened by stitching or padding.

Softer dresses use padded shirrings, shirred rolls and ruffles, quiltings and looped bows to call attention to their shoulders.

Lanvin's Collar.

Some of these things you can see in the sketches. Lanvin's big square sailor collar, for one. This you'll discover in several variations, some detachable and some attached to the dress. Or made into a big square yoke set right into the bodice.

This same type collar is also used in several ways on coats, both furred and unfurred.

Then there are Schiaparelli's padde drolls which were inspired by the costumes of Javanese dancers. And these, too, in variations are found on coats as well as dresses.

Maggy Rouff is responsible for the double tuckings illustrated. But this isn't the only way tucks are used, of course. Lyolene, for instance, has made an upstanding tuck effect around the yoke neckline of some of her dresses. Quite new and unusual looking.

Fur on Coats.

Coats haven't quite so much leeway in choice of shoulder details.

Naturally. Since most of them are fur-trimmed and fur doesn't lend itself to all the shirrings and tuckings of fabric.

But in addition to the big squared collar there are lots of kinds of yokes and all sorts of things are done with fur at the tops of sleeves.

The way Lucile Paray uses it is shown in the sketch at the bottom. The Schiaparelli rolls are used, too, in unfurred coats and there are many wing-like extensions, crests and epaulets. All calculated to make this the year when "Shoulders erect!" is the order.

(Copyright, 1933.)

Tomorrow: Boxy cut and wide shoulders smart in sports fur coats.

Old-Time Bengaline.

One of the old-fashioned materials coming back into use is bengaline. In fact all the ribbed silks are being used. They are particularly effective used as trimmings, since their stiffer textures make them effective in the crisp, stand-uppish trimmings many new dresses have.

Black Taffeta Hats.

Black taffeta is a black horse in the midsummer millinery race. The odds are on neat sailors, medium brim hats and flattering capelines. But berets and visor jockey cap types are runners-up.

Lovely Hands Are the Gift Of Modernity

Grandmother Didn't Know the Secrets of the Manicure.

By Elsie Pierce.

I wonder what great grandmother would have said had she been permitted to gaze into the crystal and see her great granddaughter having her nails manicured in the modern manner? She would have had to gaze long pondering what it was all about. For the manicure would be a very novel thing to her.

Filing and shaping the nails was quite unheard of. They were cut straight across at first. Then cut to a long, narrow effect with sharp point when buffing became the vogue. This dates back only about 50 years. The vogue started in Newport and other fashionable resorts. Rotten stone, oil, dry rouge and buffer were the means to the end. Young girls and women would gather for their sewing or knitting or chatting and bring their buffers with them. And they did less sewing and more buffing. Hours on end they would spend to get a high gloss.

Buffing Tedious.

The better buffers were made of ivory and had the device for fastening fresh strips of chamois skin over the buffer. And many is the cook who watched zealously for her mistress to discard her chamois so that the former could tack it on a tool made of kindling wood and begin the nail polishing. What rubbing that needed!

Right through the ages women of every station have wanted to be beautiful. And don't let them tell you that they spent less time on beauty methods than we do today for our modern methods make it possible for us to "do things" in a few minutes, a complete manicure in one-fourth the time they took to merely polish.

Working Hands.

The belle of 1833 may have had more work to do than the women of today. What with raising sheep, carding wool, spinning, knitting socks and making clothes, doing the family laundry and drawing the water from the well herself, managing the housework and mending and so on, her hands were working the whole day through. What of the modern woman? True, electric devices have simplified her lot a great deal. But even when she has a thousand household tasks she protects her hands with gloves, creams, lotions.

Today the woman with five maids and the woman with five children and no maids meet for a round of bridge and no one can tell which pair of hands do the work. In 1833 the Southern belle, who never did more than a little knitting, was the only one who had "lily white" hands. Today all hands are cared for, smooth, white, soft, lovely and tipped—a riot of glorious liquid colors to match moods, costumes or what do you wish.

My two bulletins on hands will make the home manicure a simple rite. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for these.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Omelet' Shampoo Encourages Curls

But it's just as likely she is preparing to wash her hair by an old, old method. Her dainty grandmother used it when soap was harsh and homemade. Granddaughter uses it to give her hair a soft, silky texture.

This modern miss separates the yolks from the whites of three eggs and beats each of them until they are slightly foamy. First she pours the yolks over her hair. Then, with the tips of her fingers, she gives her hair a thorough massage.

After rinsing carefully with warm water, she pours the whites on bit by bit, and rubs—vigorously. Again she rinses in warm water, preferably with a fine spray.

This method has the advantage of cleaning quickly and thoroughly. It is particularly good for dry hair because of the absence of alkali in eggs.

Perhaps you, as your grandmother did, will use an egg shampoo continually. "An omelet on my head!" you scoff. Not exactly. More probably an aurora of fluffy curls.

Fashion Briefs.

All Puckered Up.

Old-fashioned handling of material gives many of the new fall dress fashions considerable interest. Padded effects at the shoulders and top sleeves are achieved by all sort of puckered effects . . . shirrings, quiltings and smockings. Often this thickness is further accentuated by padding or stiffening.

Schiaparelli puckers her fabrics to their full limit by using materials with elastic threads woven right into them. And you can well imagine how slick these elasticized dresses are going to fit.

Midsummer Moan.

By Katherine Smith.

They are scrambling eggs on sidewalks
As the heat is rising high,
And the weather man is chortling
As he sees the people fry.

By day we moan in offices
About the awful heat.
At night there is no sleeping
When we're sticking to the sheet.

So when we can't be floating
In a tub or swimming pool
We'll be trying to remember
What it feels like to be cool.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"Leo."

If August 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:10 a. m., from 1:40 p. m. to 2:15 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 11:40 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will be of such a nature as to cause people to be easily hurt by the actions and words of others. Guard your tongue carefully on this day lest you do irreparable damage. Avoid if possible taking even the shortest of trips of a business nature; they will bring results the opposite of those anticipated more than likely.

The child born on this August 2 will greatly enjoy the companionship of his parents. This will more than likely be the case even after he has gained his majority. Boys born on this date will seek the guidance and advice of their mothers, while the girls will generally look to their fathers. These children will invariably pursue the right course under any and all circumstances.

If August 2 is the date of your birth you will probably quite early in life develop a rather sane and livable philosophy. You are a real thinker, and you turn your thoughts to the pondering of real things, things of importance. You do not seek the commendation of others, and whatever you do, you do in such a manner as to avoid the limelight as much as possible. Yours is a strong character and you are unflinching and unbending when you know you are in the right. You are honest and fair-minded; you always come to the rescue of the unfortunate one who finds himself at the mercy of some ruthless and merciless individual. You thrive on competition, and where things are the hottest you like to be.

Born on August 2, you are probably an educated person; if you have not been able to get all the schooling that you desire, you are pursuing knowledge through the reading of worthwhile books. Biographies appeal to you most strongly. You will probably marry early in life, and you will be most ambitious for your mate and your children. Do not let this desire to see them get along in life lead you into difficulties; you must recall that you can not force people beyond a certain point. You may suffer considerably through the erring ways of someone dear to you, possibly a member of your own family.

Successful people born on August 2:

Robert McClelland, politician of Michigan.

Henry S. Olcott, theosophist.

Imitation Helps Children Attain Better Posture

Series of Novel Games Make Play of Valuable Exercises.

Help for harassed parents who weary of urging their youngsters to "stand up straight" is contained in a new bulletin, "Good Posture in the Little Child," just published by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

Good posture is much more than merely "standing straight;" it is the use of all parts of the body with proper balance, with ease and grace. Exercise and play that include creeping, balancing, running, jumping, skipping on tip toe, climbing, swinging by the arms and throwing, bring about the best all-round development of the body.

Since poor posture often is found in the child who is overfatigued and poorly nourished, special attention must be given to all those aspects of the child's daily routine that insure good nutrition and prevent fatigue.

Long Sleep Necessary.

"An adequate, well-balanced diet, long hours of sleep at night and a rest during the day, outdoor exercise (but not too much) and sunlight are all necessary to restore a poorly nourished, overfatigued child to normal," the bulletin states, recommending also periodic health examinations to check up on the child's general physicial condition.

"To teach a young child to use his body well is not difficult if appeal is made to his imagination and love of imitation," the bulletin says, introducing a novel series of posture exercises which are in reality games that help to develop habits of good posture for children about 2 to 6 years old. While pretending to be paper dolls or giants, ducks, seals, rabbits, mules, elephants or tightrope walkers, the children who play these games are being taught how to stand and walk well.

Games Should Help.

The games should help the child to form the habit of using his whole body well while he is doing the ordinary things of life such as sitting, standing and walking. Games that have to do with the posture of the body as a whole and games that strengthen different groups of body muscles are given. Illustrations and simple directions explain just how each game should be played and what its purpose is.

Other aids to good posture include careful selection of clothes and shoes, since "a child can not develop good habits of posture unless his body is free to develop normally without being pressed or pulled into unnatural positions by wrong clothing;" chairs and tables adapted to the child's size, a bed of his own in which the child has plenty of room to turn and move in his sleep and in which the bedclothes are light and not too tight, and simple home-made play apparatus that will help children develop their muscles.

The bulletin describes several types of simple play apparatus which can be put up even in a small yard or on a porch. Parents likewise are warned against choosing for their children types of toys or play apparatus which, instead of helping the child's body to develop normally and symmetrically, either force him into wrong positions or lead him to use one side of his body while the other is neglected.

Spelling Contest Won By Japanese Girl

Hotsue competed against 50 other seventh and eighth grade students and beat them all.

Fur Fabric Fashions.

Fabrics resembling astrakhan and Persian lamb are among the favorite trimmings for new wool dresses designed to be worn without coats on early fall days. They are used particularly in the shoulder sections in epaulets, wings, collar edgings and flanges. They are also used to edge peplums and tunics and make detachable capes and jackets.

Date Stars.

2 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese
½ cup dates, seeded and finely chopped

Blend mayonnaise, cream cheese and dates. Cut thin slices of bread into stars with cookie cuter and cut an equal number of circles about half the size of the stars. Butter the bread. Spread stars with date mixture and place a circle of bread on each.

New Crinkled Fabrics Need Care in Wash

Lukewarm Water and Mild Soap Essential to Success.

The new crinkled or nubby fabrics can be washed easily in your household washing machine. So can your organdy dresses. Use mild soap and lukewarm water in either case. Three to five minutes will suffice for washing, and two for rinsing.

As the new crinkled fabrics are not readily creased, a light pressing on the wrong side banishes slight wrinkles and retains the new appearance. They can be cleansed readily in the washer like any other fine material. No starch is necessary. Squeeze out the excess water; then roll your dress in a cloth to absorb as much of the remaining moisture as possible. It may be thrown over a line or bar till partly dry, but do not pull it out of shape with clothespins. When only slightly damp, pull the material gently but firmly straight with the threads. Then lay the dress right side down on a soft pad and lightly iron the wrong side. Have your iron no hotter than medium. Keep stretching the material carefully and the dress will return to its original size and shape when dry.

If you measure the length and width of the garment before washing, it will help.

Do not press down as you iron, or stretch the material unevenly or too hard.

After organdy is washed, lay it straight and even on a soft cloth, roll it tightly, and leave until the excess moisture is absorbed. Organdy dries quickly; therefore, as you iron it, lay a damp cloth over the unironed portion so it will not become too dry. Iron first those parts of the dress that are less apt to wrinkle as you handle the garment.

Some organdies have a permanent finish not removed by washing and these do not need starching.

Connoiseur Knew His Own Vintage

With even diplomatic stock seemingly deteriorating in taste, and really good liquor a rara avis a recent story told by Mrs. Clarence C. Calhoun, author of "The Autobiography of a Chameleon," is going the rounds.

Mrs. Calhoun's story refers to the experience of a Huguenot friend of hers in Charleston, S. C., a certain Robert Gourdine, celebrated for his wine cellar and his excellent Madeira in particular. Mr. Gourdine enjoyed boasting a bit about his wines and often claimed that he could tell the vintage of any Madeira with his eyes blindfolded.

At the Charleston Club they wagered with the old connoisseur one day and he was blindfolded. He tasted sundry specimens; then they brought him some Madeira in a common yellow jug, for which they had sent one of the club's butlers to the corner grocery.

After tasting it, the connoisseur said: "This is the rarest wine of them all; it is of the vintage of 1870 and there is none other in Charleston like it except in my cellar."

His friends laughed and taking the handkerchief from his eyes, displayed him the yellow jug and told him where they had gotten the Madeira therein.

"Send for the grocer," thundered M. Gourdine.

The grocer came. "Where did you get that wine?" demanded the connoisseur.

Shaking with fear, the grocer finally confessed that he had bought it from Mr. Gourdine's butler and it was indeed his rare '70 vintage.

By Mary Knight.

Paris, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—A return to the fashions of the "gay nineties," with tight waists and Gibson girl blouses, was featured today in the fall showings at the fashionable house of Maggy Rouff.

The styles reminiscent of 30 years ago included extravagant fur-trimmed capes and coats of the turn of the century, with a new hipline basque for day and evening wear. Heavy, rich silks were featured, as well as taffetas.

Evening gowns recalled the daring belles of the '90's, with their "off-shoulder" effects. Full, swirling skirts and gowns with huge flower designs were also displayed.

In explaining her turning back the style pages Maggy Rouff, whose real name is Maggy Besancon de Wagner, said:

"During recent years elegance often has been sacrificed in an unflagging and interminable search for the detail of cut or ornament which would give chic to a gown. It was natural that such a mistaken conception would result in our current style confusion. My summer collection for 1933 was a suggestion as to a way out of the muddle, and this, my fall and winter group, carries on in the same direction, with the same hope of ultimate and complete recovery of our former grace."

"Harmony," she added, "is the quality I would go on record as declaring gives the difference between elegance and chic, or smartness. Elegance takes its very source from harmony. This is the principle I have worked from, and in my effort to obtain an absolute harmony of conception and execution I have gone to the extent of designing my own materials and then having them woven by hand for me."

Adjustable Straps End Worries Over Long Slip

You dress in a hurry, late for an engagement. One last look in a full-length mirror reveals to your horror that miserable too-long slip drooping below your hemline. Upon this discovery, you have three courses to pursue. A quick change rumples your hair, spots your dress with lipstick and turns cool, efficient fingers into ten nervous thumbs. You're tense, sticky and tired before you start. Your second course is equally as damaging to your appearance. Knots in your shoulder straps bring the slip up around your ears like a bib.

The clever miss will have adjustable straps and tack neat snaps at the base of each, both in front and back. About an inch and a half below these, another snap will enable her to double the material, or lace down over the top. This efficient method shortens the slip, maintains the normal length of the ribbons and frees her clothes of the safety pin menace. A few deft stitches insure a well-groomed appearance and a quiet poise. Keep your clothes in the pink of condition, put them on with care—and forget about them.

Parents Should Take Vacation With Children

Whole Family May Enjoy Camping and Fishing While Together

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

In many families the summer vacation is the only time the father has for becoming acquainted with his children. Where this is the case, it seems to me that in the interest of family solidarity parents and children would do well to take their vacation together, each group making the compromises necessary to insure the kind of vacation that will be pleasant to all.

If it turns out to be a vacation where the mother does all the work while the father and the children go off on fishing and camping expeditions, there will be a certain dissatisfaction, both on the part of the worker and the pleasure seekers.

For in someone's mind there will be the thought of mother missing the fun, which will work like a crumb in a well-made bed; and the most self-effacing mother eventually will rebel at being left out.

Sometimes it is best to take a vacation as an essay in pioneering, where young and old can try whether the machine age has unfitted us to meet nature on her own ground.

There is a satisfaction that comes from wrestling with hardship and privation when it is not enforced, and every one of us, and most of all our overpampered children, would be the better for spending a part of every year away from running water and electric lights, and reduced to a diet of greens and raw vegetables, with all the cooking that was necessary done over an open fire for which they themselves gathered the fuel.

Let each pioneer have his own job, and then all would be free to enjoy the vacation equally. Parents and children would come home with an increased respect not only for each other, but also for themselves, and the summer would unite young and old by a realization of their interdependence.

Late Mrs. Andrews Calm While Afire

The late Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews, of blessed memory, artist, churchwoman and raconteur extraordinary, whose witty tongue was tempered by a kind heart, had a marvellous fund of stories about Washingtonians and those rare spirits of recent generations who inhabited nearby Maryland and Virginia. Best of all, Mrs. Andrews could enjoy a joke on herself, a quality seldom found in those who are of a critical frame of mind.

One of Mrs. Andrews' pet stories that she often related with enjoyment told how she sat in front of the fire at her studio house near Scott Circle and chatted with Mrs. William Howard Taft. Suddenly Mrs. Andrews remarked to her in a quiet tone of voice: "I think, Mrs. Andrews, that you are on fire."

"Can that be possible?" queried Mrs. Taft remarked to her in with perfect calm.

"Oh, I believe I am," she then exclaimed.

And there, indeed, was the silk fringe of her shawl gayly blazing, the flames eating it up inch by inch. "I soon smacked out the fire and we continued our chat," Mrs. Andrews always concluded in telling the yarn.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl

"PETER PAN," Sir James Barrie's whimsical narrative, will be given its radio premiere by Eva LeGallienne, actress and director of New York's Civic Repertory Theater tonight. (WJZ network, 6:15 o'clock). Sir James has assigned the copyright and all royalties collected on "Peter Pan" to the hospital for sick children in London. He has long been interested in the London hospital because of the invaluable work it does and his permission to Miss LeGallienne to tell the story over the air was contingent on her announcing that he had given his consent for this reason.

A lengthy press story gives the history of "Peter Pan," but not a word is said about Maude Adams having played in it. How quickly the old favorites are forgotten.

Fred Allen has picked the cast for his new show, which goes on the air next Friday evening in the spot formerly occupied by the Musical Grocery Store.

In addition to Ferde Grofe, the composer who will lead the orchestra, and Portland Hoffa, who is Allen's chief stooge besides being his wife, the cast will include Phil Duey, barytone; Roy Atwell, the hilarious stutterer, and Jack Smart, the character actor.

BURNS and Allen, because of their radio popularity, have received splendid reception from Washington fans. They are at the Fox this week and will make their last personal appearance here tomorrow night.

Many microphone stars are disappointing in person but Burns and Allen are as good on the stage as they are on the radio. They will be heard tonight in their regular broadcast through WJSV at 8:30 o'clock.

The American Legion will stage a series of three dramatic programs August 23 ahead of their Chicago convention. It will carry listeners through the most exciting scenes of the World War.

"The All-American Dollar," by James H. Rand, jr., of the Remington Rand Co., will be the topic on WMAL at 7:45 p. m.

Phelps H. Adams, chief of the Washington Bureau of the New York Sun, will be heard over WRC at 5:30 p. m.

"The Women of the Country and the Recovery Act," will be discussed by Marie L. Obernauer, of the Home Loan Protective Enterprise (WRC, 4:15 p. m.)

"Through the Hollywood Looking Glass" has its premiere through WJSV at 4:30 p. m.

WORTH tuning in today will be the Irish Day ceremonies at the Chicago Exposition (WMAL, 3 p. m.). . . . "The New Deal and the Dollar," Nicholas Roosevelt, formerly United States Minister to Hungary (WMAL, 3:30 p. m.). . . . It will be "N. R. A." night with Radio Joe (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.). . . . "Chu Chin Chow" in "Curtain Calls" (WJSV, 7:15 p. m.). . . . "The Life and Songs of Stephen Foster" (WRC, 7:30 p. m.). . . . The International Boy Scouts Festival from Budapest (WMAL and WJSV, 10:30 a. m.).

Listening to the animal stories of Miss Klara L. Knecht, broadcast director of the Hagenback-Wallace Circus, yesterday over WRC we couldn't help thinking of what an interesting series of talks might be made about the animals in the Washington Zoo, which, by the way, is one of the best in the United States.

For instance, if they could ever get the Australian bird, the "Laughing Jackass," to laugh over the radio, he would probably be the talk of the country. One of the marvels of broadcasting was England's picking up a song of a nightingale.

However, it was not the sound of the animals we had so much in mind as talks about their characteristics. Of course, it would take some one with the ability and long acquaintance with the animals of Miss Knecht to do it properly. She told yesterday how dumb camels are. For example, she said they sometimes didn't even know their own mothers.

The fathers and mothers care nothing for their leopard babies; zebras are the least affectionate and are liable to give you a good swift kick; a baby hippopotamus learns to swim before it learns to walk, and so on. Also her story of the bicycle-riding bear. The trainer failed to meet him at the conclusion of the act and he rode out of the ring, out of the circus tent, down the main street of a Western town, creating an uproar such as the place never had seen.

A HUMOROUS illustration in the Saturday Evening Post this week shows a portly father sitting beside the radio with his violin and the mother is saying to her little boy, "Sh-h-h! Quiet, darling, don't annoy Daddy when he is playing with the Boston Symphony."

This is not as far fetched as it might seem. Years ago Walter Damrosch received a letter from a cowboy fiddler in the Far West following a broadcast which read: "I have achieved a life's ambition. I have at last played with Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra."

Lanny Ross, tenor of Capt. Henry's Show Boat, will be host at a dinner given in honor of Capt. James Mollison and his wife, Amy Johnson, the transatlantic flyers, tomorrow night. After the dinner, Capt. and Mrs. Mollison will accompany Lanny to the studio to witness the broadcast of the Show Boat.

Lanny met the Mollisons in Bridgeport, Conn., where he was playing in vaudeville the night they crashed. Together with the mayor and the Lieutenant Governor of Connecticut, Lanny went to the hospital to offer his help. The Mollisons expressed a desire to see an actual broadcast of the Show Boat, so Lanny asked them to be his guests.

War Menace Now Seen Greater Than in 1914

Sunapee, N. H., Aug. 1 (AP).—Greater incentives for a world war exist now than in 1914, it is asserted in a proposed "peace" textbook for church study groups. This was submitted to the national conference which opened here today under the auspices of the Commission on Intrenational Relations of the Congregational and Christian Churches.

Press Blamed in Part For Gangster's Rise

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP).—A special code of ethics for treatment of crime news by newspapers as an aid to law enforcement officials was asked today by Malcolm W. Bingay, editorial director of the Detroit Free Press.

Addressing the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Bingay placed partial responsibility for the rise of the gangster upon what he termed the "sensational, irresponsible and scandal mongering element of the press."

Walt Mason, Himself

The Late Sharkey.

THE champion of heavyweights doth sometimes like a monarch reign; he is adored by all those skates who think that brawn outclasses brain. The graybeards swore by old John L., in golden days forever gone; he fought his battles wildly well, and placed his diamond belt in pawn. He dined with princes now and then, he mingled with the good and great, and herded with those gifted men who tinkered with affairs of state. Then Dempsey came in later days, the idol of the dead game sports, who jarred the welkin with his praise, and honored him in camps and courts. And Dempsey, even in defeat, remains a hero to the throng; we hand him wreaths and nosegays sweet whenever he may chance along. There have been others who had won the homage of the ardent crowd, until their earthly jaunt was done, and they indulged in bier and shroud. But Sharkey somehow failed to click, he never ceased to be a jest; and men confessed he made them sick, e'en when performing at his best. He was an orator at heart, a pugilist by merest chance; he'd rather tear large words apart than into battle gaily prance. He could not even get in touch with those he-men who honor sport; they merely said, "He talks too much, and language doesn't hold the fort."

New Yorker Today

By Mark Barron.

New York.—Promenading along Eighth avenue, a lane where one should be amazed at nothing, I was frightened into two jumps ahead of a fit by a glaring yellow bill board. What's this! It was the dear old Department of Commerce, Bureau of Fisheries, gone hot-cha.

I quote the advertisement: "Highly specialized restaurants known as fish and chip shops in Great Britain, wherein it is estimated that nearly 70 per cent of that country's catch of fish is marketed, are found rarely in this country, although the domestic exploitation of a trade of this type seems to have good possibilities. (There's a brain trust sentence for you).

"In Great Britain today there is estimated to be some 30,000 fish and chip shops absorbing annually 1,500,000,000 fish."

A Finish Fight.

But this is the stinger. The bulletin is signed: "Great Britain, watch our dust. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Fisheries." There follows: "Did-ju-know that fish prevents goiter and cretinism?"

Now it seems very commendable for the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Fisheries, to challenge 30,000 British fish and chip shops to a duel, but I do think that under the new deal they should be able to devise more modern sling than "Great Britain, watch our dust," and "did-ju-know."

If that keeps up, you needn't be surprised to see the Secretary of State sending diplomatic notes to the British prime minister which will open with a salutation of "Oh, you kid," and end with "Ish-ka-bibble."

This department is a hearty endorser of this campaign for fish and chip parlors. In fact, if one may boast without seeming too much a boor, this corner campaigned three years ago for sidewalk cafes and fish and chip parlors for Manhattan.

The coming of 3.2 brought in the sidewalk cafes like mushrooms and they report they are doing well. The fish and chip experiment didn't turn out so happily. Two winters ago some enterprising fellow opened a dozen typical English fish and chip shops along Broadway.

But myself, the Earl of Amherst, the Hon. Gavin Lapriver-Dellamy (of Seton-Devon, Honey-Ditches, Sussex) and Ronald Twickingham-Mackenzie (a mild Etonian) seemed to be the only customers.

Chips That Pass—

Broadway blades sniffed, in a superior manner, at the fish and chip counters and continued to devour tons of hot dogs, hamburgers and peanuts. It was only a matter of days before the fish and chip fads went bump, bump, bump into the bankruptcy column.

But we old fish-and-chippers, ah, there, Hon. Department of Commerce) haven't given up hope."

Sugar—Lamborn & Co., Inc., sugar brokers, calculate an indicated excess over domestic requirements for the last half of 1933 of 410,000 long tons raw sugar. This opinion is based on latest estimates of the crops now being produced by the insular possessions that supply the United States and on the assumption that the country's requirements during the balance of the year will approximate the same quantity as in the same period of 1932.

Copper—Domestic buying has turned quiet after a fair business on Monday. It is in fair volume abroad. The market here is holding at 9 cents a pound.

Carpet wools—Imports at Philadelphia last week totaled 1,013,865 pounds, compared with 1,844,435 for the previous week.

Lubricants—Trade quarters report a rising demand for many grades of lubricating oil with prices firmly established.

Bonds Remain Unchanged at Monday Level

Ragged Trading Prevails as Turnover Drops to $10,748,000.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—The bond market was a trifle ragged today as both traders and investors displayed renewed caution in the matter of fresh commitments.

Dullness was the rule throughout, sales totaling only $10,748,000 par value, compared with $13,661,000 yesterday. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans was unchanged at 80.9.

A few of the secondary carrier issues reflected further optimistic reports of increased railway revenues. Gains of 1 to around 3 points were recorded by some loans of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago Great Western, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, New York Central, Nickel Plate and Southern.

While most of the utilities and industrials followed a narrow range, there were a few noticeable gainers in these divisions. California Petroleum 5½s were up 2½; International Hydroelectric 6s, up 1½; International Telephone Convertible 4½s, up 2¾; Paramount Publix 5½s, up 2; Texas Corporation 5s, up 1; United Drug 5s, up 1½, and Warner Bros. 6s, up 3. Colorado Industrial 6s dropped 6⅛ points upon the default of interest on this maturity. Old Ben Coal 6s lost 5 and Otis Steel 6s yielded 4 points.

Foreign obligations were irregular. Some of the Germans and Belgians rallied a point or more. Swiss government 5½s lost 4½ points and British 5½s were heavily traded for a loss of 1⅝.

United States Government securities failed to show any great enthusiasm on announcement that the books had been closed for all but exchange subscriptions and applications for less than $10,000 on the new Treasury issue of notes and bonds. Both the Liberty and Treasury listed loans were dull and moderately mixed.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Business on the stock exchange was again restricted today, professional traders holding off owing to uncertainties regarding developments in Wall street. Despite this act, international issues improved. Gilt-edged securities recovered after an easier opening, but home rails declined. Other sections, including foreign bonds, showed little change in prices. The market closed steady.

Paris—Prices on the bourse slumped today. International issues, especially, declined as the fluctuation in the dollar and the weakness in Wall street checked speculation. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Despite further favorable industrial news and the good impression created by Dr. Schacht's broadcast, the boerse registered a weaker tendency owing chiefly to the absence of buyers from the market. Quotations declined slightly except Bavarian motors, which held firm. The market closed dull.

Stocks Resume Climb After Listless Drifting

Rails and Farm Belt Groups Lead in Strength; Advances Average 2.4 Points; Sales Volume Declines to 1,787,060 Shares.

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—A late rally roused stocks from peaceful dog-day slumbers today and the market retrieved part of yesterday's decline.

Prices merely drifted during most of the session, paying little heed to the rise in grains at Chicago and the larger boost at Winnipeg, where fluctuations were not restricted. Sales for the five hours of stock trading totaled only 1,787,060 shares, smallest since April 18, or just before the United States left the gold standard.

At the finish, repeal issues, rails and farm belt group looked strongest, though net gains of 1 to 2 points were general. Improvement in the final half-hour appeared to be the result of covering by traders who had sold on Monday and who had seen the market virtually still during earlier operations.

Stocks up 1 to 2 points net included American Telephone, General Electric, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, American Can, Du Pont, Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, Bethlehem and National Steels, Youngstown, Southern Railway, Lackawanna, Consolidated Gas and North American. Gains for the volatile "wets" ranged from 2 to 6. In the farm implements, Case was up about 7 and Harvester and Deere around 3.

On the whole, the market seemed nearly as thin on the upside as it had on the downside during Monday's reaction. Offerings were scarce and when even moderate demand appeared prices rose easily. Larger traders were content to let things jog along as managers of the Nation's industry wrestled with the problems called up by the organized move for increased wages and a spread of employment.

Further reports on last week's freight traffic bore out the supposition that loadings had suffered somewhat from smaller grain shipments, and on the basis of returns at hand Wall street figured that fewer cars had been handled than in the previous week, though an increase over the previous year was expected.

Use of Cotton Placed At 15,307,000 Bales

New Orleans, Aug. 1 (AP).—Secretary Emeritus H. G. Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange, said today that world consumption of American cotton in the 1932-33 season which closed yesterday, including linters, totaled 15,307,000 bales, as compared with 13,331,000 bales in 1931-32, and 11,856,000 bales in 1930-31.

Stocks.

Late rallies aroused stocks from lethargy and an average gain of 2.4 points resulted. Rails and farm belt groups led in strength. Sales dwindled to 1,787,060 shares.

Bonds.

Ragged trading marked the sale of bonds and the final result was unchanged prices from Monday's levels. Traders and investors were cautious. Sales decreased to $10,748,000.

Curb.

Prices moved higher as alcohol issues turned active. Trading was dull. Sales volume declined to 262,000 shares.

Wheat.

Rushes to buy grain halted the stampede to sell and prices of wheat climbed 5 cents, the limit under restriction rules. Oats and corn followed wheat in the rise. Reports estimating the crop at the lowest in 40 years also figured in the buying sentiment. September wheat sold at 97⅛; May, 1.04⅞.

Cotton.

Prices climbed to high ground after Monday's slump. The advance of $1.50 to $1.95 per bale was made on covering and trade buying. December sold at 10.71. The general market was up 30 to 39 points. October closed at 10.50. Liverpool reported prices 10 points lower.

Rubber.

Crude futures closed steady. September sold at 7.55; December, 8.15 to 8.20.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was easy at 3.45, a decline of 5 points. Refined sold at 4.60 to 4.70.

Coffee.

Silver.

Gold.

Dollar.

The United States dollar gained on foreign markets. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.44 to the English pound; 5.23 cents to the French franc; and 31.90 cents to the German mark.

Bank Credits Given Wider Distribution

New York, Aug. 1 (AP).—The monthly credit review of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, out today, says that distribution of excess funds throughout the country as a result largely of discontinuance of interest on demand deposits has been accompanied by changes in the movement of bank credit.

Until mid-June, states the review, credit expansion was confined chiefly to New York City, but there has since been a substantial expansion elsewhere while some reduction has occurred here. The New York money market was subject to conflicting influences last month.

"On the one hand," says the bank, "the reserves of the principal New York City banks were little, if any, above reserve requirements during much of July, so that most of the banks had little or no surplus funds to employ until near the end of the month. On the other hand excess reserves of out-of-town banks reached larger figures than at any previous time in recent years, and consequently a substantial volume of funds of these banks was seeking employment in the New York money market."

Wool Market.

Boston, Aug. 1 (A.P.) (U. S. Dept. of Agriculture).—Trading in wool is very quiet. An occasional sale is being closed at prices within last week's selling ranges. Ordinary strictly combing 58s, 60s, one-half blood territory wool has sold this week at 75 cents scoured basis for a moderate quantity. Most current transactions are of small volume, but prices appear firm. Some of the asking prices that had been marked up a week or ten days ago are now not quite as firm as they were, but there is no apparent trading under recent selling prices.

Wheat Jumps 5 Cents Under Control Rule

Fixing of Decline Limit and Crop Forecasts Aid Upturn.

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP).—Rushes to buy grains today displaced stampedes to sell, and with purchase outlets here wholly insufficient, whirled Winnipeg wheat prices up 9 cents a bushel.

Chicago quotations on all grains sped upward to the topmost limit permitted by new emergency rules, 5 cents for wheat, rye and barley, 4 cents for corn and 3 cents for oats. Then the waves of purchase orders, which normally would have been put through in Chicago, dashed on to Winnipeg.

Sudden complete reversal of grain market sentiment was attributed mainly to action of Chicago Board of Trade directors last night in fixing a minimum below which quotations here could not go until August 15. This served largely to restore confidence of buyers and to check stampede selling which had overwhelmed the markets of late.

Wheat Closes Strong.

Wheat in Chicago closed strong at the day's top level, 5 cents above yesterday's finish; corn, 4 cents up; oats, 3 cents advanced, and provisions showing 50 cents gain.

Adding to the upward momentum of grain values were authoritative unofficial August 1 crop summaries indicating a total domestic wheat yield this season the smallest in 40 years. The average of these summaries placed 1933 wheat production in the United States at only 480,000,000 bushels, compared to 727,000,000 in 1932, with Canada's 1933 crop cut down almost half.

Furthermore, buyers were aroused over serious frost damage reports today from parts of Canada, and a broader demand from overseas, 1,000,000 bushels or more of wheat being estimated as taken for shipment from Canada to Europe, with chartering of vessel room here for wheat to go to Buffalo.

Prices Rise Buoyantly.

Prices rose buoyantly in Chicago to the topmost point possible, but that stage was quickly attained, and throughout the remainder of the day the market was in a deadlock, with trading almost at a standstill. Buyers, however, remained eager and confident, whereas yesterday they were dismayed. The reason for the deadlock was that as a result of new regulations buyers were restrained from bidding above definite upward boundaries, and that sellers below such boundaries today were practically nonexistent.

General belief was expressed that before the end of the week normal trade conditions in Chicago would be restored, although regulations which prohibited extreme advances or declines would remain in effect.

Corn, oats and other grains duplicated wheat market action. The 1933 corn crop was unofficially put at 506,000,000 bushels below last year's harvest, with oats showing a drop of 23,000,000 bushels from a month ago.

Provisions advanced the maximum with grains.

Nation's Output Of Milk Is Cut First 7 Months

Better Prices and Higher Consumption Are Noted Since April.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Aug. 1.—Drought conditions in many of the leading producing centers and a decrease in the size of the herds, due to the better livestock prices, have lowered the milk supply for the seven months of the current year from the peak proportions that it attained in 1932.

As it provided the most readily available source of cash income during the period when prices of other farm products reached their nadir, farmers centered so much attention on obtaining more milk that production last year rose to an estimated total of 104,000,000,000 pounds as compared with 98,872,000,000 pounds back in 1929.

The hampering influence of this overproduction, which bore heavily on prices, was aggravated further by abundant feed crops, district price wars, and low consumer buying power. Since April, however, the latter has been on the increase, consumption has gained somewhat, and the better price average now maintaining has placed the industry in a stronger financial position than it occupied a year ago. The provisions of the code, which has been drawn up in compliance with the rulings of the National Industrial Recovery Act, specify a higher margin of profit and the elimination of some of the disastrous practices in retail distributive methods, according to a survey of the dairy industry, which has just been completed by Dun & Brandstreet, Inc.

Output Drops 10 Per Cent.

"With market prices of grains, live stock, wool, cotton, hides and other agricultural products rising almost uninterruptedly during the last four months," the survey continues, "farmers have devoted less attention to dairy products, although these normally contribute nearly one-fourth of their total annual income.

"While the decrease in production has varied widely, according to the district, the average ranges from 5 to 10 per cent, when compared with the figures for the first seven months of 1932.

"While consumption of milk has been stimulated by the wider employment and increased wages, the extension of the gain has been retarded doubtless by the rapid rise in beer drinking, which also has affected the sales of ice cream, although the annual per capita consumption is only slightly under three gallons."

Cheese Consumption Gains.

The consumption of cheese, on the other hand, has been increased by this new custom, and much of the milk which formerly found its way to butter manufacturers now is going to cheese products.

Owing to the upward swing of prices, creameries had a profitable second quarter, ended June 30, and with a steady demand for their products they are looking forward to a satisfactory year.

"There is more cheese produced in the United States now than in any other country, while consumption, which has widened rather sharply during the last three years, has reached 4.7 pounds per capita. Of the 18 distinct types of cheese made, with nearly 400 designations, practically 60 per cent is produced in Wisconsin, where the industry largely is centered. New York, Illinois, Oregon, California and Indiana rank next, these five States accounting for more than 20 per cent of the total production.

Butter Consumption Lower.

"Consumption of butter is affected by the upward and downward swing of employment. After dropping to 122,655,000 pounds in February, which was the lowest point touched since February, 1930, a wider demand has developed, May consumption rising to 160,871,000 pounds, which was nearly on a level with that for May, 1932.

"Total consumption of creamery butter for the first five months of this year, however, was only 574,942,000 pounds, a decline of 114,874,000 pounds, or 16.6 per cent, from the figures for the comparative months of last year.

While consumption for 1932 of 135,521,000 pounds was below the all-time high of 142,000,000 pounds set down for 1931, it was higher than the figures for either 1930 or 1929. Stocks of butter in storage are somewhat above those of last year.

Price Trend Upward.

"The July price for all grades of milk has averaged considerably better than in either June or May," the survey points out, "and considerably above that of July last year. Despite this increase, however, the price of milk continues unfavorable, when compared with grain prices.

In May, 100 pounds of milk bought 77 pounds of grain, as compared with 82 pounds in April and 99 pounds in May a year ago. When compared with the average food prices of last year, or with the average for the past ten years, current milk quotations have the advantage.

"The price of butter fat now is around 35 per cent higher than it was last July, to which is attributable the 40 per cent increase in butter quotations. The higher price, however, has had a tendency to curtail consumption, to some extent, and the future trend will be somewhat dependent on demand. A decline is held impossible, as with feed prices up nearly 100 per cent, producers of raw milk are faced with the absolute necessity of obtaining more for their product. The price of cheese has advanced somewhat, but ice cream is practically at last year's level."

Six-Month Box-Office Champions of 1933—Sylvia Sidney III

Fifteen Hits On Half-Year List Of Cinema Aces

By Nelson B. Bell.

The time of year has now arrived when it is possible—pursuant to this department's practice of publishing the cinema's monthly champions, as determined by key city box-office records compiled by the Motion Picture Herald—to make known the pictures which deserve to be rated as the box-office champions of the first six months of 1933.

There are 15 of these, representing seven producing companies and one juvenile partnership that had the temerity to import one of the most discussed films of the season from Germany.

The 15 champions are as follows: "Forty-second Street," Warner Brothers; "Cavalcade," Fox; "Rasputin and the Empress," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer; "State Fair," Fox; "A Farewell to Arms," Paramount; "The Kid from Spain," United Artists; "Be Mine Tonight," Universal; "The Sign of the Cross," Paramount; "The Animal Kingdom," RKO-Radio; "Gold Diggers of 1933," Warner Brothers; "Strange Interlude," M-G-M; "A Bedtime Story," Paramount; "King Kong," RKO-Radio; "Maedchen in Uniform," Krimsky & Cochran, and "College Humor," Paramount.

This list presents what probably will be looked upon in some quarters as an eloquent commentary upon the reputed preeminence of certain producing organizations.

It divides the winners, you will observe, something after this fashion: Warner Brothers, Fox, M-G-M and RKO-Radio, two each; United Artists, Universal and Krimsky & Cochran, one each, and Paramount, a former leader popularly supposed to be on the decline, four.

Whatever other considerations may enter into a contemplation of the list, it makes certain one thing and that is that the taste of the American picture-going public is fundamentally sound. There is not a picture among these 15 champions that does not deserve its place on the roster of honor.

There might be some argument, to be sure, as to whether some one or several other releases during the same period might not be entitled to comparable distinction, but there could hardly be any cogent reason for removing from the list any entry already appearing upon it.

And, after all, the box-office is the final answer. Whether they admit it or not—and most of them do—that is the ultimate goal for which all of the major producers are striving. It is a heartening sign of the times that some of them, at least, are reaching it.

Gloria Swanson, Lillian Gish and Ramon Novarro returned to New York from Europe yesterday aboard the S. S. Olympic.

Miss Gish took the cure at Baden-Baden and is reported to have gained five pounds, principally, one gathers, through the efficiency of a brandy-soaked bandage wrapped around the waist every night before retiring.

"Nothing is taken internally in the way of strong drink," Miss Gish explains. "I don't know why it is done, but it is effectual. Instead of a night cap, one takes a belt."

Miss Swanson, it seems, was all pepped up because she had introduced the childhood game of "squat tag" to the adult passengers on the ship.

Miss Swanson declared she had learned the game from her children and that it provided more exercise than handball. Maybe so, but not in the same places.

Her husband, Michael Farmer, said it was more exciting than polo. Simple folk, these movie stars.

Hearing that Ramon Novarro was a passenger on the Olympic, Jerome Kern, composer of "The Cat and the Fiddle," Novarro's next picture for M-G-M, took a running jump off the dock and landed aboard the boat and so was able to coach the star all the way across in how to sing his songs.

After making this picture and "The Laughing Boy," Oliver La Farge's story of a Navajo Indian, Novarro plans to return to Mexico City, his native capital, for a series of concerts—this, incidentally, having been the raison d'etre of his recent tour of Europe.

After having appraised the capabilities of literally hundreds of applicants for places in the cast and chorus of the "All-Washington Revue," to be staged at Loew's Fox Theater the week of August 18, Director Gene Ford and his assistant, Ned McGurn, have already engaged a considerable list of girls who will be spotted through the revue and have about made up their minds as to several members of the cast.

Mr. Ford will return to Washington on Saturday and thenceforth will devote his entire time to preparation of what is confidently expected to be the most impressive demonstration of the Capital's rich endowment of histrionism that has ever found its way before the public on a strictly professional stage.

On Sunday afternoon at 2, in Loew's Fox Theater, Mr. Ford and Mr. McGurn will give the cast its first definite instructions as regards material and rehearsals.

Midnight tonight marks the close of the contest for the selection of a suitable name for the revue, in case the matter had slipped your mind. For the best name submitted, a prize of $10 will be awarded. While a great many names already have been submitted, there still is time to win this prize ten-spot.

Times being what they are, ten dollars, as you may have noted, is ten dollars!

Darryl Zanuck, vice president in charge of production of Twentieth Century Pictures, the company that has purchased the story of "Broadway Thru a Keyhole," by Broadway's most notorious chatterbox, has played safe and declined either to affirm or deny the rumor to which Al Jolson ascribes the provocation for his fistic attack upon the person of the columnist. Zanuck's statement:

"'Broadway Thru a Keyhole' is based upon true facts and dramatic incidents in the private lives of the great and near-great of Broadway.

"Those who fancy they have the low-down on Broadway may see fit to recognize many of New York's celebrities in the characters of the plot.

"We refuse to admit that Al Jolson or Ruby Keeler is among these characters. Let Mr. Jolson wait until he sees the picture. If then he is convinced that he was right, he will have no reason to feel that Mrs. Jolson has been done an injustice, for the chorus girl in our story is the star and heroine of our picture and is always shown in an admirable light.

"I have long been a friend of Mr. and Mrs. Jolson, having produced all of Al's pictures for Warner Bros. and having given Ruby Keeler her first opportunity on the screen. It seems strange to me that Al, if he were actually perturbed about the character of 'Broadway Thru a Keyhole,' did not at least endeavor to communicate with me and ascertain the facts of the case.

"Since the accusation has become a matter of public record, however, let the public itself be the judge when it sees the picture."

Russ Columbo, Abe Lyman, Eddie Foy, jr., and Texas Guinan are the latest Broadway night-life celebrities to be added to the cast of "Broadway Thru a Keyhole," which suggests that the keyhole of the title must be the one fitted by that Gargantuan piece of carpentry they usually present to visiting lord mayors as the "key to the city." It never unlocks anything, and I imagine that will be true of the picture, in so far as all of its ostensible secrets are concerned.

Announcement has been made by the Women's International League, sponsoring the Children's Theater, and by the National Symphony Orchestra, that next season's schedule has successfully avoided any conflict of dates between the children's plays at the National Theater and the children's and students' concerts at the Central High School Auditorium.

The Children's Theater season opens on Saturday morning, October 21, with "The Five Little Peppers," and continues with "Curdie, the Princess and the Goblins," on November 25; "Cinderella," on December 28; "An Old-Fashioned Girl," on February 3; "Rip Van Winkle," on March 10, and concludes, on April 28, with "The King of the Golden River."

Subscriptions for the entire series of six plays are now being received.

Those habitues of Washington's favorite night spots who have missed Walter von Herbulis these last few evenings upon dropping by his Club Michel Marine Roof to cool off will be glad to know that mine host is now safely recuperating from a sudden appendectomy performed upon him almost without warning on Monday. Mr. von Herbulis is convalescing at Emergency Hospital.

In the meantime, Pete Macias and his Club Michel Orchestra are playing all of the boss' favorite tunes so that he can catch them over the air and enjoy them with his orange albumen.

It won't make any difference now whether the marchers in the "parade of personalities" across the stage of Loew's Fox mumble, whisper or swallow their words entirely. They will be audible in all parts of the auditorium, just the same.

Which is to say that the installation of upward of $5,000 worth of dynamic microphones and perfected loudspeakers has been completed, thus making it certain that wherever you sit in the Fox it will be easily possible to hear that proverbial pin drop. Provided, of course, anyone ever drops that proverbial pin for you to hear.

So that the human voice can be clearly transmitted from any part of the stage to every part of the theater, a special six-position microphone has been set up to apprehend the speaker's voice from any shifting position entailed by the exigencies of stage business.

Augmenting the modern public address system are two special, high-powered loud speakers designed to reproduce vocal tones with absolute fidelity.

So let's hear you say something.

Sylvia Sidney, sloe-eyed motion picture actress noted for many fine screen performances, fears she may have to undergo an operation which would permanently disfigure her and end her career in the films.

This was revealed in New York last night, when Miss Sidney arrived in the East by plane after having abruptly walked out of the Paramount studios, on the West Coast, where she was engaged in making a picture with Maurice Chevalier.

It will require several days, the actress said, to determine whether a throat operation recently performed in Hollywood "will take."

"If it doesn't," she said, speaking with difficulty and unable to pronounce the guttural consonants, "I'll have to have another operation for the complete removal of the gland, which will leave a scar on the outside of my face.

"If that happens, it will be impossible for me to go on in pictures. And I can't go on with the picture I was making until I find out."

The actress came East with her mother, B. P. Schulberg, independent producer; Roger Marchetti, an attorney, and a party of friends.

She plans to sail for an extended European tour which she said her physician has prescribed, but the date of her sailing will depend on the outcome of consultations with several New York specialists.

Yeah, I thought I was hot, too, yesterday, until I ambled out Gallatin street way late in the afternoon and came across a few of the boys laying asphalt pavement in front of the old manse!

City Slicker, Beautiful Blonde—Nuf Sed!

George Raft, all done up in his soup-and-fish, and Helen Vinson, all done up in George Raft, give you a romantic, if sketchy, idea of a little of what you may expect in "Midnight Club," in which Clive Brook and Alison Skipworth also will be seen, at Loew's Fox Theater, beginning Friday.

Mrs. Hutton Home, Unmet by Husband

Los Angeles, Aug. 1 (AP).—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton came back from her world tour today, much thinner and in tears.

Band music and the joyful hallelujahs of hundreds of her Angelus Temple followers greeted her, but David Hutton, her barytone husband, was not among the welcomers. He was preparing for a vaudeville rehearsal.

The evangelist paused dramatically, sobbing, on the station platform. She was clad simply in clothing which carried a suggestion of Paris.

"Our hearts are a little heavy," she said, lifting her husky voice. "But I want you to know that your support and faith in me means everything."

Weaver to Face Rising Red Sox as Yanks Meet Athletics Today

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

THAT plain and fancy needlework that has been going on at Arlington, where the Federal agents got their fangs on the horse dopers will hardly excite the turf gentry who know all the answers in horse racing even before the race is run.

It's an ancient, albeit a black art of the turf, this needling of the thoroughbreds to make them win or make them stop. It has more ramifications than a centipede and you can choose your way to dope a horse from a number that makes the national debt look like the change from a dime.

Only the stake horses and the 2-year-olds escape the machinations of the needleworkers. The stake horses because of the danger attendant to such valuable horse chattels from the doping, and the 2-year-olds because they are such an uncertain lot anyway, that the reaction of doping is feared.

The "Night Riding" Gag.

Before trainers and handlers learned the art of doping, they used to resort to the old "night riding" gag to run a favorite into the ground and collect their end of the purse from the bookies who had laid attractive odds on the choice in the knowledge that the horse was not in fit condition.

"Night riding" was exactly what the name implied. The trainer of the favorite, having sold out to the bookie, would put an exercise boy on his steed, race him over the grounds at night, put him back in the barn before daylight and send him to the post in the afternoon already beaten.

But the authorities soon caught up with the night riders. They made trainers keep their horses in the barns all night. They had to learn new tricks. And they did.

Sponging Also Popular.

The art of sponging was next in popularity. It was simple. Small silken sponges stuffed up the nostrils before the race gagged the mounts, cutting off their breath, and causing them to finish the race on their own raw courage after the first three-eighths of a mile.

But sponging was later discarded in favor of needling and other tricks. It was too dangerous. Too often the unscrupulous handlers were forced to call in veterinarians for their sick horses and veterinarians sometimes tell. There were other ways.

They could turn to salt on the oats, or "foo-foo" powder. Salt sprinkled over the horse's feed would make him abnormally thirsty, they would lead him to drink and let him drink his fill, and more. The mount would be water-logged in the race and fail to run to his true form. And there was small danger of detection from the veterinarians.

Trainers Guarded Secrets.

Each trainer, as a rule, had his own prescription for the "foo-foo" dust to stimulate a horse. They carefully guarded their secrets from rival trainers and there was the case of one famous handler of horses who bought his drugs from a druggist and compounded them himself.

The particular type of "foo-foo" powder was usually swabbed over the horse's tongue, animating the steed to new speed, but science has improved on this old method of doping. A shot in the neck with a needle or a pill or capsule calculated to explode just at post time would do the work as well.

But even this method has its risk. An overdose of the needle would cause the mount to act up on the way to the post and draw the unwelcome attention of the stewards. And long delays at the post would also defeat the purpose, with the dope wearing off and leaving the horse loggy and drowsy. It had to be timed.

Batteries in Gay Nineties.

In the gay nineties the electric batteries were common as speed accelerators. A wire was run down the seam of the jockey's breeches and attached to his spur. Later they perfected a whip with a battery carefully concealed in the steel end.

There was also the small battery concealed in the palm of the hand and used in hand riding to be thrown away in the back stretch. The eagle-eyed Pinkertons soon put an end to this and the use of the battery was abandoned.

Personally, I've got two megs riding on a good thing in the seventh at Hawthorne this afternoon.

Johnson Bans Hildebrand After Row

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 1.—The first sign of an open break between certain members of the Cleveland Indians and their manager, Walter Johnson, came today when Oral Hildebrand, ace hurler, told his boss what he thought of him in such an emphatic manner that Johnson fined the temperamental star $100 and suspended him indefinitely.

Shortly after being notified of his suspension, Hildebrand left for his home in Indianapolis.

The battle between Hildebrand and Johnson started yesterday when the pitcher was removed from the box after exhibiting a streak of wildness that loaded the bases and gave St. Louis a victory.

Kicks Dust, Throws Glove.

Hildebrand, pulling the stunt that gave Wesley Farrell, another Cleveland star, a lot of unfavorable publicity last season, kicked up dust, threw his glove, hurled the resin bag and exchanged bitter words with his manager before leaving the game.

"That," said Johnson, "will cost you $100."

The manager told newspapermen that the fine would not affect Hildebrand's status with the team nor prevent him from taking his regular pitching turn in the future. He intended, he said, to start him against the Browns in the final game of the series Thursday.

But Hildebrand didn't intend to take the fine, it seems, without letting his manager know what he thought of him in general.

In the club house, prior to today's game, Hildebrand walked up to the manager and unloosed a verbal barrage. Johnson tried to stop him, but the pitcher was angry and said plenty. It was then that he was suspended.

Johnson to Be Firm.

Johnson said tonight that Hildebrand will not be reinstated until he is ready to pitch and restrain his temper, for these were the conditions imposed by Johnson when he announced the suspension.

Hildebrand informed his manager that it would be quite a spell before he would comply with the request. He left for his home in Indianapolis, but stated that he would be in Cleveland Thursday morning to put his side of the story to General Manager Billy Evans.

Relations between the manager and the hot tempered young hurler have been none too cordial, it is known, since early last month when Hildebrand was compelled to work in spite of his complaints that his arm was sore and out of condition.

Shortly before that trouble came to a head, Johnson was informed that Hildebrand had made an observation to the effect that "if this ball club doesn't start making some runs pretty soon you'll be seeing some pitchers turn up with sore arms."

West and Reynolds Star as Browns Win

Former Nats Garner More Than Half of Team's Hits in 5-2 Victory.

St. Louis, Aug. 1 (AP).—With Sam West and Carl Reynolds leading the attack, Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns made it two straight over the Cleveland Indians today, winning 5 to 2.

The two Brownie outfielders garnered more than half the St. Louis hits, which included West's circuit drive and Reynolds' triple.

Nat Players Catch 1,700 Pounds of Fish

Chaperoned by Joe Hanlein, Heinie Manush, Goose Goslin and Bobby Burke, Nat ball players, yesterday made what they claim to be a record catch of fish hereabouts. Anchoring about five miles from Kopies Point, they pulled in fish almost as fast as they threw out their lines, landing 1,700 pounds.

After leaving several barrels behind, they still had more than they or their friends could use.

U. S. Netmen Offer No Alibis

British Just Too Good in Davis Cup Play, Players Agree.

By Henry McLemore.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—Armed with a little mimeographed statement extolling the virtues of the English team which blasted them from the running, the United States Davis Cup squad arrived home today aboard the S. S. Olympic.

The platoon of sportswriters who swarmed over the Olympic's sides the minute she reached Quarantine were greeted by Capt. Bernon S. Prentice, who, when asked for a statement, whipped out his carbon copies.

No Excuse to Offer.

They read:

"Of course we are disappointed to return without the cup; we have no excuse to offer but the highest praise for a great British team led by Perry and Austin at their best, with their games perfectly adapted to a slow-court surface. The English team played through a rigorous schedule demanded in the European zone, through the Wimbledon championships, a victory over a strong Australian team before meeting us, and then going on to defeat France in the challenge round—a continuous period of strenuous competition. We congratulate the new holders of the cup, a fine effort has been signally rewarded."

What They Said.

Naturally, nobody paid any attention to the prepared statement. What was wanted was oral statements from the various parties concerned.

Here they are:

Prentice: "We have no alibis. We were beaten by a superior team, playing superlative tennis. We were not overtrained. All the men were in top shape. If Vines and Allison were overtrained how was it that George Lott and Van Ryn, who ate the same food and kept the same hours as the singles players, came through with the finest doubles play I've ever seen? Perry and Austin were superb. They simply couldn't miss a ball. Yes, I think our chances next year are very bright, for the reason that the challenge round will be played on grass. Grass makes for speed, and speed is the foundation of the American game."

Ellsworth Vines—"I was in top shape. Austin and Perry simply outplayed me. Did you know that Austin made but one error in the first two sets against me? What can a man do against that sort of tennis? No, I haven't signed any professional papers. Yes, I'm interested if there's enough money. Wouldn't you be interested in fifty or a hundred thousand dollars? No, I'm not as keen about bringing back the cup as I was last year. I'm a little fed up on tennis I guess. I agree with Prentice, that Australia and New Zealand trip did us no good. It took the edge off our game, and, furthermore, that trip made the Australians, in that it allowed them plenty of high class practice. I do not want to go to Europe next year under the same conditions that governed this year's trip. It's silly, this business of not taking your wife."

Wilmer Allison—"They were too good for us. From where I was standing the English played unbeatable tennis. No, I don't think that trip during the winter hurt us."

George Lott—"Did Mercer Beasley help us? I don't know. I saw him taking lots of notes. I understand he kept a recapitulation of our singles players' errors in the first three sets, for use in playing the fourth set. That was a swell idea, but our players didn't get that far."

Johnny Van Ryn—"We all did our best and if we got beat it was because the opposition was a little too hot. What's all the shooting for?"

Perry, British Star, To Seek U. S. Net Title

London, Aug. 1 (AP).—Frederick J. Perry, hero of the successful British campaign to wrest the Davis Cup from France, announced today he would sail for the United States Saturday with three other English players to compete in the National singles tennis championship at Forest Hills in September, for the title held by Ellsworth Vines, jr.

Hubbell Earns Record; Bows To Braves

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP).—The Boston Braves put an end to Carl Hubbell's streak of consecutive scoreless innings today after the New York southpaw had carried it to a new National League record length, and defeated the league leaders, 3 to 1.

Hubbell hurled 5 2-3 scoreless frames to stretch his string to an even 46 consecutive scoreless innings. Then, with runners on second and third, Randy Moore smacked a single that broke the streak and won the ball game for Boston.

The old National League mark was 44 innings, established by Ed Reulback, of the Chicago Cubs, in 1908. Walter Johnson still holds the major league record of 56 consecutive scoreless innings.

Hubbell had given only two hits up to the sixth, as he shattered the 25-year-old record in the fourth. Then Bill Urbanski and Baxter Jordan connected for singles. Wally Berger fanned and Jordan stole second as Moore swung at a second strike. The Boston right fielder connected with the next pitch for a base hit and drove in both runners. Frank Hogan accounted for the other Boston run by hitting one of Dolf Luque's pitches for a homer in the seventh.

Mays Winner In Feature At Laurel

By Lewis F. Atchison.

PRELIMINARY boys took possession of the Twin City Boxing Arena last night and a bloody evening, that witnessed the pounding of first one and then another contender, ensued. The lads punched and mauled throughout. There was no lack of willingness, but a dearth of class, and the evening must be recorded as a dull procession of willing but none too clever gladiators. A gathering of 1,000 saw the bouts.

Chief Perry Knowles outslugged rough, but not so ready, Jimmy Tramberia in the purported feature of the card, an eight-round exhibition of butting, wrestling, debating and, albeit, a smattering of boxing.

Mays Stops Kirkwood.

Roy Bailey pummeled Henry Irving through another eight-rounder to win an easy decision, and Charley Gomer scored a technical kayo of Arthur DeBeve in the third round of their scheduled eight. But the prize bout of the card resulted in a victory for Johnny Mays over Walter Kirkwood.

Substituting for K. O. Broide, Mays became the aggressor in the second round of the scrap and was never headed by the cocky and overconfident Kirkwood. The Fort Myer cavalryman cut his rival under the right eye and pecked away at the wound with a sharp left that worried Kirkwood no end.

Tramberia's Rushes Futile.

Tramberia, too, employed rushing tactics in his fight with Knowles and, like Kirkwood, ran headlong into trouble. Knowles stepped back and let fly with both barrels to the mid-section and head. The Baltimore boy landed infrequently with long rights to the body, but usually his blows missed their mark.

Inability to take advantage of the numerous opportunities that came his way cost Henry Irving an early knockout over Bailey. Particularly in the second round, when he rocked the Southern boy with looping rights to the head, did "Popeye" muff his chance for victory. Irving worked Bailey into position for the telling blow and then fell into a clinch.

Arthur DeBeve made Joey Britton, substituting for Charley Gomer, look silly in the first two rounds of their fight, but in the third the Baltimorean caught the ancient Frenchman flush on the right temple that opened a nasty gash. The attending physician halted the proceedings.

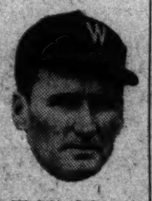
Hubbell's National League Record of 46 Consecutive Scoreless Innings Short of Johnson's 56.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (U.P.).—In this era of live-ball sluggers, Carl Hubbell, the lanky screw ball king, today accomplished a pitching feat never equaled in the dead-ball years by such mound immortals as Christy Matthewson, Plank, Waddell and Rucker.

Only one pitcher, Walter Johnson, turned in a better performance of its kind than the Giants' amazing southpaw registered today in establishing a new National League record of 46 consecutive scoreless innings before he was stopped by the Braves.

Carl Hubbell



Walter Johnson

Johnson, the "big train" with the Washington Senators back in 1913, established the all-time major league record of 56 consecutive scoreless sessions, but the next best performance, the National League record, was turned in by Eddie Ruelbach, of the Chicago Cubs, in 1908. Ruelbach pitched 44 scoreless innings in a row. That record was bettered today.

Hubbell made his new mark while pitching against the Boston Braves at the Polo Grounds. He started his run on July 13, when he allowed no scores in the last three innings of a game with the Cardinals. Then he turned in a 9-inning shut-out against Cincinnati. He went in as relief pitcher against Pittsburgh, on July 19, after two-thirds of the first inning was completed and blanked the Pirates for the remaining eight and one-third innings.

He registered a 9-inning shut-out against Pittsburgh, on July 22, and another against Brooklyn, on July 27, and brought his total to 40 1-3 innings Sunday when he pitched the two final innings against Boston. His streak was stopped at 46 innings today.

Chapman Joins Nats; McAfee Released

By Frank H. Young.

DO not be surprised if the Washington battery at Saturday's game with the Boston Red Sox is announced as "Chapman and Sewell."

And, in case you are wondering who is Chapman, he is a giant right-handed pitcher obtained yesterday from the Rochester International League Club in exchange for Pitcher Bill McAfee and a bundle of cash. And, if you are further interested, Chapman answers to the name of Ed, although nicknamed "Butch." He's 26 years old, weighs 186 pounds, and is 6 feet 1½ inches tall.

"We're right up there at the top in what looms as a mighty hot pennant race," Clark Griffith, Nat owner, stated last night, "and, if we are to have a chance, we need another regular starter.

Scouted by Engel.

"Scout Joe Engle recommended Chapman so highly, that I decided to get him at all costs and, believe me, he cost plenty, with added money thrown in for immediate delivery. Cronin and I went over to Baltimore, where Rochester was playing, and brought him back with us this afternoon. Cronin has just about made up his mind to give Chapman a starting trial Saturday."

Chapman has been playing professional ball since 1927, a year before he graduated from Mississippi A. & M., where he starred. He was with Houston that year and since has played with Topeka (1928), Laurel, Miss. (1929), Rochester and Stockdale, Pa. (1930), Columbus (1931 and part of 1932) and later at Greensboro.

Won 4 Games in Series.

Although noted as a fast-ball pitcher, Chapman admitted last night that his curve ball is good, too. He is brim full of confidence and that he is a big, powerful fellow is indicated by his performances in the 1932 play-off for the Piedmont League title. Greensboro won four successive games from Charlotte and Chapman pitched all of them. Rain gave him short respites, but he hurled the four games in six days.

In Baltimore Monday, Chapman won his ninth game of the season as against five defeats.

Cubs Beat Reds, 3 to 1, To Regain Third Place

Chicago, Aug. 1 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs broke their six-game losing streak and regained third place by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, in the opening game of the series today.

Pat Malone held the Reds to five hits, and though his mates got only one more than that off the combined deliveries of Frey, Benton and Stout, they bunched five in the third inning to score all their runs.

Boston Team Now Looms As Threat

Sox Aiming at 3d Place; Dave Harris Bids for Regular Berth.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

HARDLY do the New Yawks take leave of our fair and warmer city than the new Yawkeys, as we shall call the Boston Red Sox, move in on Griffith Stadium for a three-game stand with the Nats, commencing this afternoon.

The new Yawkeys from Boston, once the perennial doormats of the league, are now operating behind the cover of Millionaire Tom Yawkey's coruplent checkbook. Mr. Yawkey and his millions are giving the Red Sox some Back Bay backing this season, and by the same token, they are a rising power in American League circles.

So, a three-game series with the Red Sox, ordinarily tantamount to a romp for the Nats, takes on added significance at this writing in view of the present comparatively high estate of the Boston Club, which has left the cellar 12 games behind, has ascended into a virtual tie for sixth place, and recently polished off the third-place Athletics in three straight games.

Yanks Play Athletics.

Refreshed by a day of rest after four strenuous battles with the Yanks, the Nats will take the field still clinging to their one-game league lead, which survived the New York series. But there is a prospect of another tie for the lead tonight if the Yanks beat the rather unathletic Athletics and the Nats drop today's game to the Yawkeys.

Manager Joseph Francis Cronin will entrust today's pitching burden with Monte Weaver, the indisposed right-hander, who has started but one game since last June 8, when he beat the Red Sox at Boston. Weaver is supposed to hold some sort of a charm over the Boston Club and with his sore arm improving, he merited the assignment.

Pipgras Due To Pitch.

On the firing line for Boston doubtless will be the rejuvenated George Pipgras, a back-slider from the Yankees, who is now pitching better ball than any member of the Yankee cast. Pipgras' pitching has been the bright feature of the spurt of the Yankees and in company with Lloyd Brown, Lefty Weiland, Gordon Rhodes and Bob Kline he is giving Boston a strong pitching front.

The Nats showed the strain of the competition against the Yanks in their defeats in the last two games of the series, when they committed five errors, which virtually handed over the two contests, nullifying their return to hitting power. It might have been the heat, but there is evidence that it was the humility of the Washington defense that cost them a clean sweep in the series.

Third place, no less, is the objective of the new Yawkeys with Eddie Collins manipulating the rebuilding of the club with purchases from both majors and minors. The signing of Joe Judge to bolster the first base department is Collins' latest move, but Judge will not break into the line-up until the present winning combination hits the skids.

Other notable purchases include

Baroni Horse Scores by a Neck

'All Rowes' Challenge in Stretch Fails; Rocky News Is Third.

Sullivan, D. C. Jockey, Gets Double at Empire; Rides March Step.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP).—Darting to the front as the barrier was sprung in the Nordic Purse at Hawthorne today, Mad Wind, racing in the colors of A. A. Baroni, of Reno, Nev., galloped to victory by a neck over Katherine E. Hitt's All Rowes. The Audley Farm's Rocky News, finished third in the top event.

Jockey W. D. Wright rode the winner and rated the 4-year-old son of Wilfaire—Mabel McKane perfectly to offstand the challenge of All Rowes down the long stretch. Only five horses started in the feature.

Mad Wind went to the post favorite and paid $4.86 to win in the $2 straight mutuels and ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 1-5.

Double at Empire for D. C. Boy.

Empire City Race Track, New York, Aug. 1 (AP). — Apprentice Jockey Johnny Sullivan, of Washington, D. C., who is under contract to the Burch Brothers, Preston and Shelby, again shoved himself into the spotlight here today. The boy completed a double in the Pelham Purse, fourth on the card, guiding March Step, a 9 to 2 shot, to a hard earned victory over the mile and 70 yards route. Modern Ace was second, a neck behind and 4 lengths in advance of St. Omer. The latter was the third favorite on which Jockey Charlie Landolt failed to register. March Step made the good time of 1:44 1-5 over the well baked racing strip.

Sullivan previously had ridden Bataille, a close second choice at 2 to 1, to a neck victory in the opening race.

March Step had the speed of the 6-horses field and little Sullivan utilized it to full advantage. He let the gelded son of Light Brigade open up two lengths advance over St. Omer, another speed merchant, and his mount raced the favorite into submission after six furlongs. Modern Ace gradually improved his position but his powerful bid in the last furlong was a trifle late, as March Step gamely held onto the finish.

The veteran Johnny Maiben equaled Johnny Sullivan's feat of riding a double when Walda, at 6 to 1, was up to win the next to closing event by a half length. Wise Nat was favorite and led to the last sixteenth, where he succumbed to the winner's challenge. Giggley Ann saved the show, a length behind.

Bright Bubble Triumphs.

Coney Island, Ohio, Aug. 1 (AP).—Taking the lead when ready, S. Furst's Bright Bubble proved a galloping winner of Queen City Purse, the principal attraction on today's well-balanced card. J. T. Looney's Sweeprush was second and the Le Mar Stock Farm Stable's Morsel, third.

Morsel, equipped with high early speed, showed the way for the first three-quarters of the mile and seventy-yard spin, but quit badly when the real racing began. Bright Bubble, a daughter of the Kentucky Derby winner, Bubbling Over, took command turning into the straightaway, and was under a snug hold to win by three lengths.

Sweep Rush, well up for a half only to drop out of it, came again through the stretch to beat the tiring Morsel for the show. The winner was an odds-on choice, paying but $3.60 in the $2 mutuels.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

LOUIS MERIGNAC, foremost of the family of great French fencers, came out of retirement when he was past 60 year old to meet Cavalieri Pnii, famous Italian swordsman, in a match that was to show the relative merits of the French and Italian schools of fencing. The match, held a few years before the World War turned attention away from the sport, attracted a great deal of attention throughout European nations.

Merignac, still the master, defeated his Italian opponent; then remained active for another 10 years before he retired again, past 70, still undefeated.

The mirror does not show a true image of the picture it reflects—regardless of how perfect a surface the mirror may have. The image in the mirror is just exactly backwards from what it should be. That is to say, the right side of the face appears in the mirror's image as the left; the whole image is reversed. The most striking illustration of the mirror's reversing its image may be seen by holding a piece of written matter before it—every word, letter and line is in reverse.

Strange as it seems, the use of two mirrors at the same time will corect the reflection; the second re-reversing the reversed reflection of the first—making everything natural again. Not long ago it was announced that a scientist had invented a new kind of a mirror that reflects things the way they should be—which would probably be simpler than using two ordinary mirrors.

At the Post . . .

Dear Al: Hawthorne Race Track, August 1

You can count on Bill's beating the barrier. Prosperity was supposed to arrive until today, with the NRA badges, but having picked six winners yesterday he flew over into northern Canada, where there are said to be more trout than there are "suckers" at Hawthorne. If it's true, Bill will be burdened with fish.

It is some job that he has wished on me, trying to dope these horses, when there is no way of knowing whether they have had their daily "shot." Many of these nags know what "depression" really means. They plainly show that tired feeling on the way to the post. I am indebted to my good friend Col. T. Fred Moore, of Chicago and New York, for the word on Polydorus tomorrow. Here's hoping. Yours, MIKE.

First race—Maiden 2-year-olds, none of whom have ever had a "shot," will go in the day's opener. I am stringing with Minnequa, Parafour and Hero Olga.

Second race—Threat is consistent and figures to score. Battling Knight and Old Bill are the contenders. Should the promised rain materialize, then watch out for Old Bill.

Third race—Maiden 3-year-olds. None worth a thin dime. Glove, Battling Girl and Flatrock may finish in the money.

Sixth race—At the weights, must stick to Polydorus. Indian Runner and Gallant Sir will make a race out of it.

Seventh race—Beauty Secret is a sleeper and tomorrow may be the day. Bud Charlton and King Pin are as good as any.

Eighth race—Chokoloskee is the best bet of the day. Black Fool and Tarnish should chase him home.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LIBERTY OAK, $5.88, $4.22, $3.70; AMSCRAY, $3.82, $2.82; FIRE STAR, $6.62.

LIBERTY OAK, always close to pace and responding when ready at the final turn, assumed command and drew out decisively under light urging. AMSCRAY was forced to give ground while improving position, continued strongly in stretch and outgamed FIRE STAR. The latter, kept forwardly placed under hustling tactics, gained steadily in the final furlong to outstay COOLEY. The latter, under pressure while holding the lead, gave way readily when headed. HAMMEL was knocked off stride at the stretch turn. INDIAN SALUTE made up good ground. BILLY PAT tired.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:43. Off at 2:51½. Winner, L. Harbut's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL PARTH, $5.80, $4.22, $2.72; OWEN, $10.44, $4.80; PEEDEEQUE, $4.22.

GENERAL PARTH, far back early, but kept clear while improving position, continued strongly under hard riding and wore down OWEN in the final stride. OWEN worked way to front when finding a clearance, held on stubbornly when straightened away and just failed to last. PEEDEEQUE, fractious at the gate, made his move with the winner and, wedging his way through in the final furlong, was easily best of the others. ALCORAH suffered sharp interference approaching the stretch turn. NONA suffered from lack of racing zoom. SOCIAL SERVICE and MAMIE D. stopped badly in the final drive. GREY HIP also quit badly after showing most early foot.

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs (from chute). Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 3:15. Off at 3:17½. Winner, Mrs. F. M. Grabner's b. f. (3), by Sandmole—Shades of Night. Trained by G. Henze. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:48, 1:12 3-5, 1:19 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—NIGHT JASMINE, $9.50, $6.00, $3.70; VICTORIUM, $8.14, $4.46; LADYKIN, $3.30.

NIGHT JASMINE, kept well up from the start and getting on even terms with VICTORIUM midway of the stretch, outgamed the latter after long, hard drive. VICTORIUM, slightly used in shaking off ALPERS, came again when seemingly tiring and just failed to last. LADYKIN came the final three furlongs, made up much ground on the inside, but could not menace the leaders. REPRESENTATIVE showed a winning effort after breaking poorly. ROYAL PURCHASE swung wide at the final turn. WAYWARD LAD began tiring after reaching the stretch. ALPERS had good early foot and should improve from this effort.

FOURTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:40. Off at 3:47. Winner, A. A. Baroni's blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HOUR ZEV $7.62, $3.86, $3.10; LE BRUYERE, $4.58, $2.92; MOORISH AMULET, $8.30.

HOUR ZEV, taken back and reserved to the final quarter, where gaining steadily when ready, wore down LE BRUYERE in the final furlong. LE BRUYERE kept HAPPY ANNE safe while keeping close to the pace through the back stretch, took the lead when JACOB'S LADDER quit suddenly and, though tiring badly in final sixteenth, held the challenge of MOORISH AMULET safe. The latter worked way up rapidly after the first three furlongs and, closing str

Will Defeats Downey for East Potomac's Municipal Title

Stymies Play Big Part in Match

Winner to Meet Rippy, Rock Creek Champ, for Parks Crown.

By Dave Herman.

A BATTLE of stymies that saw both golfers produce a total of 12 and was climaxed with 2, ended successfully for Harlan Will, former Woodmont caddy, yesterday in the finals of the East Potomac division of the District public links championship.

In what was regarded as one of the most unusual matches in local municipal history, the raw-boned youngster, whose father is greenskeeper at Woodmont, defeated John Downey, 3 and 2, thus shaking off the jinx that often grips a medalist who attempts to win a tournament.

Will's victory earned him the right to meet Claude Rippy, winner of the Rock Creek division, today in the 36-hole finals to determine the 1933 public links champion—18 holes are slated this morning, starting at 9:30 at East Potomac, and 18 more this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Rock Creek. The Loffler Trophy, put in competition for the first time, will be the award.

Stymies Help Will More.

Will was the one who benefited more from the stymies. He laid his opponent seven of them, and Downey planted five. The medalist, however, played the better golf of the two, was straighter and more consistent off the tee, and proved more adept in the art of approaching. The monotonous regularity with which the stymies came prevented any spectacular putting.

After the first five holes had been halved—and there was some ragged golf—Will broke the ice by winning the sixth with a par 4 as Downey missed his second and took a 6. Will won the seventh with a birdie 3. They halved the eighth, and Downey cut down the lead to 1 up by driving the 281-yard ninth and barely missing a 6-footer for an eagle deuce.

The oppressive heat seemed to affect Downey more than it did Will, and the veteran began to slip badly on the home stretch. Shooting pars on both holes, Will increased his lead to 3 up by taking the eleventh and twelfth.

Downey took the fourteenth after each had stymied one another, but Will moved into a 3-up lead by capturing the fifteenth with a par 3 to Downey's 4, and the battle ended on the sixteenth green. Downey missed his tee shot and recovered nicely. It was on this green that Will had a putt for a birdie, but Downey got inside of him with his third shot, laying him a dead stymie. Will played safe for his 4 and a half.

Analysis of Stymies.

Here is an analysis of the stymies:

Fourth hole—Will stymied, gets half; fifth, both lay stymies for half; ninth, Downey stymied, wins hole; tenth, Downey stymied, gets half; twelfth, Downey stymied, Will wins hole; fourteenth, both stymied; Downey wins hole; fifteenth, Will stymied, Will wins hole; sixteenth, both stymied for half.

Tennis Choices Enter Round Of Eight

Only One Extra-Set Match Marks Southampton Tourney Play.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug 1 (AP).—The ranks of the seeded contingent in the Meadow Club's forty-third annual invitation tennis tournament held firm today as favorites filled all eight places in the quarter-final round with straight set victories.

The only extra set match of the day came in the first round where Jack Tidball, of Los Angeles, a late arrival, conquered Elmer Griffin, of New York, 11—9, 3—6, 6—4. Tidball, the new intercollegiate champion, then went on to eliminate Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., 6—4, 6—2 in the second round.

Accompanying the Californian into the round of eight were Sidney Wood, defending champion and top-seeded player; Frank Shields, seeded No. 2; Gregory S. Mangin, No. 3; Frankie Parker, No. 4; Dick Murphy, of Utica, N. Y.; John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, and Bryan Grant, of Atlanta.

Eddie Jacobs Beaten.

Wood played his best tennis of the year as he eliminated Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, winner Saturday of the Virginia State title, 6—4, 6—1. Shields, who captured the Seabright Bowl last week, was even more impressive as he swept through the veteran Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, without the loss of a game.

Mangin ousted Karl Kamrath, of Austin, Tex., 7—5, 6—2, and Parker, 17-year-old holder of the National Clay Courts title, rallied after a shaky start to eliminate Berkeley Bell, of New York, 6—4, 6—2.

Grant and Murphy, who eliminated Dr. Eugene McCaulliff, seeded eighth yesterday, accomplished the elimination of the two remaining members of the Oxford-Cambridge team. Grant defeated James W. Nuthall, 6—2, 6—4, while Murphy was brushing aside Peter S. Young, 6—3, 6—1.

Robert Bryan, of Chattanooga, conqueror of the sixth seeded player, J. Gilbert Hall, in the opening round, himself fell before the accurate stroking of McDiarmid, 6—2, 6—3.

the addition of Walters, the rookie third baseman from the Coast League, who crashed into the big leagues with a bang both at bat and in the field. Werber, the Berwyn boy, is making good in another trial at shortstop, and Dusty Cooke, erstwhile Yankee, is banging the ball again. Pipgras and Lloyd Brown have proved an effective shot in the arm for the pitching staff.

There is food for thought for Cronin, too, in the situation on his own club with Dave Harris making a powerful bid for regular outfield duty against left-handed pitching. Harris' two tremendous home runs on Monday off Gomez were refreshing wallops and with the Sox likely to work two southpaws, Lloyd Brown and Lefty Weiland, in the series here, Harris' presence in two of the games seems assured.

Watchful, Waiting Policy for Steele

Says Londos Must Make Advances in Mat Feature at Park Tomorrow.

Judging from the way the fans are clamoring for tickets, the latest chapter of the Jim Londos-Ray Steele serial, scheduled for tomorrow night at the Stadium, will draw another 7,000 crowd. Steele, many years younger than the champ, seems to be just a notch below him in class, and, generally, is looked upon as the Greek's ultimate successor. In their last meeting here, the going was rough and tough for more than an hour, Londos finally wearing down his foe with some flying mares and then tossing him head-first over the ropes.

The Steele man has been doing some thinking since this bout and has figured it all out. He has decided that he has been making a mistake carrying the fight to Londos and declares that the champ will have to be the aggressor tomorrow night. If things work out this way, well and good, but one can imagine what kind of a match it will be if each waits for the other to start something.

2 Players Fight As Cards Bow To Pirates

Swetonic, Watkins Banned for Row; Bucs Win, 9-3, to Near Leaders.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 1 (AP).—The Pittsburgh Pirates drew a game nearer to the league-leading New York Giants today as they defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 3, for their eighth straight victory, while the Giants lost to Boston. The victory put the Bucs only 2½ games behind New York.

The game started out as a Pittsburgh swatfest when the Bucs drove Bill Walker to cover and scored five runs in the first inning and wound up in a brief slugging match between Pitcher Steve Swetonic and George Watkins, Cardinals outfielder.

Swetonic, Watkins Fight.

The brief scrap came after Leo Durocher had been hit by a pitched ball in the seventh. Watkins made the last out of the inning and exchanged a few words with Swetonic. They squared off and started throwing punches, but other players and the umpires separated them and both were chased from the game. Waite Hoyt finished for Swetonic, who had given only five hits up to that time.

U. S. Public Parks Golf Lead to Boyer

East Moreland Municipal Court, Portland, Oreg., Aug 1 (AP).—It took a local boy to show the way in the first half of the qualifying round of the National Public Links Golf tournament today—Tab Boyer, a Portland favorite, cracking par wide open with a dazzling 68, four under perfect figures.

All the other 164 competitors with the exception of Robert Tomes, of Long Beach, Calif.; Bob Hofer, of Parkrose, Oreg., and Charles Ferrera, of San Francisco, struggled in vain to keep up with the "old man" of the course.

Racing Scribes Muffed Dope Story

Caught Flat-Footed Like Baseball Reporters in 1919 Scandal—Pegler.

By Westbrook Pegler.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—My friends, the horse journalists seem to have been caught flat-footed on the story of the doping of some 200 steeds at various whirligigs, North and South, just as the baseball reporters were caught tying their shoe, as the saying goes, when the beautiful scandal of the fake world series was breathing in their daily presence. There was no excuse for the baseball reporters in that case and if there have been 200 discovered cases of horse-needling in the last eight months, which would mean that there must have been at least twice that many undiscovered cases, the horse writers should have been able to give the customers some wind of these quaint practices.

The fact is that at almost any given time there are not too many real reporters among the baseball journalists. There are some very good newspapermen riding the trains with the clubs, of course, but year after year the regular lineup includes many dumb, credulous statisticians, historians, eccentrics and the inevitable sprinkling of simmering inebriates.

Stupefying Routine.

Baseball journalism is a stupefying routine. The best men for this work naturally are the real reporters who learned newspapering in the news department. They level off and settle down to the monotony only after great resistance, but then most men do level off in time and restrict themselves to the daily recountal of the ball game as will be shown by the files covering the period of the world series fraud. Out of an atmosphere that reeked of larceny, not so much as a hint was given that the boys were just engaging in a mockery.

In both baseball and racing the newspaper writer, unless he is of an unusually independent and rather fault-finding disposition, will be under a temptation to be regular. If he permits the good name of the grand old game to be intrusted to his keeping he presently finds himself wondering if he really ought to go in for destructive reporting or comment, whereas he should regard himself strictly as an outsider, without any interest in the preservation or decline of the sport.

Ought to Be Skeptical.

The horse journalist ought to be consistently skeptical because, while the racing business does engage the interest of some very rich people who are, rather carelessly, presumed to be above suspicion, it also attracts a very picturesque and generally evil assortment of vermin. Both of these elements own and operate stables of nags, and in a trade which has so many stars, jim-dashes and other type symbols to indicate whether a horse is of imported blood or is a maiden or what not, there should be some sort of special asterisk for use in the papers meaning "this horse is owned and operated by a gang of porch climbers."

But most horse writers grow technical, and pretty soon they fall into the habit of describing a steed, not by his business connections, which might be very informative to the reader, but merely as the good son of a certain sire and a certain dam, whose names mean nothing to my one but a confirmed and studious horse maniac.

Makes the Boys Lazy.

Around the horse parks it is a social custom to pour refreshments for the newspaper boys and only a prohibitionist would seem to have any reason for objecting to that. The trouble with that custom is, however, that it makes the boys lazy when they ought to be out sniffing, listening and generally hustling, and establishes a social and personal friendship between them and the owner or manager of the track.

One hesitates to write matter which would cause one's daily host any embarrassment, but a good journalist might do so, nevertheless, if it were not for the fact that in hanging around at his ease in a quiet hideaway he neglects to discover things which might very easily be discovered if he were using his legs and his brains. It is hardly possible to peer through the bottom of a glass in somebody's little playroom under the stands or somewhere off upstairs, and see what goes on in the barns or in the mutuel rooms. The results are there for anyone to shoot at and anyone who cares to argue that the citizens have been kept well informed as to what goes on in the racing business. The Government picked up seven prisoners not for needling horses, but for possessing drugs and just incidentally discovered evidence that in 200 instances horses had been tampered with. No horse reporter had said anything about that.

There are some tracks which should be covered not by the sports department at all, but by the police reporter, along with the rest of the stick-ups and confidence games.

Bank Robbery, Kidnap Suspect Captured Here

Garage Man Seized by 2 Capital Detectives; Ends Nation-Wide Hunt.

Two headquarters detectives yesterday brought to a close a Nation-wide search, in progress for a year, for Frank Zimmerman, alias Frank Schnider, manager of an L street garage, who is wanted in Illinois in connection with a $52,000 bank robbery, a kidnaping and a jail break.

For nearly two months the two, Sergts. R. J. Cox and C. H. Schrever, have been working on a tip that Zimmerman was in Washington. Yesterday they got their man.

Credit for the arrest in the case was first given to a detective agency operative. It later developed that this misunderstanding was caused by Zimmerman himself when he saw the private agent at headquarters, where he was taken yesterday afternoon.

Other Suspects Sought.

Zimmerman, who says he had been at the garage about six months, was placed under arrest on a fugitive warrant charging him with "robbery with a gun."

Other alleged members of the gang still being sought are Abe Kotich, Charles Tilden and Frank Katzewitz. They are all wanted in connection with the robbery of the Union National Bank of Streator, Ill.

In the course of the holdup, Charles Mitchell, of Marseilles, Ill., is said to have been kidnaped. The robbery occurred in May, 1932. It was learned last night that a sheriff's posse captured several members of the gang a short time after the robbery, and that they later escaped in a wholesale jailbreak engineered by the members of the gang at large. The jailbreak occurred at Ottawa, Ill.

Escape Plan Rumored.

Rumor had it last night that an attempt would be made by the gang to take Zimmerman from his cell at the Eleventh Precinct. Police denied that a special guard had been placed over the man.

The prisoner told detectives he had a car in readiness at all times to flee in case police came after him. In the capture yesterday, police blocked the only entrance to the garage before entering.

Zimmerman also told police that the private detective, whom he first blamed for his arrest, rented cars from his garage.

Seized Cashier's Family.

Streator, Ill., Aug. 1 (AP).—A gang of ten men robbed the Union National Bank of Streator, for which Frank Schneider, alias Zimmerman, was arrested today in Washington, D. C.

Promising the assistant chief of police and a patrolman a share in the loot for leaving the bank unguarded, two Streator men planned the job and enlisted six Chicago hoodlums to carry it out.

Three of the gunmen invaded the home of Earl McNamara, assistant cashier, held him and his family prisoners overnight, and forced him to open the vault after daybreak.

Four of the gang were arrested, one involved the policemen, and upon thier confession, two others were captured.

Zimmerman and a tenth member of the gang, however, escaped.

Gunmen released three of the prisoners in a daring raid on the county jail while trial was pending. In making their escape the fugitives kidnaped Charles Mitchell, a guard, held him overnight, and released him in Chicago.

Telephone Dispute Rests for Present

P. U. C. Not to Push Claim Now for Jurisdiction in Depreciation Charge.

The Public Utilities Commission will not try to establish jurisdiction over telephone depreciation charges at this time, Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, stated yesterday after receiving data from the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

In a letter made public by the commission, R. A. Van Orsdel, counsel of the telephone company, again challenged jurisdiction of the District Commission over depreciation charges, holding such authority belonged solely to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The telephone company gave the commission all the information used in fixing depreciation rates, and stated that it would comply with the I. C. C. order to furnish the data required by the I. C. C. on or before August 1, 1934.

Beaten Woman Found in Home May Not Live

Discovered Unconscious; Man Neighbor Held for Questioning.

Three days after she is said to have been beaten by a male acquaintance, Mrs. Helen Cooley, 32, was found unconscious on the floor of her apartment at 1114 Eleventh street northwest yesterday.

She was taken to Emergency Hospital where she was said to have a fractured skull and is not expected to live.

The woman was found by a friend, Miss Josephine Dowyer, 1402 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Miss Dowyer said her friend told her three days ago that a man had beaten her, but that she has since been going about her home.

Mrs. Cooley's body was covered with bruises, police said.

Police arrested William F. Kelley, 53, who lives in the apartment adjoining that of Mrs. Cooley. Kelley was booked for investigation.

Kidnaping Alarm Given by Woman

Calls From Auto Asking Bystander to Notify Police of Plight.

"Call police, I am being kidnaped," a young woman in a large sedan bearing Pennsylvania license plates, shouted to Leonard Weimer as he was standing at Connecticut avenue and Ingomar street last night.

Weimer and a friend notified police headquarters. An immediate lookout was flashed for a Buick sedan with tags 3L503 or 3L53.

A child was seated beside the woman, Weimer said, and she apparently could have jumped out of the car if she wished, as it was traveling slowly. The driver, he said, paid no attention to the woman's call.

$175 Diamond Pin Stolen.

Burglars broke in the apartment of Miss Victorine Avvara, 2032 Belmont street northwest, yesterday, and stole a diamond pin valued at $175 and $30 in cash, she reported to police.

Policeman Deane Dismissed.

Private George B. Deane, of the Fourth Police Precinct, was dismissed yesterday from the Police Department by order of the District Commissioners upon conviction by the Trial Board of immoral conduct.

Two Detectives In Beating Case To Keep Jobs

Asserted Victim Refuses to Prosecute Men Under Suspension.

No charges will be filed against Detectives Joseph W. Shimon and William V. Christian in connection with the alleged beating of a colored prisoner, Assistant United States Attorney Milford Schwartz said yesterday after interviewing the prisoner, Thomas B. Washington, 26.

Schwartz said Washington told him the detectives beat him with their fists in the squad room at Third Precinct.

Washington refused to prosecute the officers, according to Schwartz. He said the colored tap dancer showed evidences of having received a beating.

It was expected that the two detectives, who were suspended Monday, will be reinstated tomorrow.

The two men were highly regarded in the department, said Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, acting chief of police.

Capital Man Returns From Funeral of Sister

J. Monroe Stevens, of 4226 Third street northwest, returned to his home yesterday from St. Jacob, Ill., where he attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Lillian Burr Allen, wife of Dr. W. Burr Allen, well-known physician of Chicago and Evanston, and formerly dean of the University of Osteopathy, Chicago.

Mrs. Allen, who was 58, died while on a visit to St. Louis, July 22. She was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Stevens. Surviving her are two brothers, J. Monroe Stevens and Horace B. Stevens, of St. Louis, and two sisters, Mrs. L. D. Sweeny, of St. Louis, and Mrs. A. Vernon Marsh, of San Diego, Calif.

2 Hurt in Blaze In Bedding Store

Fireman, Roomer Injured in 2-Alarm Battle on Seventh Street.

Two men were injured and traffic was tied up a half hour yesterday while firemen fought a two-alarm blaze in the Outlet Bedding Co. store at 739 Seventh street northwest. Direct damage was set at only $50, however.

Smoke from the fire, which was confined to packing material in the basement, was so dense a second alarm was turned in.

Alfred Sparrow, 22, who lives above the store, was overcome by smoke and was taken to Emergency Hospital. Fireman S. Pope, of No. 6 Engine Company, also was taken to Emergency Hospital when he tore the ligaments in his ankle.

Clothing in the Globe store at 741 Seventh street was damaged by smoke to the extent of $500, according to Fire Marshal C. B. Lauber.

Church Honors Jesuits Going To Philippines

8 Scholastics to Continue Missionary Studies at Schools in Isles.

Eight young scholastics of the Jesuit Order last night received their departure assignments at a Jesuit missionary ceremony held at St. Aloysius Church. The newly consecrated Bishop of Cagayan, P. I., the Most Rev. James T. G. Hayes, presided.

The young men will continue their studies at the novitiate and juniorate of the Sacred Heart in Novaliches, near Manila, P. I. They are Frederick A. Brew, of Washington; Leo H. Bradley and Nicholas Kunkel, of Baltimore; Walter Hogan and Francis Renz, of Philadelphia; Kyran J. Egan, of Newark; Robert B. Reilly, of Jersey City, and James Koller, of Buffalo.

Following the ceremony, in which the men received their assignments from the Very Rev. Edward C. Phillips, provincial of Maryland-New York province of the Society of Jesus, Bishop Hayes praised St. Aloysius' Parish for its support of Philippine missionary work.

After the ceremony six of the scholastics left for their homes to bid farewell to their families. They will sail from the Pacific Coast August 16. Two of the scholastics, Mr. Hogan and Mr. Renz, leave in September.

Sending scholastics to the Philippines to complete their studies is an innovation, although for some years it has been customary to send Jesuit scholastics there to spend their regency or teaching period.

20 Uniforms Taken In Tailor Shop Theft

Twenty uniforms belonging to the Georgetown Athletic Association were stolen last night from the tailor shop of Stephen J. Barabas, at 1248 Thirty-sixth street. The uniforms were valued at $165.

Mystery Surrounds Vinall Boys' Return

Whether Lads Taken Away by Rev. H. P. Brock Are Back Is Unknown.

Mystery last night cloaked the scheduled arrival in Washington of the two sons of Robert P. Vinall, Bureau of Engraving and Printing plate printer, who were spirited away to England last March by the Rev. H. Priestly Brock.

It was learned at the State Department yesterday that the lads were to dock in New York at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. They were accompanied by either a State Department emissary or a representative of the Episcopal Church.

At Mr. Vinall's house, the only comment was by a younger brother of the boys.

"I haven't a thing to say," said the lad. "My father isn't home." The boy was nearly in tears. He would not answer any queries as to whether his brothers were home.

At the home of the Rev. George Dow, who has been closely identified with the search for the boys, no comment was forthcoming.

Man Causes Near Panic Firing Shotgun in Alley

A desire to shoot his double-barrel shotgun last night landed Clifton Wunbush, 34, colored, of 1423 Eleventh street northwest, in jail, brought out the police riot squad, and created a near panic among the colored people living in the vicinity.

Police say Wunbush went into the alley behind his home and fired the shotgun. Neighbors believed the man had run amuck, called police and the riot car and a squad from No. 2 Precinct responded. Wunbush was found hiding in the alley. He was booked on charges of firing a weapon within the District.

New Attitude Of Mortgagees Favors Bonds

Home Owners May Get Help From Federal Plan of Refinancing.

A changed attitude by mortgage holders toward acceptance of the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation was evidenced in Washington yesterday at the corporation's office.

Loan organizations and individuals were reported more eager to accept the bonds. Optimism is believed to have been infused into the viewpoints of the mortgagees by the decision to have the Treasury Department accept the bonds at par as collateral security against deposits of public monies and by agreement of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to accept the bonds as collateral security on loans at 80 per cent of their par value.

Applicants for loans totaled 250, less than half on the first day. The volunteer staff of workers was cut in half.

Charles A. Jones, manager of the office, and his assistant, Paul J. Frizzell, began examining the applications last night. Appraisal work is expected to begin tomorrow.

Park Sleeper's Hat And Shoes Stolen

George Washington, 32, of 719 Seventh street northwest, was tired and hot yesterday morning. In a park on Massachusetts avenue near Fifth street he lay down for a few hours until daybreak.

Came the dawn. George awoke. His straw hat was gone and his shoes were stolen.

Two Civilians To Head Parks And Buildings

Secretary Ickes to Make Appointments to Both of Offices.

Appointment of two civilian heads, one to direct operation of District public parks and the other public buildings is expected from Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes before August 10.

This procedure conforms with the first Executive order which called for abolition of the single office held by Col. James A. Woodruff since July 1 until yesterday, when he was transferred to troop duty at Fort Humphries. On August 10, the Interior Department absorbs the present Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks and commences the reorganization.

Despite shifts and new appointments, the Park Police will continue under direction of Capt. P. J. Carroll, who has been with the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks for 36 years. Capt. Doyle O. Hickey, chief and superintendent of the Park Police, yesterday was also transferred to Army duty. He returns to Fort Myer.

In addition to Col. Woodruff and Capt. Hickey, other transfers in the department yesterday saw Maj. Douglas H. Gillette ordered to take the 1933-35 course at the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth; Capt. Ellis E. Haring to the chief engineer's office of the War Department, and Capt. August W. Spittler to work under the surgeon general.

Colombia Gaining, Prof. Rippy Holds

In recent years Colombia has taken its place among the most progressive of Spanish America's nations, Prof. J. Fred Rippy, of Duke University, declared in his final lecture yesterday before the George Washington University conference on Hispanic American affairs.

Though Chile is included with Argentina and Brazil as the "A B C" countries and the leading nations of South America, Prof. Rippy said that since 1920 it might be more correct to assign Colombia the place of Chile in the group.

While Colombia has been moving forward with remarkable strides, he said, Chile has been slowly losing ground both politically and economically.

Department Rescinds Its Elimination Order After Protest.

Chevy Chase, Md., will not lose its postoffice.

First Assistant Postmaster General Joseph C. O'Mahoney announced late yesterday that the plan to consolidate it with the Chevy Chase, D. C., postoffice has been abandoned.

The move, which was considered as a economy measure, met with hearty protest from Maryland residents, who offered the Government free rent if the office would be continued as in the past.

It could not be learned whether the Government took advantage of the free rent proffer. In any event, the office will not be closed. Both Chevy Chase offices are branches of the Washington city postoffice.

Welfare Board Lays Plans to Extend Work

Assured of Federal Funds, Branch Relief Stations Will Be Set Up.

Assured of adequate Federal grants to supplement the District's unemployment funds, the emergency relief committee of the Board of Public Welfare last night laid plans to extend its work.

Three branch stations for receiving applications for aid will be established to relieve congestion at the emergency relief headquarters at the old Metropolitan Methodist Church. One branch will be in Georgetown and one in Southeast Washington.

After receiving the second Federal grant of $173,353 yesterday, the committee increased the weekly expenditures from $48,000 to $50,000. Director George S. Wilson said that this maximum will be increased if additional Federal grants are forthcoming.

Alan Johnstone, field representative of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, last week assured the District Commissioners that the District would get more money to extend its relief work.
